A letter from Robert Ridgway who is on a transport at sea, states that he saw Argyl Likens on board, and what a surprise to meet a friend in mid-ocean. The boys are fine. Likens has been in the army for about a year.

JUNE 14TH

June 14 is Flag Day and our national emblem of the free will fly by the flags of our allies again this year. To pay it praise we must first honor its glory and recognize its worth, in our hearts and minds. If we are not deeply stirred as the country's flag unfurls, then we cannot justly appreciate that for which it stands. There should be something very inspiring about Old Glory waving, a consciousness that over many beloved heads on many foreign soils, this flag looks down. Those stars bring tears to man's eyes in some hell hole of battle, those stripes bind together in fellowship boys of all colors on some foreign strand. Do we appreciate the beauty of our flag less at home than were we on a field of combat? This should not be so. To a man, we raise our eyes in a salute to the banner of our naitonal redemption.

ALLIED INVASION IN FULL SWING

The waiting is over. The invasion is on in full swing.

Allied fighting men are back in Europe four years and three days after being forced out of Dunkerque. But this time they're there to stay.

Great fleets of landing craft have disgorged thousands of fighting men along the northeast shore of the French Normandy peninsula, which thrusts thumb-like, into the channel some 90 to 100 miles below Britain. The invaders apparently have come ashore along the coastline stretching from Cherbourg, on the tip of the peninsula, to LeHavre, at the northeastern base.

The first objective of the invasion apparently is to slice off the northern tip of the peninsula. Some troops have landed in the estuary of the Vire river, which cuts across the peninsula in a west-by-south direction. The Vire is important because its valley presents an excellent path to cut off the "nail" from the Normandy "thumb."

USE TAX STAMP TO BE PURCHASED THIS MONTH

Will H. Smith, Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of Indiana, announces that auto use tax stamps in the denomination of $5.00 have been placed on sale in all post-offices and at the Internal Revenue Offices in Indianapolis, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Gary, Lawrenceburg, Muncie, South Bend, and Terre Haute. The stamps will evidence payment of the tax for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1944, and must be purchased on or before that date. The stamps will be serially numbered, will be gummed on the face, and will have provision on the back for entry of the make, model, serial number and state license number of the vehicle.

Mr. Smith said that, to guard against loss or theft, it has been suggested that, when affixing the stamps, the vehicle owner should dampen the wind shield rather than the adhesive side of the stamp. This method has been recommended to keep the stamp intact upon the wind shield. As an additional precaution, it has also been suggested that each motor vehicle owner should make a record of the serial number which appears on the use tax stamp for protection in the event the stamp should become lost.

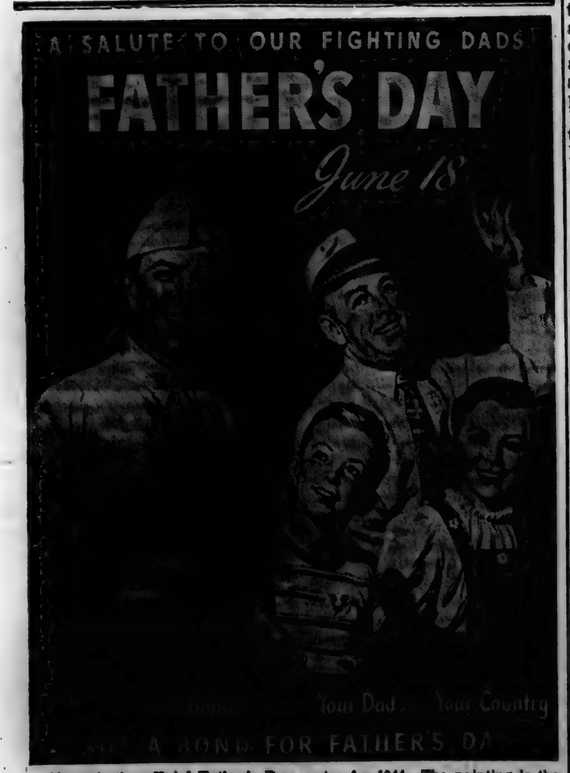
Every owner of a motor vehicle which is used upon the highway should call at his local postoffice or at the office of the Internal Revenue Collector and secure a $5.00 use tax stamp and affix it to his vehicle on or before July 1, 1944, the Collector said. The various post-offices will sell the stamps over the counter for cash only and no mail order business with respect thereto will be conducted by the post offices. Collectors of Internal Revenue are authorized to accept cash, postoffice money orders, and certified checks in payment of the use tax stamp. Uncertified checks will not be accepted.

Sale of the less than $5 denomination use tax stamps in postoffices has been discontinued. Such offices will stock the $5 denomination stamps only and motor vehicle owners liable for payment of the use tax for periods of less than a full year must obtain their stamps in lesser denominations from the Collector of Internal Revenue.

It is the desire of the Bureau of Internal Revenue that the use tax stamp shall be placed on the windshield in a location that will not be in conflict with State requirements. Mr. Smith stresses the fact that the use tax law has not been repealed and cautions motor vehicle owners that failure to purchase and display the new use tax stamps on vehicles using the public highways after July 1, 1944, will subject the violators to severe penalties imposed by law.

HIS DAY

Father's Day finds its victim entrenched more firmly in the American home as Father is doing an increasing share of the housework due to Mother doing her share of war work outside the home. There was a time when they tried to keep Dad out of the kitchen and now they try to get him into it! This day was set aside in respect for the breadwinner. But today the entire family is helping earn the bread with concentrated effort in aiding the war effort. Yet all glory is not taken from the head of the family. Honor of the parent is a survival of family life down through the ages and not just a date we celebrate the third Sunday of June. In a high powered generation, it sometimes seems that "Honor thy Father and Mother" is about the only one of the Ten Commandments that hasn't lost its meaning. This year, with all of the extra burdens on Father, the pressure of living, responsibility and worry for his brood, the gesture of this day is of marked importance. St. Joe salutes its Dads.



Above is the official Father's Day poster for 1944. The painting is the work of Herbert Bohnert, famous poster illustrator. The original is in four colors and will be printed in these same four colors in many sizes and shapes and distributed throughout the country. The poster is dedicated to the Father Bond Drive of the United States Treasury Department.

COUNTY'S FARMERS CAN REDUCE COSTS

Farmers of DeKalb County, many of whom have indicated through a national survey their desire to own a "Jeep' after the war, can save approximately $1,207,305 for post-war rehabilitation if they take advantage of the scout car's four-sided personality, a recent study reveals.

This figure is based on the difference between the estimated price of a post-war Jeep and the total cost of the four farm units which, according to extensive research and experimentation, it can replace.

Recent tests by accredited farm experts, including officials of the Department of Agriculture, reveal that the Jeep has "a great deal of farm blood in its mechanical veins," according to Ward M. Canaday, president of Willys-Overland Motors, who said his company's engineers have proven "on the soil" that the scout car can be used as an effective four-purpose substitute for the horse, the tractor, the independent power unit and the light truck.

In the Department of Agriculture's report on its recent experiments with the vehicle, issued by R. B. Gray, head of the Farm Equipment and Research Division, the Jeep was described as "highly useful in plowing, harrowing and other field work."

First findings in the continuing Jeep studies being made by the agricultural engineering departments of Washington State College and Ohio State University demonstrates that the vehicle, in its present military form, serves many all-round purposes effectively, especially for the small farm.

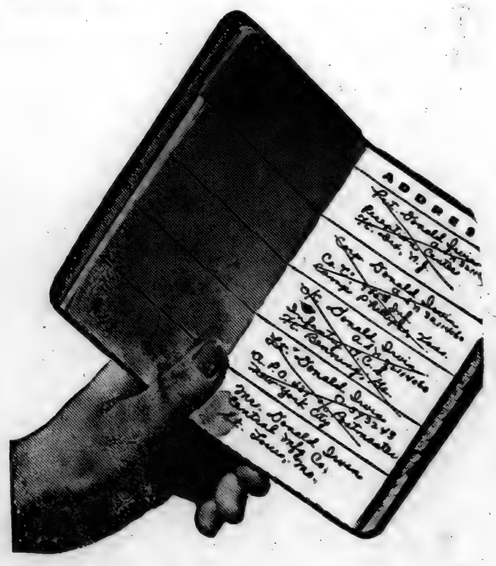
THE FIFTH DRIVE

From June 12-26 we subscribe to the nation's fifth war loan drive. The goal is 16 billion dollars and that is 2 billion higher than the fourth drive for bonds. Since war expenses for the first three months of 1944 were over 23 billion, it gives us an idea of how much is needed to keep going. From all indications of the money being spent today for non-essentials, the bond drive should be over subscribed, if those spenders get wise. If money is to be circulated, for what better purpose than in a government bond, to protect the lives of our sons and the destiny of our country? War demands much of all of us in St. Joe and Spencerville. Chaps over there are anxious to get back home to a chicken dinner on Sunday with the family, a chance to haunt the corner drugstore, an opportunity to yell at the baseball umpire, a trip to a favorite fishing spot. Give them a chance by helping to buy their ticket back home, with your purchase of a war bond.

Serial story of the boy next door



It's Don's story. But the name could just as well be Walt or Jim or Bob or any other.

• And, of course, the fifth entry in the little address book really hasn't been written yet. But it will be—and we hope to have a hand in making it come true.

• When Don and millions like him went to war, they were given the best weapons and equipment in the world. Equipment turned out fast by machines that were turned by plentiful, low-priced electric power.

• When these boys come home again, electric power will be ready in even greater abundance—to serve new industries and create new opportunities. For power makes production—and production makes jobs.

• The electric light and power companies are prepared for peace as they were for war—thanks to foresight, planning and sound business management.

• They're keeping rates low as costs rise. And they're supplying well over 80% of America's electric service—the best, as well as the most, that any nation enjoys.

TRY A SALAD

Many of us never have to be urged to eat our salad, for we like our green stuff that way and not just because we are getting those highly touted vitamins, either. Mainly a salad is something very special and when it is even put into verse, surely its station is elevated above many other foods. The art of salad making is one that has left pert words flying, especially with regard to the dressing used in them. The Spaniards use this proverb that might carry weight to our readers, "A miser for vinegar and a spendthrift for oil." There is the school of garlic users who apply the tomato abundantly, those persons who insist that a touch of sugar gives added flavor and others who cry against such sacrilege. Spring greens offer us a wide range and with an eye to health and another to taste, if ever our gourmet's taste is to be saisfied, these are now our "salad days."

Disturbing

During the Sunday morning sermon a baby began to cry at the top of its voice, and its mother carried it toward the door.

"Stop," said the minister, "you're baby is not disturbing me."

The mother turned toward the pulpit and addressed the preacher:

"Oh, he ain't, ain't he? Well, you're disturbin' him."

There is nothing quite as busy as idle curiosity.

Flag Etiquette Varies but Slightly in 50 Years; Display Variations Rare

The observance of Flag day on June 14, 1944, is of greater significance than at any time in history. For today Old Glory is flying at the peak of flagstaffs not only throughout our own broad nation but in many of the remotest spots on earth.

Every American should be familiar with the proper etiquette and respect which is to be accorded our national banner at all times. What American hasn't felt the surge of patriotism as he has watched the flag go by and stood at attention to salute it?

The custom of display and homage to the flag has been a standard one for more than half a century and today it remains essentially the same. However, a few slight changes and one or two rather pertinent ones have been made in the flag code during recent years.

Congress a year or so ago amended several of the existing rules and customs pertaining to the flag code. The main change, however, deals with the pledge of allegiance. The variation is a slight but purposeful one. Civilians repeating the pledge should merely place the right hand over the heart and should not raise their hands and point to the flag as was previously the custom.

Occasionally in the observance of flag day there may occur an innocent violation in handling the flag. It might be well for us to refresh ourselves in a number of the salient phases to be adhered to in displaying the flag on this day.

The flag should be flown only from sunrise to sunset and on stationary flagstaffs in the open. Unless there is a special reason for doing so the flag should never be flown in rainy or stormy weather. It should always be raised briskly and lowered slowly. The flag should never be used for receiving or holding anything. It should never be permitted to trail on the ground.

But it is quite rare when an American permits any of these things to happen to it when handling the flag. And as for the display of the national emblem this Flag day the traditional effect will be heightened by the number of our American men and women who are fighting and working valiantly to keep it flying everywhere it has been hoisted.

And those of us on the home front, when we unfurl the Stars and Stripes to the breezes this Flag day, 1944, will again renew the allegiance to its proud colors and to the gallant fighters who carry the flag with them into the battles they wage to see that it flies forever over a free land.

"Hats off—the Flag goes by . . ."

Amphibious Training Base,
Norfolk (11) Va.

To the Editor:

Sir, enclosed is an official Navy release concerning a member of your community. You are no doubt aware of the tremendous importance of the Amphibious Force, as an integral part of the Navy. Amphibious craft, in both the Pacific and the Atlantic Oceans are paving the way for attacking forces of all branches of the Military Services. Crews selected to man these crafts are highly trained, capable of performing all of the varied duties to which they are assigned. Indeed, both the men and their ships are news.

Yours very truly,
David E. Blanton,
Lieutenant, U. S. N. R.
By Direction.

"Richmond, Carl, W. F. 1/c, whose family resides at Bath, Mich., is now an Integral Member of the Amphibious Forces of the United States Navy.

"At the completion of his preliminary training at the Amphibious Training Base, Camp Bradford, N.O.B. Norfolk, Va., Richmond, Carl W. F. 1/c, has been assigned to the crew of an L.S.T. for active duty. The L.S.T. is especially constructed for the Transportation of Troops, and heavy equipment. It has a bow that can be opened when it comes into the beach which enables men and equipment to land ready for action. This type of Amphibious craft is as large as a Destroyer, and it is the largest of the Amphibious Ships capable of making landings directly on the Beach.

"Like the Naval Air Force and the Subarmine Service, the physical requirements of the Amphibious Force are greater than for the other branches of the Naval Service.

"To qualify for assignment to any of the Amphibious Craft a candidate must successfully complete a thorough and varied curriculum.

"The Amphibious Force is one of the branches of the Navy that is now playing an important role in carrying the attack to the enemy. In every landing that has been made to date, the Amphibious Force has carried the men and material into the Beaches. Such is the quality of the training given to both officers and enlisted men, and the sturdiness of the craft which they operate."

On Our Way

People in the United States are still allowed to own property. We are all used to the idea and it does not seem strange to us, but in some countries it is not allowed and many politicians oppose it. They are not all in far-away Muscovy either. Some people right here in America think it is wrong to own property. They are not saying much about it because such talk would do them no good right now. But they are gaining converts quietly.

Fortunately a big share of Congress is elected by farmers, even yet. Farmers own property and like it. Suppose some farm-state congressman should dare to suggest that all farmers surrender their fields to the government and take a government farm job. He would be a false representative; would face sure defeat at the polls. That's why communists have to hide from Congress while they cook their imported poisons into medicine for you and me.

The First Objective

One of the main things that communist politicians are aiming at is the "abolition of private property." Of course they can't argue anybody into the notion of giving away their property. They know that. The only way they can separate an owner from his property is to make it impossible for him to keep it. The easiest way to do that is to make taxes so high he can't afford to own it. That's about what's happening here now.

The communist platform of Karl Marx has in it two wicked tools for transferring property to the government from private individuals, such as farmers:

(1) A heavy, graduated income tax—the bigger the income the higher the rate.

(2) Killing the right of inheritance.

Together, those two instruments can do the foul work they are designed to do. By the way, we have No. 1 in America already. No. 2 has been seriously advocated in our own Congress.

A Ceiling Necessary.

Congress could set up no better fender against communism in this country, could devise no safer strategy for the home front, than to take tax laws more intelligently in hand. There is a movement on foot already to amend the Federal Constitution so as to make 25% the top tax rate on gifts and inheritances and, except in war time, on personal incomes. Maybe 25% is high; but it's a ceiling and I'm for it.

Already 14 states: Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Wisconsin and Wyoming have endorsed the move by act of legislature. Such a Constitutional Amendment would bring several incidental benefits to national prosperity besides setting up a safeguard against the transfer of private property into public hands by the tax route.

Let Incentive Live

Only recently this column told about an aged man of means declining to finance a promising home enterprise because the biggest possible return (after taxes) on his investment could not justify the risks involved, although the risks seemed small. Without a chance for financial improvement, old men will not risk their savings, nor will young men contribute their time, energy and ingenuity. Tax rates like 85c on the dollar paralyze progress.

Opportunities to make a profit start new industries and keep old ones going. The United States is sure of an employment problem after the war, unless industry is freed from the ball-and-chain effect of existing taxes.

"The real remedy for unemployment is the creation and maintenance of work opportunities for working men and women in private industry." Who said that? None other than Matthew Woll, while he was vice-president of the American Federation of Labor. He was dead right too.

The Lions Club met at the Lutheran Church basement, St. Joe, Monday evening and following an exceptionally good dinner, president F. B. Leighty called for report of delegate to the South Bend convention. Lion Duker attended and sent back a very good report, read by secretary Wicoff. Educational director Rectenwall brot another of his instructive talks. He told of the birth of Lionism and the reasons for the existance of the international organization.

The nominating committee reported the following nominations:

Pres., D. B. Ridgway.
1st. Vice., Franklin Robinson
2nd. Vice., C. G. Rectenwall
3rd. Vice., Clifford Billow.
Sec.-Treas., Dale Wicoff.
Tail Twister, Herman Zuber.
Directors: W. L. Hurni and Claude Laub.
Old Directors: Frank Sellers and Everett Paschen.

The election will be held at the next meeting at the Spencerville Methodist Church, on June 26th.

Fisher C. West, of Auburn, head of the war bond drive for DeKalb County, presented his plea for a concerted effort to meet our quota which is $1,200,400 and he explained the several securities offered on this fifth bond drive.

George W. Wolf, of Indianapolis, who had previously been connected with the state insurance department for three years was introduced. He recounts the importance of this organization in the purchases of insurance and the protection they are giving to we citizens of our good Hoosier State. The policy holder in Indiana has a wonderful protection and if he is careful to buy of licensed companies, his insurance is reliable and safe. Mr. Wolf gave one of the most instructive talks ever brought to the local club.

District Governor, Chas. Haight, of East Chicago, will be among the guests at the next meeting. This meeting will close the fourth year of the existance of the Lions Club, and will be marked by some special awards being given to its members.

"INTERPRETATIONS"

BAPTISM

Summary of Part I

Baptism is a divine means of Grace given to initiate us into the new covenant with God established by Jesus Christ. Baptism consists of two parts only —water and the Word of God. Baptism signifies burial in the Word of God. Dipping in water is the most dramatic mode of administering this Sacrament to adults.

Part II

But What About Small Children?

Every human being shares in the universality of sin and hence in the need for salvation from the power of evil (in his heart) against which he is by nature helpless and by indulgence destroyed. "That which is born of the flesh is flesh" and it inherits socially a natural love of self and hatred of God so that even the "innocent" little child of a few days must be "reborn"—made a new creature which is able to serve and please God, or it will become another devil of which there are already legions. No amount of discipline, or resolution or reformation will be able to change his selfish and rebellious nature. His nature must be changed by the Christ-released power of God which "works the forgiveness of sins, delivers from death and the devil and gives everlasting salvation to all who believe what the Words and promises of God declare."

Baptism itself does not give salvation but Baptism—the water and the Word—plus faith in this Word of God can and does produce this effect or blessing. This brings us again to the question of infant baptism.

Some would withhold Baptism from children on the ground that they cannot have faith, as though faith were a prerequisite to or a part of Baptism. This would be the baptism of repentance preached by John the Baptist, and if it were also the Christian conception of Baptism, then children certainly would be barred for they can neither repent nor believe. But faith has no necessity in Christian baptism except to act upon the rights and privileges which God bestows by it. This faith is needed only by the one who has control over a life to bury it in the Word of God. For an adult this will be the person himself but for the child it will be his parents or guardians. (The sponsors of children presented for baptism must be themselves Christians.)

Others rush the administration of Baptism to children for fear that the child might die unbaptized and be damned. To that part of the Church, (The Roman Cotholics) baptism is considered a kind of magical rite which works salvation in the heart of the child irrespective of faith either on its own part or that of the sponsors. It was in rejection of and in opposition to this interpretation of baptism that the anabaptist error of "believers baptism" was evolved.

An unbaptized child is neither baptized nor saved but he is on his way to being damned if each day brings him closer to the age of moral responsibility without bringing him closer also to faith in Christ. Infants are not to be baptized for fear they will die young but for fear they may live to become their own rules without a foundation for faith.

Every child needs the benefits which baptism gives and the sooner they are bestowed and begin working the better for we know a child's life pattern is fully developed in those few years before he starts to public school. It is true that it is possible for parents to bury their child in the Word of God so that he finally comes to faith without baptism, but why deprive the child of a God-given seal (the New Testament successor to Old Testament Circumcision) and growing assurance that he is already a child of God.

Since true baptism consists of the water and the Word only, requiring no faith to be received, and since the water used only signifies burial in the Word of God, requiring only a token amount of water to be used, what doth hinder these little ones from receiving this Means of Grace. It is a gift of God, not an act of faith. It is immersion in God's Word, not dipping in water. It is the natural preface to Faith. Why try to make everyone an exception by insisting on faith first? If you have been reading Acts 2: 38 for several years, now read Acts 2: 39. Further explanation of this subject will be given privately to anyone requesting it.

THUNDERBOLT OF DESTRUCTION

THE speed at which American industry responded to the country's demand for the production of war materials astonished the world and most of all the Axis nations. When they planned treacherous war on unprepared nations—blitzkrieg or "lightning war" as they call it, they underestimated one important thing—the thunderbolt of machine production that will destroy them. With unbelievable rapidity, our men and machines have produced ships and planes and guns. They were able to do this because when war struck, ample electricity was ready and waiting to drive the machines. It was waiting because far-sighted business management in the electric power industry planned well in advance of the demand and millions of electrical horsepower were ready to pour energy into the machines that make the weapons of war.

Think of it! More power in the United States than the Axis nations and their satellites combined and over 80% of it produced by business managed electric companies.

CASHING THEM IN

Too bad that some will buy War Bonds just for show and then cash them in after the impression of patriotism has been ade. They used to call this being an "Indian giver." There are cases where firms have compelled employees to be 100% perfect in their purchase record and then suggest that they cash in the bonds after the first full, impressive figures have been publicised. Sometimes it is necessary to cash in on bonds, often an excuse is understandable, but unfortunately the common habit finds the reneging not justifiable. One should realize that holding on to a war bond is not only aiding the war effort but from a financial standpoint, a war bond is as sound and secure an investment one could have today.

MORE RELIGIOUS

The call for Bibles for present needs is so great that the demands can't be met. This is not surprising for when man is in trouble he turns to his religion. When man is safe and secure he sits in his comfort and thinks little of sudden death. But when he faces it daily, is surrounded by it, reads of it, of the hardships and heartaches entailed by war, then religion becomes of paramount interest to him and he opens his Bible. This is as it should be since in the face of danger we promise ourselves that we will earnestly try to do better another time, we think of good and noble living. In battle it is not only that one is called to his faith, but he accepts the help that any faith will answer. Soldiers haven't time to quarrel about denominational differences. In the face of hidden danger only religion counts, not just certain creeds and sects. Inborn in all of us is a religious nature which might be covered by layers of vague living and indefinite indecisions, but when trials confront us, we throw aside these coverings and bring up our beliefs in faith. Danger makes us want for a serene life, a better one, as we mentally search for higher things. This is religion and the reason for the increased demand for Bibles.

HELL DIVING'S HIS JOB ..LENDING IS YOURS!

WITH GUNS BLAZING and a prayer in his stout heart, this American fighter is hell-bent on destruction of our enemies. HE is not thinking of how little or how much he's doing to help win the war. For him, the chips are down; but his fighting spirit is as high as the heavens from which his plane is diving.

In cramped foxholes and disease-infested jungles, on sun-scorched beachheads—under and over the seven seas—other Americans are matching his courage. And their name is legion. They KNOW that war is a bloody business; that their lives, as well as yours, are now at stake. You cannot—you must not—let them down.

Is it asking too much of you to back these men up by buying more, and still more, War Bonds? There can be but one answer. You'll find it in your own heart.

And remember, too, as you dig deeper than ever before into your pocketbook or cash surplus, that the Fifth War Loan MUST raise 16 billion dollars. It is the greatest financing drive the world has ever known . . . to back up the greatest invasion drive the world has ever known.

And Here Are 5 MORE Reasons for Buying EXTRA Bonds in the 5th!

1. War Bonds are the best, the safest investment in the world!

2. War Bonds return you $4 for every $3 in 10 years.

3. War Bonds help keep prices down.

4. War Bonds will help win the peace by increasing purchasing power after the war.

5. War Bonds mean education for your children, security for you, funds for retirement.

B. & O. HEARING HELD LAST THURSDAY

The hearing of the B. & O. petition before the Public Service Commision at the school house was attended by a large group of locally interested people. The petition asked for permission to make St. Joe a non-agent station, and their chief witness was W. E. Frazier, of Garrett, who has charge of the operators and agents between Willard and Chicago. He reported a loss of 14 in this district at the present time, and that by closing St. Joe, the agent could be transferred to another place on this division.

In substitute for an agent he proposed to transfer all the business to the tower, first trick, where this man has on the average of 27 trains to care for during this time, the shifting of 14 levers out of 20, and answering of 14 company phones, and with all this, be able to render efficient service to the public.

Mr. Baldwin, chief clerk of the superintendent of Garrett, was put on the stand to give the statement of the revenues of the local office which in their judgment, were insufficient to guarantee the services of a local agnt. The figures were as follows:

1944, 4 months—$4,509.

Local witnesses called to testify as to the amount of business, and whether the proposed plan would be an incnovenience to the public were: Herman Zuber, Holman's Feeds, Howard Myers, Ralph Sechler and Roy Reidenbach.

The Standard Oil averages 88 cars a year, which now due to tank car restrictions, is all transported by truck, and which would return to rail delivery when care were available.

Milk Dumped in Delivery Dispute

One thousand gallons of milk was poured into an Atlanta, Georgia, sewer recently following a dispute with the Office of Defense Transportation.

The milk had accumulated in the plant of the Georgia Milk Producers Confederation over Sunday, May 14, and according to James D. Gay, general manager, had to be disposed of. Delivery on Sunday is banned under an ODT regulation.

With inadequate storage facilities in their plant, plant officials appealed to the ODT for permission to deliver the milk but the request was denied. A Confederation official said, "We tried to give the milk away to charitable organizations but they took only 60 gallons. We tried to save all the cream we could and some of the milk had been skimmed. We don't want to keep the milk—people need it."

Ralph Sechler ships in and out an average of 12 cars, besides local shipments, as in the case of all other business.

Myers Elevator showed that their business in 1942 had received 52 cars, and 17 shipped out; 1943, received 52 cars, and shipped 37 out; in 1944, received 30 cars and shipped 1 out, up to June 1, and crop conditions were responsible for a portion of this drop in shipping, along with the differential of 2c in the freight rates over Hicksville shipping.

John R. Leighty, was the last witness called, and he showed how this differential worked against the receipts of the local office in comparison with other points on this division. His evidence was backed by Graphs and Charts which showed how that the rates worked against the local station as a shipping center, and that the responsibility for lack of patronage was not rightfully laid in the lap of the community of St. Joe.

The company was represented by Attorney Mountz, of Garrett, and the defense was represented by Henry C. Springer, St. Joe Town; B. N. Kinead, Parkersburg, Va., railroad telegraphers; J. F. Spencer, telegraph union of Walkerton, Ind.; A. E. Gordon, chairman brotherhood of locomotive firemen, and Wm. F. Dudine, Public Councillor.

Mrs. Hattie Stone and Mrs. H. L. Moudy are on the sick list.

Shirley Jean Perkins entertained her Sunday School class Sunday. A pleasant day was spent together and all enjoyed the wonderful dinner served at the noon hour.

LUTHERAN CHURCH MARKS DOUBLE ANNIVERSARY

The Evangelical Lutheran Church at Spencerville will commemorate the ninty-fifth anniversary of its organization and fifty-fifth anniversary of the dedication of the present building, Sunday, June 25.

With thoughts directed toward its centennial five years hence, St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church, Spencerville, Indiana, will rally for a day of remembrance, thanksgiving and consecration when the congregation assembles this Sunday for Bible School, 9:45, Worship (with Holy Communion) 11:00 and a carry-in dinner at noon (12:30.)

The plans are not elaborate but everything is designed to make the day meaningful by acknowledging a debt to the past generations, by strengthening the Christian fellowship of the present generation, and by accepting the responsibility to future generations of working more diligently at the unfinished task of making Christ King of this community and of the whole world.

Any person having pictures or literature or other records which might add to the value of this celebration are kindly asked to communicate the same to the pastor or bring them to the Church by Saturday afternoon. We desire especially a picture of the original church building erected about 1864. Thank you.

ST. JOE CHURCH ENTERTAINS YOUNG PEOPLE

Last Monday night seventy-eight young people from the Churches of Christ of DeKalb County, met at the St. Joe Church. The meeting was a success in every way. Churches represented were Cedar Lake, Newville, Butler, Auburn, Garrett, West Milford, Farmer, Coburn's Corners, and St. Joe. Each group favored the audience with a special number.

Rev. Escoe Robinson, pastor of Butler Church, gave a splenlid and challenging message in which he told us that as good soldiers of Christ we must be obedient, courageous, and skillful.

Next month's meeting will be held at the Cedar Lake Church on Monday, July 17th.

The young married people's class of the local church provided the light lunch.

REPLY TO INTERPRETATIONS

by William Clague

BAPTISM—I

There has appeared in the June 1st and 15th issues of the "News" two articles under the general subject of "Baptism." The purpose of the following article is to set forth what the scriptures say with regard to Baptism so that we may more fully understand the subject of "Baptism."

First, we wish to say that Baptism is not a Sacrament for according to Webster a sacrament is an oath or a covenant. Baptism is neither. It is an act which is done because it is a command of God. (Matt. 28: 19—"Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptising them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit.")

It was also stated that the water used has no power to cleanse us of anything except dirt which may have accumulated on our skin. Indeed it is true that the water itself has no power to cleanse us spiritually. Why then, should we submit ourselves to baptism? Let us ask why Jesus told the man blind from birth to go wash in the Pool of Siloam after which he came back seeing? (John 9: 1-12) What was it that made him see? The water alone? Of course we know that water alone will not cure blindness. That which made him see was the fact that he obeyed Jesus and washed. Even so, water does not cleanse us spiritually, but it is the fact hat we obey Him in baptism that cleanses us.

It was also stated that Baptism signifies a burial in the Word of God. Nowhere in the Scriptures does it say that Baptism is a burial in the Word of God. It does say that Baptism is a burial with Christ. (Romans 6: 4—"We were buried with Christ through Baptism.")

Something was also mentioned about the valley of dry bones in Ezekiel. This writer must confess that he sees no connection between the valley of dry bones and Baptism.

Permit us to offer a further word of explanation of Baptism: What is its purpose and mode?

First: the purpose: Baptism is for the forgiveness of sin so that our worldly self may be put to death and we might be born into the Kingdom of God. For proof, let us again examine the scriptures. Acts 2:38—"Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins" and Romans 6: 6—"Knowing this, that our old man was crucified with him (through baptism) that the body of sin might be done away, that so we should no longer be in bondage to sin."

Baptism is also essential to the salvation of mankind. Let the Word give the answer. I Peter 3: 21—"Which also after a true likeness doth now save you --even Baptism," and Mark 16: 16—"He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved."

Second: The mode (that is, the method or form of baptism) We turn to the Word for the answer. Romans 6: 4—"We were buried therefore with him (Christ) through baptism" and Colossians 2: 12—"Having been buried with him in Baptism." Note also Acts 8: 38, 39—". . . . And they both went down into the water, both Philip and the eunuch and he baptized him." In these passages (others could be mentioned but for lack of space) we have conclusive evidence that Baptism is a burial in water. Paul tells us in Ephesians 4: 5 that there is one Lord, one Faith, and one Baptism. That one Baptism then must be the one spoken of in the scriptures—that of a burial or immersion.

Hello Fred:

How is everything going these days? O.K, as usual I suppose and the town as pretty as ever with all the maple trees out again. What I wouldn't give to be back there again and the way things are moving it won't be so long.

For awhile I thought I wasn't going to get The News, but today brought three all at once, the 6th, 13th, and 27th of April. Now I can catch up a little on the news. Was glad to receive them.

We have a little newspaper here, about all it has is the last minute war news and a few things about happenings in the States. Known as the Stars and Sripes, a good little paper.

I am getting along fine so far over here in Italy.

So long and good luck,
Pvt. Russell Richards.

Army's New 'Stratosphere' Gun

It used to be that flat feet kept more men out of World War I than punctured ear drums.

Parents should spank children, to keep down child delinquency, but who is going to spank the parents, asks a News Reader?

If a man throws his cigarette ashes on the rug, you can bet they have rented the place furnished.

A News reader says he understands the reason Italian soldiers surrendered so readily was to come to America and visit their relatives.

We might as well make up our minds right now to taking our corn-on-the-cob this summer with a thinner coating of butter.

One of our News readers suggests a good way to get a nice lawn. He says to stand on it for a long time and then the grass will grow under your feet according to an old belief.

Now is the time when many young people are writing home from camps with the words, "Please send."

From the pictures of jungle warfare, we now understand what they mean by an army travelling on its stomach.

HOME ECONOMICS PARTY

The beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Wyatt, at the Junction of Roads Number 8 and 1, was the scene of the annual Family Night meeting of the Concord Township Home Economics Club. The meeting was held last Friday evening June 16th.

The guests assembled at an early hour, and some time was spent in visiting and a social, happy time. At nine o'clock a pot luck dinner was served cafeteria. In addition to every good food which could delight the taste of an epicure, the committee served coffee and iced tea. After dinner the group was called to order by the committee chairman, Mrs. Iva Yeiser. Mrs. Katherine Haller led the singing of America. Numbers on the program included a timely poem entitled "Dad", read by Mrs. Cora Curie, and a talk on Natural History by Herman Zuber.

Mr. Zuber stressed the unusual in animal and bird life and pointed out some much repeated fallacies concerning the habits and ways of some species of wild life. Mrs. Millie Shull, president of the club, made some necessary announcements. Thoughts of the club members went out to two of our number who are sick, Mrs. Hattie Stone and Mrs. Harriett Johnson, with a wish for their speedy recovery. The evening's program closed with singing of America the Beautiful. The committee in charge besides the hostess and Mrs. Yeiser were: Cora Curie, Edith Cole, and Agnes Monroe.

We as a club appreciate the work of the committee and the kindly and gracious hospitality of the host and hostess. Nothing was left undone by them to make this a happy and enjoyable evening, and it proved to be just that, and one which will long linger in the members of the Concord Twp. Home Economics Club.

It's still BIG MONEY in our business!

THE ordinary copper penny has lost a lot of its purchasing power these days—and even some of its copper. But it still buys as much electricity as ever.

For example, right now in your home a penny will toast about twenty slices of bread—or brew ten cups of coffee—or clean five big rugs—or run your refrigerator for several hours.

Rather startling what a penny will do when you think of it that way, isn't it?

Actually, the price of electricity came down so steadily before the war—and it has stayed down so successfully since—that today the average family gets about twice as much electricity for the same money it paid fifteen years ago.

All this didn't just happen, of course. It's due largely to the hard work, efficiency and experience of your friends and neighbors who man and manage this company. That's why a penny, spent for electricity, buys so much.

That's why my HANDS are busy here!

MILLIONS of American women are applying their hands over here, answering Uncle Sam's call to help with our national food crisis. With 20 million Victory Gardens and five billion jars of home-canned foods, they conserved our resources of fighting foods in 1943.

In 1944 you are being asked to raise and preserve 20 percent more, to assure every fighting Yank and his brother—as well as the home front—with needed nourishment.

YOUR INVASION!

FROM General Bradley, leading the Invasion ground forces, right through every rank, American men now face a brutal, desperate, able enemy. For this invasion has only begun—before our fighters lies a hard and bloody task, one that demands all their courage, backed by all your faith in their ultimate victory.

That faith will be tested many times in this invasion—in grim struggles, set-backs, possibly even temporary defeats. It will be up to you to remember that early victories usually only mean more savage opposition from a foe made more bitter, more ruthless as the shadow of his doom grows larger—up to you to keep that faith in days and nights of gloom as well as in hours of triumph.

There is little that you can do to show that you realize what they must face, perhaps for many months. But one thing you can do—back the attack with every dollar you can spare! Let the Bonds you buy in this greatest of Drives be the measure of your belief in their ultimate victory!

The LIONS CLUB

L. W. Yeiser, Publicity

The Lions Club gathered at the Spencerville Methodist Church basement, Monday eve to enjoy a bounteous dinner and spend an enjoyable sociable time together. The Lionesses were also present at this the last meeting of the administration of President F. B. Leighty, who has capably headed the organization for the past two years.

Cards were signed indicating that the Spencerville-St. Joe Lions have purchased war bonds to the amount of $4,512.-50 in June. Not a bad showing.

Two new members, Herman Collins and Leo Schendel were welcomed into membership by Dist. Governor Haight, of East Chicago, who with Mrs. Haight was present, as was also Zone Chairman H. C. Willis of Waterloo, also Lion and Lioness Bartholomew of Waterloo.

Lion Willis presented the 100% buttons to Lions C. R. Billow, W. L. Hurni, Maurice Kline, Claud Laub, F. B. Leighty, Everett Paschen, D. B. Ridgway, Fred Stemen, Dale Wicoff, W. H. Zuber, Ralph Keeler, Wm. Staman, C. G. Rectenwall, for their interrupted attendance during the September to April period.

Six additional members only missed one night. Clifford Billow, Frank Sellers, and F. B. Leighty were rewarded for gaining new members during the Melvin Jones Drive. Mr. Leighty was presented with a lion paper weight by Gov. Haight and Secretary Wicoff was presented a large lion plaque for his promptness in relations with the International headquarters.

Lion Sec. Wicoff made an extended report of the club's activities the past year. The record shows that the club has really done many worth while things.

Educational Director Rectenwall reported 350 new clubs formed during the past year and he complimented our president and secretary for their efficient work of the past year. The club has made a net gain of 14 members during the year.

Lion Gov. Haight brought words of commendation to the membership. This service organization is doing a wonderful service to the communities in which they function. 25A (our district) is outstanding in its gain in membership and accomplishments. In fact the progress has been so great that a re-districting will be necessary.

Pres., Derwood Ridgway.
1st Vice., Clyde Rectenwall.
2nd Vice., Clifford Billow.
Lion Tamer, Ralph Keeler.
Tailtwister, W. H. Zuber.
Directors, Willard Hurni, Claud Laub. Holdover directors, Frank Sellers, E. H. Paschen.
Sec.- Treas., Dale Wicoff.

Retiring president Leighty thanked the members for their faithfulness and the co-operation they gave him during the past two years and bespoke the same degree of interest and support for the new officers.

Lion George Barmouth, of Fort Wayne, who organized this club four years ago, was present and in a fitting manner installed the new officers. The best of all was his own writing on the Lord's Prayer, which was very inspirational. He appealed to his hearers to cut the speed and instead of saying a prayer to really pray it.

Spencerville Lutheran Congregation 95 Years Old Last Sunday.

Twelve Persons Present who Attended Dedication of Present Structure 55 Years Ago. Are Now Planning Centennial.

"OUR HERITAGE" was the dominant theme when the Spencerville Lutheran Church marked two great mile-stones in its life last Sunday, June 25, the 95th anniversary of the congregation and the 55th anniversary of the present building.

In the letter mailed to the members of the congregation, in the special booklet prepared by the pastor from the official records and from solicited recollections, and in the display of pictures and heirlooms assembled for the day, a threefold heritage was acknowledged with gratitude and thanksgiving. This heritage consists of the habit of meeting regularly to receive the Word and Sacraments, the practice of proportionate giving, and the exercise of the Missionary spirit, locally and throughout the world.

It was pointed out that from the earliest years assembling regularly to receive the Lord's Supper was a dominant trait of the congregation, that the present building, costing about $10,000.00 when it was dedicated in 1889, was erected when the congregation numbered only 109 active members, and, that the congregationn at Spencerville, through the sharing of its pastors has always nurtured from 1 to 5 smaller congregations in other communities. (In the present alignment of the parish, the Saint Joe congregation shares equally in the pastor's salary and in the maintenance of the parsonage while the congregation in Butler receives equal services but contributes a smaller share of the parish expenses.)

Twelve people were present for the services last Sunday who had been present for the dedication 55 years ago. Two of these Mr. Ezra Horn and Mrs. Frank Horn, have been members of the congregation since before the present building was erected, having united with the congregation in 1866 and 1881, respectively. Two others, Mr. Chas. Watson, 1878, and Mrs. Greeley Wearley, 1881, were unable to be present because of illness.

Among the visitors present for the day were Dr. W. W. Carey, Fort Wayne, Ind., who has preserved in pictures and in memory many interesting facts about this community and congregation, and one former minster and wife, Rev. A. K. Mumma, Harlan, Indiana (retired) who served this parish 1915-21, during which time the basement was put under the present church building.

In the course of the table-talk following the dinner some of the older members shared their recollections of the dedication service, ranging from portions of the dedication sermon delivered by the president of Wittenberg College, to a brief description of the dresses worn by prominent women that day. And as an added feature, Pastor Stevenson and his wife were presented with a beautiful bouquet of Regal Lillies in recognition of their fifth wedding anniversary.

While the services of the day emphasized the events, and accomplishments of the past the day was closed with all eyes toward the future, specifically, toward the concongregation's centennial celebration in 1949. The appeal for records, pictures, articles, etc., of historical value to the congregation was repeated. If you have anything of this nature or know of someone who does, please send such information to the pastor before you forget. Address communications to: Rev. Frank Stevenson, Spencerville, Indiana.

CAN THE SURPLUS FROM YOUR Victory Garden

ANOTHER year of War and again it's a must—the need for food conservation. The threatened curtailment of commercially canned foods, the demands of lend-lease, of our armed forces and of the liberated peoples, all add up to the vital necessity for you to can the surplus.

Last year, thousands of women canned surplus food at home—additional thousands will do it this year. It's wise—it's economical—it's easy. We want to help you can and conserve your excess garden produce and have again issued a compact booklet containing essential information for the successful canning of fruits and vegetables.

Also keep in mind these basic rules for canning:

Follow jar manufacturer's instructions exactly for handling and sealing the particular styles of jar used.
Pack material loosely to allow heat circulation and leave sufficient space to allow for expansion without overflow.
Do not subject jars to sudden temperature changes—do not cool jars after cooking in jar starts.
Boil all home-canned meats and non-acid vegetables 10 to 15 minutes before eating or even tasting.

WE SAY IT AGAIN

It cannot be said too often, the words of appeal to the American people to buy War Bonds that we may bring to a more speedy end this fight for freedom. With daily reports reaching us of the struggle to conquer and to hold, of certain victories and positive deaths, we now know full well the forceful meaning of invasion. No step forward toward our goal but that it costs a life, brings back sorrow and depletes a nation's youth. Each boy who marches onward is giving more to the Fifth War Bond Drive than all of St. Joe and Spencerville put together with their bond purchases. Remember that. You are investing in your country. So is he. You, with your money which will bring you interest, he with his life that wll bring him—what? How much interest are YOU paying that boy who daily buys the price of a bond with his body?

POISON IVY

It is never too soon to put out the warning against that three-leafed vine or shrub, called poison ivy. It flourisheth to torment most sections of the country and spreads thru its leaves, roots and branches, a fire in oil called cardol. It suffers the skin that touches it generally a lot of suffering and the itchy torture lays hold until the poison runs its course. We refrain from scratching and apply remedies galore to kill its spread. As we attempt to kill the plant, its shoots seem to have spread far and wide and another stalk appears to annoy another who is not aware of its poisonous growth. Many have conscientiously worked to eradicate the plants from their premises, but all should watch in fields, woods, byways, and their own backyards to stamp out the fire.

DAY OF INDEPENDENCE

With the invasion succeeding, powerful units of men and equipment hurling themselves against the foe, the thunderbolts that will lead to victory are especially epochal his July 4. Holding more significance for us each year we fight to preserve the rights that thirteen colonies held as certain truths, we think of the principles that were dedicated long years ago when this nation was engaged in another struggle to secure liberty and hereditary privileges of living as human beings in a fertile land, bright with prospects of a future of untold opportunity to every man who fought to maintain it. Back in 1776, the world in which we now live was a more simple place, the people living in that world a simpler folk. Today one hundred and thirty million of us are proposing, supposing, levying, paying, signing, compiling, representing, affirming, struggling, and striving with complicated living to solve the intricate system and perhaps get back to that more simple life when an indivisible country was in the making. We can no longer live as in '76 when the rule for the world didn't seem to be such an all-round misunderstanding and suppression. Fortunately as back then, mankind on the whole, refuses to have his faith in justice, tolerance and goodness, destroyed. So must we remember that when Jefferson was picked to draw up the Declaration of Independence the composition didn't find the unqualified approval of the whole committee or the lawyers of congress, as they worked on the material at hand and altered words and phrases for three days while Thomas Jefferson prayed, in waiting, that the force of his argument would not be lost, as it was not. His words still remain as music, his phrases still stand as law. All day on a July 4th Congress debated and by evening had reached a decision, all members present signing this doctrine, that those truths of equality, life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness should forever live. This alone is very simple, simply stated, lived simply and simple enough for us to die for!

Big Postwar Need for Food Freezers

Home food freezers such as this, as well as walk-in boxes and side-opening units in much larger sizes will be available after the war for farm families now using space in refrigerated locker plants. A boom in home freezers is forecast once the merchandise of peace once again can be made. Manufacturers who had converted their facilities to war production for the duration have made plans to be ready to meet the demand for home units in the various desired sizes.

THANKS to freezer lockers, many farm families can now enjoy treats of strawberries and cream, fried chicken, green peas and scores of other delicacies the year 'round, instead of just in season, Martha Wreath Streeter writes in the Rural Home section of nationally circulated Capper's Farmer.

After the war, when home food freezers become generally available and farm folks have cashed in some of their War Bonds to buy them, families will do even more freezing to preserve foods grown in their gardens and orchards and fattened in their feedlots, Mrs. Streeter believes.

"Until then," she writes, "we must plan to utilize available space to the best advantage. That means keeping a steady stream of food passing through the locker.

"Most of us have been doing that by the hit-or-miss method which meant that when Dad decided it was time to butcher a hog, Mother had to start making room for it in the locker and the family ate frozen food for a week. Since a locker will hold only so much, choices have to be made. If we put in too much asparagus and peas, there won't be room for corn and beans. Then, too, if there's a bumper vegetable crop, we may be tempted to cache so many quarts in our locker that we won't be able to make room for the meat needed particularly these days of shortages."

Family's Sweet Tooth Is Readily Appeased

White Batter	Yellow Batter
1 c. cake flour	6 egg yolks
1½ c. sugar	¼ tsp. salt
6 egg whites	½ tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt	¼ c. cake flour
½ tsp. cream of tartar	¼ c. hot water
1 tsp. vanilla	1 tsp lemon juice

Sift flour with ½ c. of the sugar 3 times. Beat egg whites and salt until foamy. Add cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Fold in remaining sugar gradually, then flour-sugar mixture in 3 parts. Divide batter in 2 parts. Beat egg yolks until thick. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with very hot water. Stir in lemon juice. Fold this yellow batter into half of the white. Pour the two batters alternately into an ungreased tube pan. Bake in a moderate oven (325°) for 1 hour.

No frosting is needed for this cake, the Capper's Farmer expert points out. If the home-maker uses level measurements, the methods outlined above and the temperature suggested, she can make a cake that looks just as pretty and tastes just as good as the original pictured above.

The earliest possible harvest of the red clover hay crop in DeKalb County has been urged by Arthur H. Lautzenhiser, County AAA Chairman. He said this is one of the first steps that can be taken to obtain a seed crop, so badly needed for next spring's seeding. Experiments show, he said that the early cutting of red clover increases the chances for a seed crop. There is a serious national shortage of red clover seed. Every acre harvested for seed will not only help relieve this shortage, but also will bring a good cash return to the farmer. The AAA payment to co-operating farmers harvesting clover seed follows: $3.50 per acre up to 25 acres per farm.

Telegraph Centennial Brings New Devices

Miss Lelia Livingston Morse, granddaughter of Samuel F. B. Morse, left, explains to Miss Mildred Crider, telegraph employee, the workings of the original instrument. It was used in re-enacting the sending of the first telegram, "What Hath God Wrought!" from the Capitol in Washington to Baltimore.

New York (Special)—An aircraft designer in New York has just finished the elaborate set of blueprints for a huge new trans-oceanic plane. The blueprints must be at the manufacturing plant in California tomorrow. How can it be done? By telegraph, of course.

That is one of the things the communications industry will be prepared to do not many years from now, when the war is over and the latest marvels stemming from an invention just a century old will be used to tie the nation together in building a new era of peacetime prosperity.

It was in 1844 that the artist-inventor, Samuel F. B. Morse, sat down at his telegraph key in the Capitol at Washington and sent the first telegram — "What Hath God Wrought!" The message was received in Baltimore forty miles away.

The nation is observing this year the centennial of Morse's invention by special Congressional exercises, including a re-enactment of the scene in which the first telegram was sent; by unveiling a plaque in honor of the scientist; by naming a Liberty ship for him and by issuing a telegraph centennial postage-stamp. Civic, educational, scientific and other organizations are holding special gatherings.

On the threshold of its second century, the telegraph industry is ready to offer many new devices and services to American business as well as to the individual. Only the war and the need for turning over much of this new equipment to war-time tasks have kept these devices from more general use.

The Telefax is one of the latest and most remarkable additions to the telegraph family. An electric eye rapidly scans a hand-written message, a picture, a blueprint or a maze of figures and the Telefax transmits it over the wire. "Messages" of this kind arrive at their destinations as facsimiles of the originals. The service operates simply as well as quickly and with 100 per cent accuracy.

Progressive installation of the reperforator switching system is part of the Western Union Telegraph Company's long-range modernization program.

One development which is helping us with our war business is carrier current. This was discovered a number of years ago and engineers have been constantly improving it. With carrier current it is possible to send many messages at one time over a single pair of wires. Today a hundred telegrams may flash over telegraph wires simultaneously with never a mix-up.

Curiously enough, the telegraph has passed through a complete cycle since Morse's day. The inventor's first instruments were of a semi-automatic type, but gave way to the hand-operated key until more recent times. Today automatic equipment has virtually replaced the old-time telegrapher. Every year the Morse telegraph key is used less and less.

Most messages in telegraph offices are written on machines known as teleprinters which have keyboards like typewriters. The printed telegrams you receive are from a teleprinter.

Thousands of business firms, war plants and military centers throughout the country have their own teleprinters. With them, the offices can communicate with telegraph offices or with branch offices, suppliers and clients in distant cities.

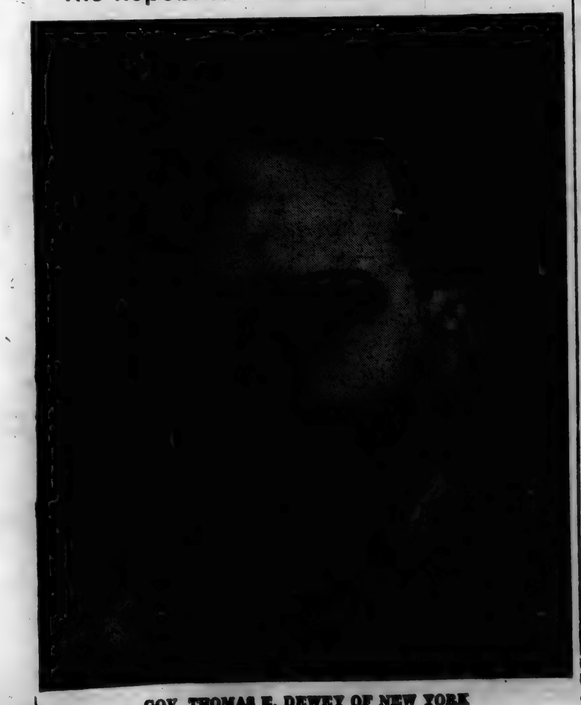
The Republican Nominee for President



GOV. THOMAS E. DEWEY OF NEW YORK

REPUBLICANS NAME DEWEY AND BRICKER

Both Selected as Unanimous Choice at National Convention.

By WRIGHT A. PATTERSON

For PRESIDENT:
THOMAS E. DEWEY of New York

For VICE PRESIDENT:
JOHN W. BRICKER of Ohio

That is the ticket unanimously named by the 1,059 delegates, with an equal number of alternates, at the Republican national convention in Chicago. Those delegates received no direction or instruction from political leaders. They had been sent to Chicago by the people in their home states, the Joes, Johns, Dicks, Harrys, Marys, Janes and Sallys, to do the bidding of that great rank and file body of Republican voters of the nation.

The home folks, from Maine to California, from the Canadian line to the Gulf, knew the man they wanted as a leader, the man they wanted in the White House, and would brook no compromise with their demands. They demanded Governor Dewey, and the delegates they sent to Chicago did the bidding of those who sent them, and drafted him as they were directed.

So far as the selection of a candidate for president, of a leader, the convention was over before it started. The few states in which the people thought otherwise, and the limited number of delegates, who had thought of other candidates, recognized the general demand, and before the first session of the convention had opened on Monday morning such a preponderance of delegate votes had lined up for Governor Dewey there was no question of whom the people wanted and demanded as a leader, and other candidates accepted the verdict.

Unity Predominant

In that great gathering on no subject or any point was there any evidence of even the slightest friction. There was a universal spirit of unity unusual in any great national partisan gathering. With that unity was displayed a steadfastness of serious purpose expressed by wild demonstrations of approval. They had gathered in Chicago to do those things needed to save the American way of life, to preserve American freedom, to maintain constitutional government.

I have seen many conventions of both of the major political parties of the nation. I have never before attended a convention in which there was such an entire freedom from friction, such an entire unity of purpose and approval of leaders and policies, such a sense of patriotic devotion, such an utter absence of political squabbling, such an entire submission to the will of the mass of the people. The atmosphere was more that of a great religious revival than a partisan political gathering.

There was but a limited amount of even mild "viewing with alarm," no time wasted in violent denunciation of the opposition though the opportunity offered was great. The thoughts of the delegates, the selected officers of the convention and the speakers, were centered on the constructive moves and methods needed to restore to the people the freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution and the Bill of Rights.

A People's Convention

Of the 25 national conventions of the two major political parties I have reported since 1896 the Republican gathering of 1944 was remarkable for the serious consideration given to the needs of America at this time of war and during the formation of that lasting peace that must be provided for the future. It was unique, also, for the determination to follow the wishes and demands of the people with no effort or thought to promote the interests of political leaders. It was in every sense, a people's convention in which ballyhoo had no place, but an extreme patriotic enthusiasm was manifest.

The formalities of the convention followed the established procedure of such gatherings. Harrison Spangler, Chairman of the National Committee, called the convention to order shortly after ten o'clock on Monday morning. At that session Gov. Earl Warren of California was elected as the temporary chairman. At the Monday evening session Governor Warren presided and delivered a ringing Republican keynote address that was far more constructive than condemnatory.

In that address he sounded the program of constructive legislation the party promised the people of the nation, legislation that would mean the preservation of constitutional government, and relief from the bureaucracy and extravagance of the present administration. When on Tuesday, Representative Jos. W. Martin, of Massachusetts, was selected as permanent chairman, he, too, promised the same kind of legislation. That such a program was what the delegates from all states were asking in the name of the people they represented was demonstrated by the wild acclaim with which such promises were received. The American people wanted a constructive program that would relieve them of the regimentation under which they were living, an assurance of a continuance of the freedoms they had enjoyed, of their way of life. That is what the Republicans were offering.

At Tuesday night's session former President Herbert Hoover, in a stirring address, assured the vast audience of the Republican guarantee of a continuance of the 30 freedoms provided by our Bill of Rights rather than the limited four of the Atlantic Charter. His presence, and assuring words, were greeted by prolonged cheering that Chairman Martin had difficulty in quieting so the speaker might continue.

Constructive Addresses

Following Mr. Hoover, Congresswoman Clare Boothe Luce, in an address directed especially to the women, created the same kind of patriotic enthusiasm. The same enthusiastic reception was given each of the many addresses delivered during the sessions from Monday to Wednesday night when Governor Dewey, who had flown from Albany after his nomination, accepted the call of the Republican party for his leadership. He received, as of course he would, a wildly enthusiastic ovation. He was the leader the Republicans wanted and demanded. He was the man they would follow.

Two other Republican leaders came to Chicago with a very considerable following, Governor Bricker, of Ohio, and former Governor Stassen of Minnesota. When it became evident that the greater demand was for Governor Dewey the names of neither of these two outstanding men were presented to the delegates, and Governor Bricker seconded the nomination of Governor Dewey when his name was presented to the convention by Governor Griswold of Nebraska.

Gov. Earl Warren, of California, had a strong following for the vice-presidential nomination. He, like Governor Dewey, had insisted that he did not wish the nomination, and on Tuesday definitely announced he could not accept if, by chance, the nomination was offered. He could be of greater service in California. Governor Bricker had not wanted the second place on the ticket, but when he announced his withdrawal as a candidate for the first place nomination, an appeal was made that he sacrifice personal interests and inclinations and accept the vice-presidential place as a service to the cause of free government.

Both nominations were made without a contest and both were the overwhelming choice of the delegates whose job was that of choosing standard bearers for the Republicans of America for 1944. They did the job exactly as they had been told to do it by the people who had sent them to Chicago, the people who will vote for Dewey and Bricker in November.

Mrs. Virginia Leighty and daughter, Joan, of Ft. Wayne, were Saturday evening and Sunday guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Leighty.

St. Joe and Community is Given Favorable Decision by the Public Service Commission of Indiana...

B. & O. Railroad is Ordered to Continue Station Agent Service. Full Report Given.

Attorneys for Petition and the Defense

For R.R. Telegraphers, B.N. Kinkead, Parkersburg, W Va
For B. of L. F. & E., A. E. Gordon, Indianapolis, Ind.

On February 14, 1944, The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, through and by its attorneys, Mountz & Mountz, Garrett, Ind., filed a petition whereby it seeks permission and authority to withdraw the station agent at St. Joe, in DeKalb County, Indiana, and to change its station from an agency to a non-agency basis at that point, and thereafter maintain the said station as a prepay station.

Pursuant to due notice as required by law and the rules and regulations of the Commission, hearing was held in the high school building at St. Joe, DeKalb County, Indiana, at 10 A.M., C.W.T., Thursday, June 8, 1944, at which Petitioner, the Town of St. Joe and the public in general were represented by counsel, as was the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, through and by their duly elected representatives, all as herein-above indicated.

The situation here presented is rather unusual and differs from most of the cases before this Commission in which the closing of a station is sought, in that the railroad company does not allege nor contend that the station involved does not earn sufficient revenue to justify the expense of its operation. The railroad company relies upon the proposition that an economy of operation can be effected at this station without undue inconvenience to the public because, as the railroad company contends, the services of an agent are not necessary to handle the business that is transacted at this station. The further matter is alleged that the grant of authority to remove the station agent at St. Joe will make available to the railroad at this time the services of an expert telegraph operator, being the present agent at St. Joe, and that the service of this class of employees is now much in demand for work at other points on the railroad as they are suffering a desperate shortage of telegraph operators upon the division within which this agent holds seniority.

The essential facts, which are set forth in more detail in the findings of this order, may be summarized in the statement that St. Joe is an incorporated community having a population of 437 persons; these, along with residents of a considerable area of the rural countryside make use of the shipping facilities offered at the St. Joe station, particularly, a grain elevator and coal yard, and a feed store, both of which are located at this point, and the pickle processing works and onion storage of Ralph Sechler, located approximately one and one-half miles north and east of St. Joe. The nearest agency stations are those at Auburn, Indiana, commonly known as Auburn Junction, and the station at Hicksville, Ohio, 9.3 miles and 7.6 miles by rail respectively. The railroad line involved is the main line of The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company extending from Chicago, Illinois, to Willard, Ohio. Petitioner maintains and operates an interlocking tower approximately one mile west of the station building at St. Joe where, in the event this petition is granted, Petitioner contemplates using the first trick operator for whatever clerical and contact work is necessary in the operation of St. Joe as a non-agency station. Further, that if this set-up would prove unsatisfactory, in the opinion of the railroad company, they would have either of the station agents located at Hicksville, Ohio or Auburn, Indiana, assume jurisdiction.

While the Petitioner does not allege or rely upon any supposed deficiency of revenue Mr. Elmer Baldwin, Chief Clerk to Superintendent, read into the record the receipts and wages for the calendar year 1941, 1942, 1943 and the first four months of 1944. This shows for the year 1941 a revenue of $14,764, as against wages of agent of $1,780; for the year 1942 revenues of $14,122, as against agent's wages of $1,946; for the year 1943 revenues of $15,852 against agent's wages of $2,101; for the first four months of 1944 revenues of $4,509 as against agent's wages of approximately $700. Although total expenses of operating this station were not presented it is apparent from these figures as well as from the pleadings that no point of deficiency of revenue is involved in this proceeding.

With respect to the allegations of lack of need for a local station agent and also the scarcity of telegraphers, there is some controversary in the record. The local elevator, feed store, hardware, furniture store and pickle processing plant owners and operators, being the principal shippers, were represented and contended that by reason of the nature of their business they would be put to a serious disadvantage as compared with the present situation. The Order of Railroad Telegraphers questioned the feasibility and necessity of closing this agency station for the purpose of making the services of a telegrapher available elsewhere.

As the Commission views the situation here presented the question is mainly one of economics. On the one hand, there is a contention that an economy of operation can be affected by the railroad company without undue inconvenience either to the principal shippers or to any of the public. On the other hand, there is the contention of the principal shippers and public that serious inconvenience will arise not only to their business but with reference to the public of a considerable area. The Commission necessarily takes notice of the fact that the present times are abnormal, that business and transportation conditions are greatly disturbed, and so also are conditions of employment. These unusual and wartime conditions of employment. These unusual and wartime conditions must be taken into consideration in the determinationtion of this case.

Upon a full consideration of the representations and evidence it appears to the Commission just and reasonable that in view of the fact that no deficiency in revenue is herein

THE giraffe and the turtle tell their own story. They help to remind you that electricity, almost alone among household necessities, is still sold at low pre-war prices.

You realize how low these prices are when you know that the average American family now gets about twice as much electricity for its money as it did 15 years ago.

If your bill isn't smaller, it is because you have more electric servants and use more electricity now than then.

It's a real achievement to keep electric service cheap in spite of rising costs and taxes — and to keep it plentiful in the face of war's tremendous demands for power.

The credit goes largely to the hard-working men and women of your electric company. Their skill and experience — plus the planning and foresight of sound business management — have made this record possible.

VERDICT FAVORS CONTINUATION OF STATION AGT.

involved the existing agency should be maintained notwithstanding the fact that Petitioner is suffering an acute shortage of telegraph operators, for reason that, in spite of the present wartime emergency, public convenience and necessity is far greater at this point and the granting of this petition would benefit Petitioner by securing the services of only one additional telegrapher whereas the many patrons of Petitioner located in St. Joe and vicinity would be adversely affected; that the continuation of the present agency would avoid undue hardship to shippers and would not result in a direct loss to the railroad, but at most would amount to foregoing a possible operating economy.

The Commission having considered the aforesaid petition, the representations of the parties, and all of the evidence, both oral and documentary, and being fully advised in the premises, finds:

(1) That The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Maryland, engaged in the business of a common carrier operating a line of railroad, a portion of which is within the State of Indiana, and is a common carrier by rail within the meaning of Indiana Acts 1905, Chapter 53, Paragraph 21, as amended, being 55-128, B. R.S. 1933;

(2) that one of Petitioners operating lines of railroad extends from Chicago, Illinois to Willard, Ohio, and that at a point on the said line known as St. Joe, in DeKalb County, Indiana, Petitioner maintains, and has maintained for years last past, an agency station, and that in this proceeding the Petitioner proposes to change the status of the said agency station at St. Joe to that of a non-agency station;

(3) that St. Joe is an incorporated community located approximately 3.6 miles by rail and 11 miles by highway east of the City of Auburn, and about 7.6 miles by rail and 9 miles by highway west of Hicksville, Ohio, and approximately one mile east of the intersection of The Baltimore and Ohio and Wabash Railroads, at which point, an interlocking tower is located; that said line of railroad passes through both Auburn and Hicksville, and that agency stations are maintained at each of the said cities;

(4) that the population of the incorporated community of St. Joe is approximately 437 persons, and that the principal business enterprises in the said community are an elevator and flour mill, one feed mill, two general stores, one drug store, one postoffice, two restaurants, one barber shop, three filling stations, one hardware store, one printing office, one newspaper office, one bulk oil station, onion storage facilities, pickle tanks, a coal yard, two widely known apple orchards, a telephone exchange, a consolidated school and a large area of productive farm acreage, and that many of the places of business are located along Petitioner's railroad and use the said railroad facilities to a large extent in the shipment and receipt of goods;

(5) that the Petitioner does not allege or claim, nor does the evidence show, that the revenues derived directly from the station at St. Joe are insufficient to justify the expense of the operation of the said station;

(6) that the discontinuance of said agency station would make it necessary for the public who now transact business at the St. Joe station to transact the said business through the station agencies of Auburn, Indiana, or Hicksville, Ohio, 11 and 9 miles distant, respectively, or with the first trick operator located in the interlocking tower one mile west of St. Joe;

(7) that the proposal of Petitioner to use the first trick operator, located at the interlocking plant where the Baltimore and Ohio and Wabash Railroads intersect one mile west of St. Joe, to assume the clerical work of the proposed non-agency station of St. Joe, or that of having either of the agency stations of Auburn, Indiana, or Hicksville, Ohio, assuming such duties and responsibilities if the first method should, in the opinion of the Petitioner prove inadequate or unsatisfactory to the needs of the community would, in the opinion of the Commission, beyond any reason of doubt create conditions which would cause much undue inconvenience to patrons that have been using the present satisfactory and adequate agency facilities of St. Joe;

(8) that in view of the present situation of national emergency, the restrictions upon the use of gasoline, tires and highway transportation in general, and the further fact that the justification, if any, for the discontinuance of the said agency station lies in the effecting of an operating economy, and that the continued maintenance of the present agency would result in no out-of-pocket loss to the Petitioner, it is reasonable that the agency station at St. Joe be maintained;

(9) that public convenience and necessity requires the continued maintenance of the agency station of St. Joe, DeKalb County, Indiana, and it will be so ordered.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED BY THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF INDIANA that The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, Petitioner herein, be, and the same is hereby denied permission and authority to change the status of its agency station located at St. Joe, in DeKalb County, Indiana, to that of a non-agency station.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company shall pay into the State Treasury, thru the Secretary of this Commission, the sum of $6.33, expense incurred in the publication of legal notice of hearing in this cause.

REPUBLICANS ADOPT CONSTRUCTIVE AND SOUND PLATFORM

The platform adopted by the Republican Convention at Chicago contains no "weasel" words. It is a frank and simply worded declaration of purposes with no opportunity for any misinterpretation. It outlines in definite terms a constructive program designed to relieve the people of bureaucratic regimentation; to put a stop to prodigal spending with continuing deficits; pledges the reestablishment of constitutional government, the free enterprise system and our American way of life.

Win the War Pledge.

The preamble is a tribute to the men and women of the Armed Forces with a pledge to prosecute the war, in cooperation with our Allies, until the Axis powers have been completely and decisively defeated; with no interference with the General Staff of the Army or the Office of Naval Operations as to the conduct of the war. With the final defeat of our enemies it promises the return of all those serving in the Armed Forces whose enlistment periods have expired and who do not volunteer for further overseas duty. It says: "We declare our relentless aim to win the war against all our enemies; for our American security and welfare; to make and keep the Axis powers impotent to renew tyranny and attack; for the attainment of peace and freedom based on justice and security. We shall seek to achieve such aims through organized international cooperation and not by joining a world state."

Postwar Foreign Policy.

It favors full responsible participation by the United States in post war cooperative organization among sovereign nations to prevent aggression and to attain permanent peace with organized justice in a free world. It proposes definite methods of accomplishing such results, and very definitely proposes that the United States shall not sacrifice any of its sovereignty by becoming a part of a world state. While the platform would have this country assume a fair and full share of the responsibility for the rejuvenation of the world, and a maintenance of world peace it proposes methods of accomplishing such purposes through international cooperation, and not through the establishment of any super-government. On the prosecution of the war and the establishment and maintenance of world peace it leaves nothing to be guessed about or misinterpreted.

Farm Plank Definite.

On no subject is the platform more definite and emphatic than that of agriculture. It calls for full production at all times, without interference of any kind or any form of farm regimentation. It insures a price for farm products that will mean farm prosperity. It would provide that price through tariff protection for the whole market; the establishment of support prices on the part of the government; commodity loans to the farmer; the development of new uses for farm surpluses; support of farm co-operatives; crop insurance; a soil conservation program, and other practical provisions to insure the farmer an income fair and equitable in comparison with labor, business and industry. It opposes subsidies in any form or any interference with farm management or farm production. It proposes to provide a market at a profitable price for whatever the farmer may produce and in whatever quantity. The farm program calls for the development of paved roads and the extension of rural electrification.

That farm plank provides for a practical solution for the farm problem without imposing bureaucratic regulations. It would make of every farmer, owner or tenant, a free and independent individual.

Restore Free Enterprise.

The Republican Party proposes to restore and maintain the free enterprise system with business free from bureaucratic control. It would take the government out of business competing with free industry. It would dispose of, on an equitable basis, all government owned industrial plants; provide such legal regulations as to prevent monopolies; to protect the public, and especially small business which the platform pronounces "the basis of American enterprise." It would protect small business against discrimination and provide equality of opportunity.

The platform does not stop with such declarations but proposes definite methods of accomplishing such purposes.

Reduce Taxes and Waste.

On the subject of taxation and government expenditures the platform is decidedly definite and emphatic. With the ending of the war it calls for an immediate reduction of the rates of taxation on individual incomes, on corporations and consumption to such an extent as is consistent with the payment of the expenditures of an economically operated government, with a promise to eliminate from governmental costs every wasteful and unnecessary expenditure, including the discontinuance of the many duplicating government bureaus and agencies, and a reduction in government payrolls.

That plank definitely, and in no uncertain terms, rejects the New Deal theory of restoring or maintaining prosperity through government spending and deficit financing.

The above is a very brief summary of but a few of the planks of what is a truly remarkable and constructive platform. Those responsible for its preparation did not write words in criticism of the past, but confined their efforts to providing constructively for the future. It is an unusual political document that fully meets the needs of an unusual time in the history of the nation.

"INTERPRETATIONS"

—BY—

Rev. Frank Stevenson

THE LORD'S SUPPER

The Lord's Supper is the second sacrament which Christ instituted and entrusted to the Church for administration to men and women wherever the Word of God is heard and believe.

Like Baptism this sacrament is a gift of God, a gift combining a spiritual blessing with a visible token to convey to human hearts "fear, love and trust in God above all things." This is another way of saying that it is a means of grace by which Christ is made alive in us and we in Him.

This sacrament is like Baptism also in that it is the Word of God dramatized and individualized to make it more readily discernable to the sin-deadened spirits of men and women in every station of life. These two sacraments together materialize the eternal Word of God to a form in which it can penetrate into and be assimilated by our immaterial souls.

Unlike Baptism, the Lord's Supper is limited to those who can exercise faith. It is reserved for those who do believe in Christ as Saviour but need to have that faith strengthened for higher living by the assurance through the senses that what God has promised, He fully provides, namely, the forgiveness of sins and the giving of new life to all who ask.

The Lord's Supper is 'more than meets the eye.' It is more than bodily eating and drinking. It is the means of a God-and-man encounter a fellowship or comunion of believers with one another and with their heavenly Father through Jesus Christ His Son. In the last analysis we can not explain fully how it does this but each can know in his own life experience that it truly works as intended. Through its call for self examination, for confession of sins, repentance and a plea for mercy, through its appeal to faith unto obedience in receiving the Body and Blood of Christ in, with and under the visible Bread and Wine, and through the manifestation of equality before God regardless of human judgments, we are indeed strengthened in faith and given a good conscience toward God when ever we honestly participate in this blessed sacrament.

DON WINSLOW SAYS..

Democrats were stunned by a crushing defeat suffered on "Invasion Day," in a New York City Congressional district which had been Democratic for 63 years.

Republicans hailed the election of Ellsworth B. Buck in the 11th district over Thomas V. Cantwell, a Democrat who had American Labor party support, as an omen of victory throughout the nation in November.

Buck polled 14,269 votes against 10,764 for Cantwell, whose vote was made up of 8,567 Democratic and 2,197 American Labor party ballots. Buck's vote was 57% of the total vote cast. This constituted a gain of 15% in vote percentage in two years.

What was most distressing to Democrats was the apparent rejection of their No. 1 argument for the fourth term: Don't desert the commander-in-chief in time of war.

If voters cast their ballots against the commander in chief on invasion day, Democratic leaders acknowledged that they cannot be expected to be swayed by appeals not to change horses in the middle of the stream on election day.

The Republican victory in a traditionally Democratic district in New York city adds to the tangible evidence of the Republican trend registered in recent months in special congressional elections in Colorado, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Kansas, Missouri and other states.

The honor roll on the court house lawn in Auburn now has 2000 names on it with a sprinkling of stars.

Donald Huff, who lives on the former C. E. Killian farm received his final Army papers stating he was rejected instead of accepted as stated in the last paper.

LuReign Strong and girls, Alice, June and Coral took a train trip to Toledo to see Harry Thomas, (LuReign's brother) on his birthday, June 5. It was the first brother and sister had met for about 6 years, and it was the girls' first train ride.

According to old timers if a farmer is seen planting corn with his overcoat on, it will be a good corn season. Farmers were planting and also cultivating corn in the afternoon of June 6 with their heavy coats on. Yes! It was so cold it looked like it was snowing, but was only cottonwood seed blowing in the wind.

Mr. and Mrs. Clint Keller are expecting their son-in-law, Major J. A. McBride and their grandson, James A., Jr., next week on a short furlough. Major McBride is stationed in Chicago and Jimmie has been at the University of Oklahoma in the Navy V-12 program for the past year, but at the termination of his leave he is to report at Purdue for special training in Advanced Aeronautical Engineering, as he has won a special scholarship.

There are a lot of ant hills and more ants this year it seems, in the woods, fields, and around the buildings. There will be a lot of ants in the picnic jam and those who are camping out this summer will do a lot of scratching.

Tim Inlow, who lives on the former Geo. Sprow farm, was unfortunate recently by running his tractor over the river bank and badly damaging it. He is farming on the Hattie Widney Stone farm east of St. Joe. Better go in swimming with out your tractor, Tim.

W. E. BEST HIRED FOR FULL-TIME PREACHING

William Best was called to preach for us May 28 and to talk over details concerning hiring him. After preaching Sunday morning, the board met in the afternoon and hired him with a vote of 12 yes and 1 no. He preached Sunday night and the church members voted with a result of 37 yes and 3 blank ballots.

Brother Best will preach the first Sunday in July and again the fourth Sunday in July after which he will be on the job full time. He will be our Home Coming speaker. His wife will not be here until she finishes the school course that she is taking which will be about a month after he arrives. They have no children.

He has a sprinkling of gray hair and a Georgia tan. He has a pleasing smile and a pleasant disposition and is fine to have around the home. He takes well with young people and can preach a sermon without a note of any kind. We will be glad to have you boys meet him on your return. We feel sure you will like him. We are praying in our hearts that the Church ship at Newville will forge ahead with her new pilot.

LAVON HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

On May 30, just after Lavon Brunson went on duty at the tower at Saint Joe, a car jumped the tracks and steel missels began to fly in all directions. Lavon headed for the door with intention to vacate the tower. Just as he reached the stairs, something cut the stairs loose and Lavon got back into the tower. About 20 officials arrived to investigate. They were amazed to find the tower still standing, saying that in all such accidents, the tower is always made into kindling wood. Lavon said he was surely glad he went to church Sunday night.

Dear Fred:

I have been going to write to you for a long time, but is just seemed like I never got around to it. I have a little time off this afternoon, so I will sit right down and try and write you a few lines. There are a lot of things I wish I could tell you about, the places I have been, etc., but you know how the army is about things like that.

Fred, I have been doing quite a bit of moving around in the last six months, so my new address is Pfc. Orlin R. Harter, ASN. 35334269, Btry. C, 104th AAA. AW. BN. APO 565 % Postmaster, San Francisco, Calif.

I am back in New Guinea once again, or should have said am some where in the jungle of Dutch New Guinea. Our outfit, with many other outfits made a landing not so long ago. We landed better that 500 miles behind the Jap lines. But everything came off just as it was planned. The boys had the little nips under control in about a week's time. Boy, I think that is really going some, don't you?

This landing was the largest of its kind that has been made in the S.W.A.P. Our boys are sure doing a swell job right now in paying those little yellow nips back for all the torture they caused our boys in the battle of Bataan, Corregidore and the Philippine islands and many other places. But before our boys are thru with the Japs, I am sure they will be very sorry for ever starting a war against Uncle Sam, don't you think?

Fred, I have been receiving the St. Joe News for the last six months or so, and sure enjoy reading it very much. It makes any guy feel good to read about what is going on around home, even if I can't be there in person. But, I will, like many other boys will be coming marching home, when this war is all over, to a land that will be free, and always will be free, if the boys of the good old U.S.A. have anything to say about it, and I am sure they will have.

I have been overseas now for a year and a half, Seventeen of these months have been spent up in the war zone, or I should have said in the jungles of New Guinea, and other Islands. About the only people I have seen in this time is soldiers, natives and Japs. The natives are called abbows. They sure are doing a great job in helping our boys to win the war in this part of the world. Some of the natives can speak pretty good English, it sure is a lot of fun to talk to them. The ones that do not speak English make signs with their hands. About the first thing a native will ask you for is a cigarette, they really go for them in a big way

Fred, we have those small walkie talkie radios, and at night we turn them on short wave and get the war news from all over the world and boy, the news sure sounds good to me. By the way things are going now the war might be over within another year. But I am hoping, like many other boys that it will be over much sooner than that. (You see I have some unfinished business to take care there at home. Ha Ha!)

I have a few pieces of Jap invasion money, so am enclosing one for you. Am sure the people around St. Joe would enjoy seeing the kind of money that the Japs were intending to use when they invaded Australia. This coin is the same size as the Australian shilling.

Well, Fred, it is about time for me to go on gun guard, so I will have to say So-long now. Want to thank you again for sending me the St. Joe News. Tell all my friends I said "Hello." So long for now.

Four friend,
Bob Harter.

FRANK SHOOK FOUND DEAD IN HIS YARD

A former auditor of DeKalb County, Frank Shook, was found dead in the back yard of his home at Auburn, Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. Shook was 66 years old and suffered a stroke of paralysis six years ago. He was bedfast for some time, but improved and was able to get about. He was mowing the lawn Friday evening when he fell dead, evidently from a heart attack. His wife found him lifeless on the ground near the lawnmower.

The body was removed to the Dilgard Funeral Home and was returned to the residence Saturday afternoon Final rites were held at the Auburn Presbyterian Church Monday afternoon at 2:30. The pastor, the Rev. Hugh F. Craven, officiated and burial was made in Fairfield Center Cemetery.

Mr. Shook was a member of a prominent DeKalb County family. He was born Oct. 26, 1877, in Fairfield Township and attended business college in Fort Wayne. He taught school for eight years in Fairfield Township and was deputy county auditor when his brother, Emery, was auditor. He remained as deputy for a year after A. W. Madden became auditor. He was employed at the City National Bank in Auburn and was elected county auditor in 1923, serving four years. He afterward lived on a farm near Waterloo and then moved back to Auburn.

Mr. Shook and Ida Henney were married in 1901 at Hudson. They became the parents of two children, but both died. Surviving besides the widow is one brother, Dr. Benjamin O. Shook, of Spencerville, former county coroner.

Mr. Shook was a member of the Reformed Church at Hudson and attended the Presbyterian Church while in Auburn.

BOYS ARE BUSY EQUIPPING CLUB HOUSE

The latest "Young American" activity about St. Joe, is the organizing of the U. S. Navy Club, by Donald Yeiser and Harold Baker, who are the leaders, with a group of youngsters from about 9 to 15 years of age. The vacant building of Wm. Strouse is undergoing a thorough cleaning inside and out by the youngsters, and furniture is being moved in for their operation. Tables, chairs and beds are a part of their present equipment.

A quantity of comic books will make up their library, and shelving will be built to handle the assortment. As time goes on they expect to add to the equipment to meet the needs of the fast growing number of members. Donald Yeiser and Bobbie Baker are the "ring leaders" and Jack Kees, Jack Woodcox, Jerry Baker, Bruce Baker and Raymond Murphy make up the club register to date. As soon as word gets about, boys from all around will flock in for membership.

Certain work is to be done by each member in order that the club may function properly, and should any member fail to obey orders, punishment as so ordered by the two officers will be meted out to the offender.

Managed Economy

Business took me to Indianapolis in the last week of May, just in time to witness another sickening fluke of manhandled economy. Dead hogs lay uncounted on the ground by the roadside in the sun, 100% loss to their owners, to the nation's wealth and to the world's food supply. It was a blunder, of course. Surely this time nobody will say, "We planned it this way."

It was two years ago that the government named an arbitrary price on fat hogs and guaranteed it for two years. The aim was for the people of the United States to have the right amount of pork at the right price. Obviously, price-fixing was only the first step. In order to get just the right amount of pork, the government rationed corn, which is essential in the growing of pork.

Feared Piggishness

The next measure was to ration pork so just the right number of hogs would feed just the right number of people just the right number of days. It was assumed that smart bureaucrats knew precisely how many pounds of grain it took to produce a pound of pork, and could figure how many eaters there were and how much ham and bacon they ought to eat per family per day, or per county per degree Fahrenheit, or something.

If there is one reader of this column who lacks such knowledge, I want to offer some facts of life about hogs: Just ten months from the day a farmer consents to tolerate another family of pigs on his estate, he can be selling 250-pound, prime shotes. America is now in the third generation of swine since the government guaranteed the price. Apparently pig culture has become a national hobby.

Grown for Profit

Now when pigs are right to eat, they are ready to sell, and the creaking timbers of America's bulging pig-pen had been heard in Washington for several weeks before the OPA lowered the bars, took ration points off pork and released the squealing deluge. Had the big-wigs figured right? No! Hog receipts at eleven main packing centers exceeded processing capacity. Result: embargo.

Indianapolis was only a sample. Hogs arrived too fast to kill. Packers quit bidding for them. Farmers with trucks full of hogs formed caravans on the roads. Traffic jammed. Lines waited and waited some more. Pigs died of thirst and hunger and were piled outside the stockyards. Then the green flies came. They didn't have to wait on the OPA—purely unofficial.

To Err Is Human

Carpenters hide their mistakes with putty. Doctors, it has been said, bury theirs. I hope no Washington braintruster was too disappointed when (after ration points were lifted off pork) the American people failed to eat up the consequences of his error. After all, enough pork is enough. And what happened was no worse than this nation had every right to expect.

The law of supply and demand is a law of nature, no less than the law of gravity. In like degree they are God's laws and no mortal can make headway against them. Even doubters say pork is probably the easiest market of all markets to guess; and what a flop! War caused no part of the ridiculous pig fiasco. If such tinkering should become a national post-war policy, we would be in for a sad season of man-made muddles.

HENS AS BIG AS HOGS?

THE Government has estimated the 1943 cash income from Hogs at $2,953,311,000 and from Poultry and Eggs at $2,213,842,000. In other words, the farmers of this country received almost as great a proportion of their income from poultry and eggs as they did from pigs. Truly from an income producing standpoint, hens are mighty near as big as hogs in the U. S. A.

These poultry figures may surprise you as they did us. Electricity made a substantial contribution to this achievement by lengthening the hens' egg production "day" with electric lights in the hen houses, by electric incubator and brooder reduction in chick mortality and production of healthier chicks and by the other electric aids to the modern poultryman. It's a real contribution in these days of help shortage and the need for food conservation.

In the good old summertime we try eliminating poison ivy and oak for the protection of the many. We watch out for ragweed for the relief of hay fever victims. Flies and mosquitoes we try to knock out during these months of their propagation, but there is a certain amount of public indifference to rats who relish summer too. The larger the city the more alleys and the more dirty alleys, the more the rat flourishes. It is not only necessary to keep alleys clean for the sake of appearances, but from the standpoint of health. It is the obligation of everyone here in St. Joe to see that garbage pails are not open or boxes of waste clutter the back lots.

SERIOUS BUSINESS

During the process of waging a war this country is going through the democratic formulas of nominating its president. The Republican convention held in Chicago, gave a picture of how a constitutional government such as ours, meets to name its candidate. In peace times the battle for triumph in the conventions is not always engaged in such an orderly manner as this last convention. The fanfare and hoop-la of staging a big show plus some mud-slinging at the opposition's candidates, finds its advocates in fine fettle at such a gathering. However, this is an especially impressive and serious ceremony this year since we are wrapped in a war to maintain for this country the principle of nominating candidates for the presidency on a democratic scale. We are displaying to the world at large that we will not fail in our system in spite of battle. The Democrats meet to select their nominee and they too will carry their responsibility with order and earnestness.

ADVOCATING CHANGE IN DAYS AND HOURS

Charles "Wingy" Wendorf has been nominated at the hoboes convention as a candidate for president of the United States. He will run on a one-point platform advocating a four-hour a day and a two-day week.

Wendorf, a moving speaker, has acted king of the soapbox orators of "Bughouse" square in Chicago for the past few years. In his opening campaign address he said: "The way I see it boys, the curse of this world is too much work. I'm for a world where you start at noon, take an hour out for lunch and quit at five. And, if you've got any sense, when you get a guy with a platform like that you won't stop with making him king of the soapboxers, you'll make him president of the United States."

Wendorf's humanitarian platform was the spark for a demonstration that shook the walls of the Dill Pickle club, where the convention was held. In the spirit of self-sacrificing patriotism, Hobo King Jeff Davis, "Listen" Sheridan and "Hacienda" Tollman of Chicago, and London's "Cosmic Kid" withdrew their names from the nomination to prevent disunity in the organization.

GEORGIA FARMER QUITS IN DISGUST

Overcome by what he termed the red tape of government bureaucracy, James H. Wylie, Rome, Georgia, merchant and farmer, is abandoning his fertile 1,500 acre farm near Vincent, Alabama.

"I think it's a hell of a note," he said, "when I have to pay taxes to be put out of business and stop producing at a time when food is needed perhaps as never before and when the agricultural department is pleading with the farmers to produce on the largest possible scale.

"Bureaucracy has got the agricultural population so hopelessly entangled in red tape that unless drastic reforms are put thru promptly the food problem will become more serious than it is, and it's bad enough now."

Wylie said he is getting rid of his herd of 250 beef cattle, for which he will be unable to grow feed. Instead of the 10 to 20 men he once hired to work on his farm, he said he had only two employees left and told them they "can go fishing."

His decision to abandon the farm resulted from trouble he encountered in trying to get a truck to replace the worn out vehicle in which he had been transporting German war prisoner workers from Fort McClellan, Ala., to agricultural work on his land.

Some 400 abandoned army trucks stand idle at Fort McClellan. These trucks are in the custody of the treasury department, but efforts to get one have proved unavailing.

(O)fficial (P)ublic (A)pology Squares Six Autoists.—The news story in a Washington newspaper carrying this headline stated that "Blushing OPA officials publicly apologized for the 'unfortunate error' that led to publication of the names of six auto owners whose gas coupons were suspended for six months."

The Civil Service Commission reports that in 1910 there was 1 person on the federal government pay roll for every 264 of national population. After the war expansion of 1914-1918, this ratio stood at 1 to 153 in 1920. Liquidation of the war agencies restored a ratio of 1 to 200 in 1930. Today the figure is 1 to 41!

Dear Mr. Leighty:

Just a few lines tonight to let you know I am O.K. and hope that everything may be moving along smoothly around St. Joe.

I received word on July 2nd of my father's death and you can't imagine how shocked I was over this sudden ordeal.

I sure regret very much not being able to be there at that time but since I could not be, I have, in my own crude way, said a prayer which I hope may follow him into his new world and that someday, maybe, we can again join each other, in a world, more peaceful than that of ours today.

I wonder if you might mention my greatest thanks to all friends, neighbors and folks who stood by Mother in this saddening ordeal. Thanking you very much, I remain,

As ever,

LOCAL BOY WRITES FROM HOSPITAL

McCloskey General Hospital, Temple, Texas, July 19. —Pfc. John E. Harter's career as a fighting American was brought to an end just five days after the big push started from the Anzio beachhead. Although he managed to avoid injury from the consistently vicious German shell fire while the beachhead was being established, his luck failed him when his unit spearheaded the attack that eventually broke the German defense ring around Anzio.

"Our orders," explained Pvt. Harter, "had been to move up, replace an outfit that was pinned down by the Jerries and then to break through their lines.

"Once you start moving up toward the enemy away from cover and your foxhole, you have to keep moving. You can't stay put in any particular place with natural cover for the simple reason that the enemy will plaster the spot with artillery and mortar shells. The only time you stop for any length of time is when you have no choice and are forced to by enemy fire.

"That's what happened to our advance. So many artillery shells were going off in our faces and around us that we just had to hit the dirt. It seemed that every shell hit somebody. I was one of a Browning Automatic Rifle squad. A close shell knocked off the other two men. I took a fast dive into a shell hole. It wasn't a very large one so my head stuck out of one end and my feet out of the other. A minute later the sergeant came over to see how I was doing. His coming there was an awful break for him, but it saved my life.

"The sergeant was lying on the ground between me and the spot where the next shell burst. Shrapnel from the shell killed him instantly and threw his body over mine. The pieces that his body didn't stop tore off my feet, hit me in the arm and the right eye.

"Americans can be proud of their medical aid men. They continually demonstrate real guts the way they prowl around in shell fire taking care of the men that get hurt. One of them passed by me, and I yelled out to him. He came over and pulled the sergeant's body off of me. I passed out while he was giving me medical aid. I had to lie where I was until 10 o'clock the next day before the firing died down enough for them to carry me out. As I lay there, shells kept going off and pieces whizzed over me all night long. Only one little piece hit me in the arm.

"Even though I was wounded I was very lucky over there. When we first came ashore at Anzio our LST was hit directly by the 'Anzio Express,' a huge German gun which the Jerries fired from way back in the hills. The shell went thru the deck and exploded down below where we were. Trucks and other equipment stopped the flying shrapnel so I wasn't hurt. The 'Anzio Express' shoots a terrific shell, 280 millimeter, the kind that kills you fast.

"When we got on the Anzio beach we could only dig shallow fox holes. Deep ones would fill with water. During the first night ashore the Jerries bombed our area. If I hadn't been lying flat in my fox hole at the time, a large piece of metal from a bomb that burst close by would have cut me in half. We found the piece the next morning. It had just creased the top of my foxhole."

Smiling Johnnie Harter has a wife, Mrs. Violet Harter, and a two months old daughter, who live near St. Joe, Indiana. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harter, who reside at Newville, Indiana.

Pfc. Harter's new address will be: Pfc. John E. Harter, 35549610, % McCloskey General Hospital, Temple, Texas.

Well-trained GHOST wants work!

THE local Society of Spooks and Spectres blames us for unemployment among its members.

They say a ghost has got to have long dark halls to work in and flickering candles to blow out. How can any self-respecting wraith rattle chains or utter mournful moans in a brightly lighted room with the radio playing swing music?

Seriously, today's children have little chance to learn the fear of the dark that once oppressed their elders. They don't know how shivery blackness can be. They never fumbled blindly for a match or felt tremulous relief as the lamp wick caught flame and slowly drove back the shadows.

Who's afraid of misty apparitions — with reassuring light always instantly at hand? And just as electricity has all but banished haunted houses, so it has laid the ghosts of many household jobs that once were done by hand.

In fact, electricity is so common, so constant today, that most people take it for granted. But the folks who work for this company can't do that. It's their hard work, careful planning and good business management that keep electric service friendly, dependable and cheap — even in wartime.

GOVERNOR CITES WASTE PAPER SHORTAGE

"As paper is the No. 1 critical war material at this time, I would like to urge the citizens of our state to cooperate to the fullest extent in all current collections of waste paper," Governor Henry F. Shricker said yesterday after receiving a copy of a telegram sent to all newspaper publishers concerning the acute shortage of waste paper at the present time.

"There are nine paper mills in Indiana which are operating only about 50 to 70 per cent of capacity because they are not receiving enough paper waste" the Governor continued. "Our people have always done a magnificent job in support of all win-the-war efforts. We must not dodge now our responsibility on this patriotic call. I appeal to all our citizens to get behind this waste paper campaign."

The monthly goal set for Indiana is ten pounds per person. Everyone must help if we reach it.

Federal Aid

School teachers are influential people. They choose their calling as a rule because they love children, and love influences children. Youngsters, in turn, control their homes and parents more than they realize; in ways they don't know about. Thus a good teacher is a power in the community. Any politician could cut quite a splash if only he could line up all the teachers behind him.

The idea is not new. Starts are made in that direction often. Plans to harness the public schools of America in a bureaucratic treadmill have come before Congress four times since 1937. They have failed every time but each new attempt shows more strength. The most recent one, discussed in this column about a year ago, gained enough momentum to get talked about from Bangor to Burbank.

Maybe Nine Lives

This latest sally on the public school system was led by Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, helping Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah. The bill, (S. 387) as finally rejected by the 78th Congress, is dead but the senators' ambitions can still wiggle. Hill is campaigning now for re-election on a platform of "federal aid to education," and that's been a hobby of Thomas' for a long time.

The issue will be revived. Political problems have a way of coming to life repeatedly until they are solved, and this one is not solved. Teachers have a right to earn as much in the classroom as they might get for manual labor in a factory and, until teachers' pay is adjusted, state school authorities will have their troubles born of somebody's mistakes; maybe their own.

Government has no magic source of wealth. It is the taxpayers who have to meet school bills and teachers' salaries whether the money is paid out in small amounts by a duly elected neighbor at the county courthouse or disbursed by billions in a distant city by some appointed bureaucrat.

Money Has Power

Federal aid to education, if it comes, will be federal control of schools eventually, whether the author of the bill wants it or not. Whoever signs the checks can compel obedience to orders, even from teachers. Obviously most public school systems need, not federal support, but better state support. There are at least six good reasons. Three are plain and practical, the others basic.

(1) Federal control would cost taxpayers more for the same results than state control; an extra handling charge.

(2) Federal control of public schools would make one more huge bureau with an army of henchmen in a maze of pyramiding salaries.

(3) Federal control will ride down traditions. How the South will bristle at the first official effort to seat white and colored children together at school. It might easily result in widespread violence.

Wrong in Principle

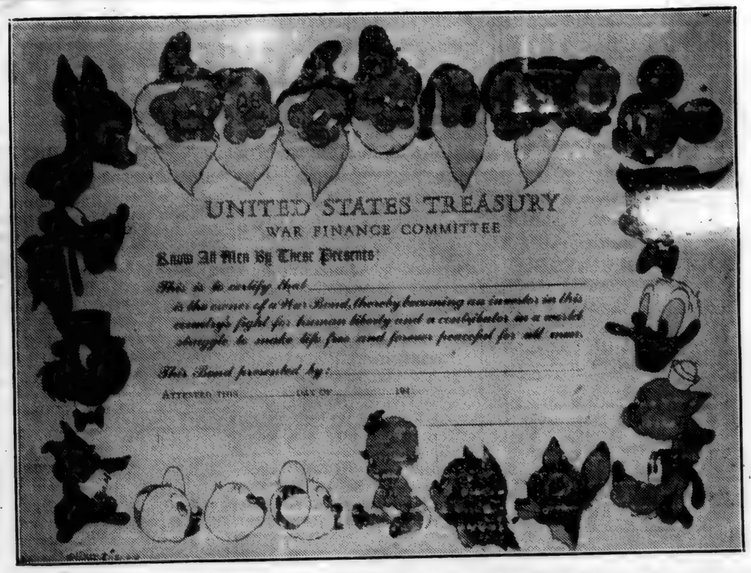
The foregoing objections are practical ones. But it is wrong in principle to rob parents of their influence in public schools.

(4) Concentrating school funds in the hands of far-away strangers is saying to all parents, "Hands off school!"

(5) It is also fruitful of racketeering.

(6) Worse yet, it violates the principle of state sovereignty which is the backbone of American freedom.

Any time rich Washington sets up a W.P.A. for teachers, local sources of school revenue will start drying up. Soon the U. S. Treasury will be footing all bills and that suggested 300 million dollars a year increase in pay for teachers will not be a drop in the bucket. In many states teachers need and deserve more pay. If it comes the people will pay it and they'd better handle it locally. A local solution to the problem is possible anywhere.



An original copy in colors of this certificate designed by Walt Disney, famous creator of Donald Duck, Mickey Mouse, Bambi and Dumbo and a host of other beloved animated film characters, will be awarded by the Treasury Department to every Hoosier child five years old or younger for whom a war bond is purchased. Part of a new Bonds for Babies campaign, the certificate will be presented by the women's division of the Indiana War Finance Committee.

"For a better chance in a better world, buy war bonds for the baby."

That's the slogan of a Bonds for Babies campaign being inaugurated today by the women's division of the Indiana War Finance Committee to assure the coming generation the same opportunity as adults to enjoy the benefits of investments in the world's safest securities.

The program was announced by Mrs. Oscar A. Ahlgren, chairman of the women's division, who explained that a specially designed certificate by Walt Disney will be presented by the United States Treasury Department to each child five years old or younger for whom a war bond is purchased.

In attractive colors, the certificate measures 10 inches long by eight inches wide, and is suitable for framing. Bordering it are facsimiles if Donald Duck, Dumbo, Bambi, the Seven Dwarfs and other familiar character of the animated Disney series which live and talk on the motion picture screens of the world.

The certificate, which will be mailed direct from the headquarters of the Indiana War Finance Committee in Indianapolis, will bear the name of the donor as well well as of the child.

It certifies that the baby or child is the owner of a war bond, "thereby becoming an investor in this country's fight for human liberty and a contributor in a world struggle to make life free and forever peaceful for all men."

Crtificates will be issued for each bond purchased in the E, F and G series, Mrs. Ahlgren said, with county chairmen of the women's division reporting all sales to the state office.

"The purpose of the Bonds for Babies campaign is to help assure the future of America's children born since the war in Europe began," declared Mrs. Ahlgren. "The purchase of a Series E bond every month now will mean that after ten years the child will receive $25 each month, regardless of depression or other conditions—a sound basis at 18 years of age for beginning a college education or otherwise furthering plans for entering a business or profession."

Parents, grandparents, aunts and uncles and other relatives wil lbe urged to participate in the childs post-war planning by regular purcahess and gifts of war bonds to young Sally or Bill—the future Mr. and Mrs. America.

New GOP Chairman

Herbert Brownell's career is in many ways a parallel to that of Thomas E. Dewey. Both were born in the Middle West—Dewey in Michigan, Brownell in Nebraska. Both are graduates of their native state's university, where both edited the college newspaper. Both went east to study law and practice in New York City. Both went into public office in their twenties to fight against political corruption. Both are typical of the young, vigorous and constructive Republican leadership that means good government and hope for the future.

Mr. Brownell has been active in politics for some time. In 1941 he was prevailed upon by Governor Dewey to become campaign manager for a candidate in a local New York election. Brownell put his candidate over and the next year he managed Dewey's successful campaign for governor and later conducted the fight for the election of Lieut. Gov. Joe R. Hanley, of New York.

Mr. Brownell was elected to the New York Assembly five times, retiring in 1937. He was born in Peru, Nebraska, on February 20, 1904, and shortly thereafter his family moved to Lincoln where he graduated from high school at the age of 16. He attended the University of Nebraska from which he graduated in 1924. Going East he entered Yale Law School where he edited the Yale Law Journal in his senior year. After graduation in 1927 Brownell became a law clerk in the New York firm of Root, Clark, Buckner and Ballantine. He is now a partner of Lord, Day & Lord, one of New York's oldest law firms.

Herbert Brownell Jr., chairman, Republican National Committee.

Brownell was a delegate to the Republican national conventions of 1936 and 1944. He is president of the 10th Assembly District Republican Club of New York, a trustee of the Nebraska University Foundation and a member of the American Bar Association and the Bar Association of the City of New York.

PERSONAL PROPERTY VALUES INCREASE

An increase of 9.7 per cent in the valuation of personal property assessed locally this year was shown in the office of County Auditor Burley Ensley, of Auburn.

The 1944 valuation is $7,089,320, as compared with $6,455,900 a year ago. Higher market prices of livestock and an increase in the number were an important factor in the rural districts this year.

Mortgage exemptions approved this year totaled $1,133,180, a reduction of $207,180.

Soldiers' exemptions increased $70 this year but none were filed from Jackson, Keyser, Newville, Spencer, and Troy townships.

PRESS COMMENT

"Never has there been such unanimity behind a candidate. Last night most of them had their first chance to see him (Dewey) and observe this new leader at first hand.

"The answer came in a strong and telling speech. It would be difficult to find a parallel for its hard-hitting eloquence in Convention oratory. It found its unity in an insistent realization of where the immediate task lies . . . in a sense, what he said was less important than what he was. It was above all else a task of leadership—of those intangibles which make a man stand out from his fellows, that render him unique, that make men turn instinctively to him for direction."—New York Herald Tribune.

"The Convention took him (Dewey) because the people back home wanted him, and the people back home wanted him because they believed he was competent and stood for the fundamentals they believe in."—Kansas City, Missouri, Star.

Before you begin your 1944 canning, Good Housekeeping Magazine advises you: use the boiling-water bath method for tomatoes and friuts, only. Can all vegetables except tomatoes by the correct use of a pressure cooker to be sure of killing botulinus germs. In the last few years, cases of botulinus food poisoning have cropped up in widely different parts of the country. Buy, borrow, share a pressure cooker—but don't can low-acid vegetables any other way. If you want further information, write the Good Housekeeping Magazine, 959 Eighth Avenue, New York 19, N. Y.

LT. COLLINS WRITES TO K. OF P. LODGE

Italy, 7, 12.

Dear Brothers:

"Was more than glad to receive a few lines from you since it was the first time, however it's good to know that some one knows where we are and what we do. I'm sure I speak for all the members when I say we will sure be ready for a good get-together at the Hall after this business is completed, a lot of our boys are in by now but we'll be around again some of these days.

"I did get wounded the latter part of May, I'm still resting here trying to get my shoulder healed up before I can rejoin the outfit.

"The wound was a bullet through the left shoulder plus a fracture of the shoulder blade. I'm out of the hospital and feel fine but as you know it all takes time. I'm in a good outfit which has had plenty of contact so I'm going to be glad to be with them as soon as possible.

"Well, I guess that's about all for now, you men carry on in America and I'm sure that the day we all wait for will not be long coming."

Respectfully,

The LIONS CLUB

Seventeen members of the Lions Club responded to roll call Monday evening, when the group gathered at 6:30 on the lawn at the home of Lion Leighty. The dinner was a carry-in and everyone had more than enough to eat. The warm evening made the open-air meeting ideal in every respect.

President, Lion Ridgway, called on Lion C. O. Duker, who talked on the state convention held recently at South Bend, and like most speakers today, he could not refrain from speaking of the war and the peace to follow the unconditional surrender.

One very striking statement was made by Lion Duker, as follows: "Freedom cannot be taken as a cloak and be handed down to other generations," any more than old clothes can be handed down from one child to another without a feeling of resentment at some time or another, and he who has this ability of handing down personal things to another without this feeling is a philanthropist.

Every person wants this feeling of security, independence, as a result of his own making, and at some time will resent the fact that others have contributed to them of their "old clothes" at a time when they were unable to care for themselves, and in case of nations, when in their financial infancy due to conditions such as now there may be a kick-back when they become able to fully care for themselves. A great deal has to do with the future relation of nations, by the methods used by those who are doing the helping.

Lion Rectenwall gave a talk on the effect of the spirit of True Lionism, as evidenced in better citizenship, better government, better communities, and tolerance which is the mark of good citizenship; it teaches unselfishness, punctuality and courtesy.

Lion Stemen brought a timely talk on Safety as it effects the farmers of our nation. In 1943, twenty thousand farmers were killed and 1½ million farmers injured. Perhaps this is the most hazardous life of any, due to work with machinery and animals. The farm casualties are divided, one-fifth to animals, one-fifth to home and three-fifths to farm machinery. The man hours wasted were enough to supply the nation with four days of food. Many of these injuries are attributed to inexperienced help, many of them being "either too young or too old."

The programs for August will be prepared by Lions Hollabaugh, Laub and Rectenwall. For September, Lions Kline, Billow and Keeler will make the committee.

The club will continue with the waste paper salvage. Persons having paper for the club will call Glen Cole for August, and Claude Laub for September. It may be difficult to contact these parties always, so Lion Ridgway, the president, can be contacted by phone at most any time Remember the Lions Club wants your waste paper.

"Save waste paper—save a boy's life."

Nancy Jo and Buddy Vendrely and Peggy Jo Koch enjoyed a picnic dinner at the home of Joyce Dean on Tuesday noon honoring Peggy Jo's seventh birthday anniversary.

A pot luck dinner and supper were held on Sunday at the home of George Doll, honoring Pvt. Woodrow Hursh, who was home on a short leave from the Marine Base at San Diego, Calif. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. Hursh, Mrs. Rallie Markle, Miss Gaylon Markle, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Filman, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Koch and daughter, Peggy Jo, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hursh and children, Betty and Teddy, Mr. and Mrs. Erveng Vendrely and children, Nancy and Buddy, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dean and daughter, Joyce, Pvt. and Mrs. Woodrow Hursh, and the host and hostess and son, Davey. "SILENT BARRIERS"

Not since "The Covered Wagon" has there been any film comparable for it's epic sweep and surging drama as "Silent Barriers." Briefly, "Silent Barriers" describes the building of the Rocky Mountain Section of the Canadian Pacific Railroad against the almost insuperable odds of avalanche and flood, of muskeg and forest fire, of freezing temperature and torrid heat, of lack of funds and rioting laborers. After untold perils and hardships the long sought-after route is completed, one of man's most amazing dreams come true, the welding of a continent by a thin ribbon of steel. The film ends on the triumphant note as the first cross-country train chugs thru the pass. A first class epic film which offers thrilling entertainment for all tastes.

PHEASANTS RELEASED BY CLUB SUNDAY

Walter Stewart, president of St. Joe Conservation Club, reports the releasing of 160 pheasants last Sunday. The birds were placed on farms in this section that are not closed to hunting, and also where there is plenty of food, water and shelter. These birds are supplied the club when one day old, and are then brooded, fed and cared for until eight weeks old, when they are ready for release.

Mrs. George Tustison has brooded the chicks for the past several years.

When the birds are ready for liberation, the game warden for this section is notified, and he calls and counts the birds and arranges with the local committee for their release. Clyde Stewart who made the release said the local club had the best birds in DeKalb County. This is, of course, a credit to the committee as well as Mrs. Tustison, who cared for them during the two months.

Release made by other clubs in DeKalb County the past week are as follows:

PEARSON PREDICTIONS 68 PER CENT ACCURATE

That a prophet is without honor in his own country may apply to certain prophets, but not to clever Drew Pearson, BLUE network commentator heard each Sunday over WOWO at 6:00 P.M. CWT, whose accurate predictions of things to come have been approximately 68 per cent right.

One Pearson prediction which was more or less shrugged away as so much nonsense, was made in his broadcast last October 24, 1943. On that program Pearson said:

"Hitler's new weapon will be a long range rocket built somewhat like a glider which will be able to cross the English Channel and bring terror and destruction to the very heart of England."

And on September 27, 1942, the Washington Merry-Go-Round columnist and commentator predicted over the BLUE Network that "Thomas E. Dewey would be the next Republican nominee for president."

This thing of being a successful fisherman evolves itself into two fundamentals upon which all fishermen will agree and the first one is where to go for the finnies and second one is how shall I fish, whether to use live or artificial bait. The Tustison boys, including Paul, George, Russell and Karl know all the answers. Last Sunday they made the course of the river by casting and they came in with five black bass from one to three pounds; two large rock bass; and a wall eye and northern pike measuring sixteen inches, both of which they released for future catching.

FDR-Truman Top '44 Slate Of Democrats

Platform Stresses International Post-War Organization for Peace.

By GEORGE A. BARCLAY

Amid historic demonstrations acclaiming his 12-year record in the White House and the promise of his future service, President Roosevelt was renominated for a fourth term by the Democratic national convention in Chicago.

Only one ballot was necessary to give the President 1,086 votes. Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia received 89 votes, his support coming chiefly from Southern delegations who registered a protest against the fourth term and the New Deal. James A. Farley, former national committee chairman and manager of Mr. Roosevelt's first two campaigns, received one vote. His name had not been placed in nomination.

In one of the most hotly contested battles for the vice presidential nomination in the history of the party, Sen. Harry S. Truman of Missouri, whose chairmanship of the senate committee investigating the war program had won him national recognition, captured the position. The Missourian won on the second ballot when he overcame a long lead piled up by Vice President Henry A. Wallace on the first poll.

A crowd which jammed every seat and flowed over into the aisles and galleries of the Chicago Stadium cheered the President's acceptance speech which he delivered by radio from an undisclosed Pacific coast naval base, whither he had arrived from a cross-country trip. The President described this journey as "in the performance of my duties under the Constitution." Senator Samuel D. Jackson of Indiana, permanent chairman of the convention, introduced the President.

Nation's Choice.

In outlining the future as he saw it, and stressing the necessity of planning for forthcoming eventualities, Mr. Roosevelt declared:

"The war waits for no elections."

"The people of the United States," he added, "will decide this fall whether to turn this 1944 job — this worldwide job — to inexperienced and immature hands, to those who opposed lend-lease and international cooperation against forces of aggression and tyranny until they could read the polls of popular sentiment, or whether they wish to leave it to those who saw the danger from abroad, who met it head-on and who now have seized the offensive and carried the war to its present stages of success."

No. 1 item in the President's analysis of "the job before us in 1944" is fast and overpowering victory over the Axis. Next is the formation of an international organization which would make future wars impossible, and third is the building of a firm economy for returning veterans of the war.

Concise Platform

President Roosevelt's desire for a concise platform was fulfilled when the convention ratified by acclamation the 1,500-word document presented by the resolutions committee. It was one of the shortest in modern times, with most of its planks single sentences.

Chief interest centered in the platform's declaration for a postwar international organization based on sovereign equality and with power to use armed forces if necessary to preserve peace.

On the race question, the platform declared:

"We believe that racial and religious minorities have the right to live, develop and vote equally with all citizens and share the rights that are guaranteed by our constitution. Congress should exert its full constitutional power to protect those rights."

The platform urged steps promoting the encouragement of risk capital and new enterprise and promised special attention to the natural resources of the west. It urged reduction or repeal of wartime taxes as soon as possible.

Relaxation of wartime controls at the earliest possible moment was promised, along with a pledge of special aid to small business and a declaration against monopolies, cartels "or any arbitrary private or public authority."

For agriculture, the platform pledged: price guarantees and crop insurance; farm parity with labor and industry; steps to foster the success of the small independent farmer; aid for the ownership of family - sized farms; broader markets; extension of rural electrification.

Continuation of the administration's policy of full benefits for ex-service men and women with special consideration for the disabled was promised.

"We make it our first duty to assure employment and economic security to all who have served in the defense of our country," the platform added.

The labor plank pledged the enactment of additional legislation as experience may require, including amendments or repeal of any law which has failed in its purpose.

Barkley's Tribute.

Dramatic scenes accompanied the nominating speech by Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky. President Roosevelt's service, he said, is a "record of achievement in national and international affairs so amazing and successful that his friends proclaim it and his enemies dare not threaten it with destruction."

Senator Barkley's address precipitated a demonstration which lasted more than half an hour. This was followed by four seconding speeches.

Truman became a bandwagon candidate after southern states which had scattered their votes between Senator Bankhead of Alabama, Senator Barkley of Kentucky and a long list of favorite sons began to switch their votes to Truman.

Preconvention interest had centered on this contest for the vice presidency and excitement mounted as the three-day meeting progressed. While the delegates had before them President Roosevelt's statement that he would vote personally for Mr. Wallace if he were a convention delegate, they also were informed that he likewise thought Senator Truman—or Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas—would add strength to the ticket that will oppose the Republicans' Thomas E. Dewey and John W. Bricker.

The official tabulation of the second ballot for the vice presidency, taken on the evening of the convention's third day, after more than four hours of oratory was: Truman, 1,078; Wallace, 66; Justice William O. Douglas, 4; and Gov. Prentice Cooper of Tennessee, 22. Vice President Wallace had received 429½ votes on the first ballot, compared to Truman's 319½.

Mr. Wallace was quick to congratulate the winner and urge his support. "My own defeat is not a loss to the cause of liberalism," he said. "That is obvious in what happened here at the convention."

Following his nomination, Mr. Truman was escorted to the platform amid the cheers of the overflow crowd. In a speech lasting hardly a minute, he said he would continue his efforts "to help shorten the war and win the peace under the great leadership of President Roosevelt," and then, stating that he did so "with humility," he accepted the nomination.

Those suggested for the nomination, in addition to Truman and Wallace, were: Sen. Scott S. Lucas of Illinois; Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy; Gov. J. M. Broughton of North Carolina; Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma; Paul V. McNutt of Indiana, War Manpower commissioner; Sen. John H. Bankhead of Alabama; Sen. Alben Barkley of Kentucky; Gov. Prentice Cooper of Tennessee; Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahony of Wyoming, and Sen. Elbert Thomas of Utah. Added starters were Gov. Herbert O'Connor of Maryland and Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida, who were put in the race by first-ballot votes.

Political observers were definite in their belief that Truman would strengthen the Democratic national ticket. They pointed out that in choosing the Missourian the party had a candidate whose voting record in the senate has been consistently pro-Roosevelt and friendly to labor. The fact that Truman is a veteran of World War I, with a distinguished record, is likewise regarded as a strong asset. That he is acceptable to labor was indicated by the action of Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO Political Action committee, one of Wallace's chief supporters, who declared that Truman was satisfactory to his group. In the South, Truman likewise should attract support. It was southern delegations which started the Truman stampede that culminated in his nomination.

Gov. Kerr's Keynote.

Unusual interest had focussed on the keynote speech delivered by Gov. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, for it was the first time the Westerner had faced a national party meeting.

Veteran convention attendants were agreed that the Oklahoman's performance ranked high among such performances in their memory. Caustic in his denunciations of the opposing party and fervent in his praise of the Roosevelt administration, Governor Kerr brought cheers from the delegates time after time.

Enunciating traditional party doctrine, he declared that the election of a Republican administration this year would bring about "the certain return of 1932" and would "invite disaster."

Robert E. Hannegan, national chairman, told the delegates and guests that "the fortunes of war have been too hard to win to be gambled away in the inexperienced hands of a new commander-in-chief."

The increasingly important role of women in national politics was emphasized at the convention. Three women in particular were in the spotlight: Dorothy Vredenburgh, secretary of the national committee, Mrs. Charles W. Tillett of North Carolina, assistant chairman of the convention, and Mrs. Helen Gahagan Douglas of California.

WALTER WHITEHURST POST No. 283
Meeting Night: Second & Fourth Tuesday of the Month. - - - -

American Legion membership in the Fourth Indiana district, of which DeKalb County is a part, totals 4,543, a gain of 841 during the year, according to announcement made by William E. Brown, of Bloomington, state membership chairman of the Indiana department of the Legion.

Mr. Brown, who will be a candidate for election as state commander at the Legion's state convention in Indianapolis next month, asserted in his announcement that 6,276 Hoosier veterans of World War II, or more than 50 per cent of those who have returned to civilian life, had joined the Legion. The total active membership of the Legion in Indiana, Mr. Brown reported, is 48,688, an all-time high, and 8,102 more members than the state roster contained a year ago.

"Membership in the American Legion is growing so fast that every post in the state already is, or soon will be, faced with the problem of expanding its quarters to accommodate the veterans of both world wars," Mr. Brown declared, adding that it was his purpose, should he be elected to head the Indiana department during the next year, to help the various posts in solving their new housing problems. Another task of the Legion in the coming year, he asserted, will be to see that proper care is provided for disabled veterans as they return home, to aid them in getting jobs, and to guide them in obtaining the benefits of the new "G. I." Act, including educational training as set up by the various colleges and universities of the state.

HOW BIG is the B-29, the Army Air Forces new Superfortress? The ship's over-all dimensions are a military secret, but the above picture of a vertical fin dramatizes the size of the mighty fortress. No Noise

No kids to patch and darn hose for,
No kids to wash and iron clothes for,
No lunches to fix,
No cookies to mix,
No kids to kiss hurts and soothe woes for.

No shouting or noises to s'hush,
No putting "more sugar" on mush,
No "clean up your plate."
No "hurry, you're late."
No hustle, no bustle, no rush.

No calling to breakfast at light,
No tucking the blanket in tight,
It's reveille now
That wakes them for "chow"
And taps tuck them in for the night.

No shouting, no loud laughing cheers,
No noise—just a heart filled with fears.
No noise to the prayer
That ascends to the air,
No noise to the falling of tears.

Walter Winchell

The following column was written by Walter Winchell in 1943, shortly after the release of the book, "Know Your Hay Fever," by Drs. A. P. Sperling and A. B. Berresford. The material was selected from the book.

HAY fever is now a national problem. It ranks first in prevalence among the non-fatal diseases in the U. S. today . . . Two hundred million man hours are lost yearly to defense industry through it . . . There are over 350,000 hay fever cases in N. Y. City, and 5,000,000 throughout the nation, with over 10,000 new cases added yearly . . . The most critical days are still ahead this September for hayfeverites, judging by the way the official pollen counts are running.

The underlying causes of hay fever are unknown other than that certain types of dust—light, wind-blown pollen (the male fertilizing element for the flowers of trees, weeds and grasses) affect those people who have inherited a tendency to be allergic to them due to something in their blood chemistry which is sensitive to the pollen. This sensitivity manifests itself by inflammation of the membranes of the eyes, nose, mouth, sinuses, intestines and discomfort in many bodily organs.

The sneeze is the badge of the hayfeverite . . . Outstanding pollen pals sneeze fifteen to fifty times nonstop.

It requires a stretch of the imagination to appreciate how a hayfeverite suffers . . . Only the doctor, your mother, wife or sweetheart thinks you're not an incorrigible crank . . . Others consider you a hypochondriac, high-strung, nervous, sickly, dynamic, thwarted and generally maladjusted.

It is scientifically established that once a person inherits an allergy to pollen he will be allergic to many other things—foods he eats, things he smells or inhales, house dust, spores, fabrics and other types of pollen grains. Even his wife's (or girl's) face powder.

Decorative, perfumed flowers are little trouble to hayfeverites because they are insect pollinated.

Research shows that hayfeverites never lose their hay fever . . . Ten per cent of those who take inoculative treatments build up enough tolerance to the pollen to lose their sensitivity to it in three to twenty years, the other ninety per cent who take treatments continue to have it yearly . . . The worst after-effect of hay fever is that thirty per cent of the untreated cases develop asthma.

People travel to high altitudes in the mistaken belief that they can escape pollen, but many hay fever plants grow at high altitudes . . . With the aid of boats and airplanes, pollen clouds have been noted 200 miles out to sea and 9,000 feet in the air.

There is no escape from hay fever at the seashore, winds blowing from inland carry pollen grains. But winds blowing from the ocean will be less troublesome—unless islands are nearby.

All people wearing dark glasses are not celebrities incognito. Hayfeverites find them effective for overcoming photophobia or sensitivity to light that bothers them.

PALOOKA

Cast: Jimmie Durante, Lupe Valez, Stuart Erwin, Marjorie Rambeau, Robert Armstrong, Mary Carlisle, Thelma Todd and a strong supporting cast.

This is a hilarious cinema concotion suggested by the characters in the famous Ham Fisher comic strip, "Palooka," and tells the story of a lovable but not-quite-bright lad, whose mother tries to prevent him from going the way of his bright-light loving dad. 'Stu' Erwin plays the title role, Marjorie Rambeau is seen as his mother and Armstrong is cast as his father. Durante plays 'Knobby' Walsh, fight promoter, who is cast perfectly in his role, and Lupe is the volatile night club entertainer who dazzles him into forgetting home, mother and sweetheart, Mary Carlisle. Thelma Todd plays Ma Palooka's rival for the affections of the senior Palooka, while young Cagney is seen as the blustering sweetie to whom the fickle Lupe returns when young Palooka's lucky star wins.

Durante has never had a part so perfectly moulded to his peculiar type of madness as that of 'Knobby' Walsh in this delightful Hollywood concotion.

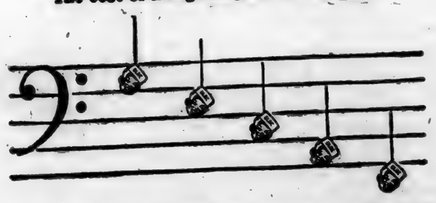
The cost of living has gone up like this—



BUT the price of electricity has come down like this!

Nobody needs to tell you that the cost of living has been soaring toward high C.

But maybe you do need a reminder that the cost of electricity has been sliding down.

If yours is an average household, you're getting about twice as much electricity for your money today as you did 15 years ago. And 1944 government figures show that the average price has continued to ease off a little — even since war began. That fact ought to be music to your ears!

Getting prices down and keeping them down is one of the electric industry's greatest achievements.

It took a lot of planning, perspiration and practical business management to do this job in wartime. All our people helped.

WHAT IS YOUR GUESS?

There is an article on the production of food in Germany in the Saturday Evening Post for July 29th, written by one Karl Brandt.

An editor's note at the head of the article says that Mr. Brandt was formerly one of Germany's foremost agricultural economists, and that he came to this country in 1933, was naturalized in 1939 and is now a professor of agricultural economics at Stanford University. He also is a consultant to various Federal agencies.

In describing the methods of control of food production in Germany he makes this statement: "Although more compulsion and less persuasion is applied, the system operates somewhat like our own AAA."

Of course it could not be that we are being Hitlerized but the coincidence is interesting.

MEMORIALS ALIVE

Scarcely a place that doesn't hold some sort of a memorial for a past hero, a notable event of generations ago. They have been to commemorate military bravery, genius, courage, deeds of daring that have been sculptured in marble and moulded in bronze, done in oils and listed in concrete. But before starting to build monuments for soldiers and battles of this war, listen to the words of President Lewis of Lafayette College, who says, "The earth is strewn with structures symbolic more of man's vanity than of his achievements." President Lewis suggests hospital beds, scholarships in institutions of higher learning that will live forever clinics for crippled children, medical research centers, musical foundations as just a few of the memorials that could be presented in tribute. We feel these would record valor in a worthy way.

AND IT FOLLOWS

Those in St. Joe who have thought their refrigerators a pretty snazzy affair and a top-notch representtive of the mechanical age, will have to take a back seat when neighbor gets his new one after the war. This electrical refrigerator of ours is going to look as outmoded as the old phonograph with the swinging horn does to today's recorder for music lovers. Tomorrow's box, as lined up ready for production when the light says "go," is an affair that will store two bushels of frozen foods and holds a temperature of 22 degrees below zero which compartment will be a separate unit. No defrosting will be needed since there is no evaporator. The top and sides of the regular cooling compartment, where you keep regular foods, will be chilled to just the right temperature with the cold air moist and moving, and no gathering of the frost. There will be an ultra-violet ray lamp that will destroy bacteria on exposed food surfaces. That large white box that cuts such a figure in our kitchens today will look out-moded tomorrow.

ARE WE ASHAMED?

Some of our people still complain about not having enough beef, high points for butter, no nylon hose, scarcity of ice cream and chewing gum, not enough gas. You might add other snivelings to this list that you have heard. Yet listen to something written in The Outpost, an American publication in Great Britain, that speaks of restrictions there. Here are a few. No icing of cakes, no selling of our lend-lease alarm clocks to any person without a permit to buy. No shoving ahead of your turn for busses or you face a penalty. Putting out milk bottles that have not been washed or wasting string and paper-even the size of a theatre ticket, brings on prosecution for you. Throwing away food is another crime. Those who are able-bodied and drive to work, except in the case of doctors and ministers, can be charged. There are numerous things that might appear to us as most severe, but to those in a country long at war and heavily bombarded, they realize too well the need for such measures. Too bad that Americans can't consider another's lot before moaning about their own. Over there they can't change any job without the government's authorizing it. Imagine the fever here when it was brought up about restricting the change from vital war jobs, alone! We do not ask that we be further restrained to make us more courageous, we just ask that we meet the few discomforts that we do face today with more restraint.

WHAT IS TO COME

For fall women's skirts will be a bit longer but reed-slim in line. They show ornate blouses that are heavily and colorfully embroidered. Suits continue to be extremely popular. Short capes are stylish. The new hats are elaborate and big. The little hats are on their way out. LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Victory Material

The United States is winning a war for humanity in 1944 as a direct result of what our pioneer ancestors did in 1776. This nation has had 168 years of freedom. Its citizens (its fighters abroad and its workers at home) have to their distinct advantage 168 years of experience at minding their own business and taking care of themselves under a system of free competitive enterprise. It's a great asset.

I wish every child in America, at about the sixth grade, where serious study of synonyms and antonyms begins, could be impressed that liberty is the direct opposite of slavery —impressed so clearly they couldn't forget. I am afraid words that mean freedom have grown poetical and abstract to all of us. To our colonial forebears, don't forget, liberty meant escape from something decidedly awful.

Pardonable Pride

Bragging about ancestors never was a habit of mine but this year, along with millions of other citizens of the United States, I am glad my grandfather's great-grandfather was a free man. Do you wonder what he ever did for me that did me any good? Just this: He taught my grandfather's grandfather to love liberty and to understand the responsibilities of freedom. These ideas seemed to gain strength until I picked them up from my dad.

Of course this freedom would have very little value if it were exclusive to the Bensons, but it's not. There were 16 young men, back in 1776, who could qualify as my grandfather's great-grandfather and they have a lot of posterity by now. Besides, they all had liberty-loving friends that year, comrades in arms perhaps, who laid the foundation of the world's greatest nation.

Our Way Is Best

Getting accustomed to civil liberty takes time, perhaps as much time as getting used to slavery. Usually it takes a liberated nation longer than one man's life-span to become adjusted to freedom. But our freedom came six generations ago and it's being unmistakably useful now. The U. S., currently making half the world's war material, has won its war of production, has done more in three years than our enemies managed to do in 23 years.

Raising, training and equipping a huge army for a fast-moving war has been Germany's everyday task since World War I officially ended. The Japs have been prowling around civilized countries marking the soft spots even longer than that. Meanwhile America all but forgot the other war and went ahead learning and building, buying and selling with malice toward none.

On Being Prepared

Hitler figured the Germans, a sturdy and warlike people, could conquer the world if they all had his objective. As a ruler he disciplined them to obey him, but he is making them fail. Obedience is important but Hitler knows now that it's no substitute for wits. This is a war of iron-rod discipline against personal liberty and the personal ability that grows out of liberty. Who's winning?

Free enterprise is military preparedness. In the "dictator countries" people forget how to think because their centralized governments think for them. Thinkers get scarce while the masses grow torpid from being bullied. In America, keen minds whetted daily in free competition get brighter and more competent. The American system qualifies people to live in peace and plenty; in safety too, because alert people can meet emergencies.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Apples are plentiful now and we should take advantage of using them in our daily meal planning says Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent. Here are two recipes that make delicious desserts.

A half cup of sour cream and a few tart early apples may keep company in either cake or pie, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A spicy loak cake calling for no eggs is made with sour cream and applesauce. Ingredients: ½ cup thick sour cream; ¾ to 1 cup sugar; ½ cup unsweetened thick applesauce; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon cinnamon; ¼ teaspoon cloves; 2 cups sifted flour; 1 teaspoon baking powder; ½ teaspoon soda; 1 cup each chopped raisins and nuts. Mix cream, sugar and sauce. Sift dry ingredients together, and add to first mixture with raisins and nuts. Mix and pour into greased bread pan. Bake in moderate oven, 350° F., for about an hour.

For sour cream apple pie, ingredients are: ½ cup sour cream; 4 to 6 tart apples, ¾ cup sugar; ¼ tps. cinnamon; ¼ tps. salt; pastry. Core, pare and slice apples. Line deep pan with pastry. Spread layer of apples on bottom. Sprinkle with mixed sugar, cinnamon and salt. Repeat until all are used. Pour cream over top. Add top sheet of dough with slits to allow steam to escape. Press top to lower crust. Put pie in moderately hot oven, 400° F. for 10 minutes, then lower temperature to moderate, 375° F., and bake 30 to 35 minutes until apples are tender and crust golden brown.

Transparent apples are plentiful now. Take advantage of this opportunity and can apple sauce, says Mary Lenore Moore. Transparent apples is one of the best for canning. They are plentiful in the county and can be secured thru the Telephone Market. Apple crop in Indiana is again light this year according to Monroe McCown, Sec. of Indiana Horticulture Society.

HOW MOTOR VEHICLE LAW IS FUNCTIONING

Nearly 17,000 Hoosier motorists forfeited their right to drive in the first seven months of operation of the motor vehicle safety responsibility law, ending June 30, Don F. Stiver, state divison of public safety director, has revealed.

The division has issued 16,740 orders suspending license tags and drivers' licenses, while 4,051 cases are pending. A total of 12,689 license suspensions were lifted when the individuals involved posted $112,825 in negotiable security or filed proof of ownership of public liability as a result of 28,000 reported accidents in the 7 months was estimated at $3,342,378, according to Mr. Stiver. The figure does not include medical costs, loss of time from employment and other expenses arising from the accidents, he said.

"Car owners and drivers are complying with the new law more readily showing the public's approval of state-wide efforts to eliminate irresponsible motorists from Indiana highways," asserted Mr. Stiver, who serves as commissioner of the motor vehicle safety responsibility section.

Reporting for June, the safety official said 1,602 suspension orders were issued and 1,392 lifted. Driver's accident report forms received totaled 7,177, and property damage resulting from accidents was placed at $468,276. Mr. Stiver said 3,203 SR-21 forms, showing insurance ownership, had been received, while 142 persons not owning insurance posted negotiable security. A total of 416 accidents were settled when the drivers agreed on the damage at once and filed release forms provided by the division.

Don't wait until you have an accident before you think of auto insurance, because you can drop in at News office and have this taken care of any time and then feel more secure when driving.

They Died to Make Them Free

Army Signal Corps Photo

This poignant picture made by an Army Signal Corps photographer shows a kneeling Roman mother and her child gently and reverently placing flowers over the still forms of two American boys who paid the supreme price to liberate them from the Nazi and Fascist grip. Look at their faces and you will see that both mother and child realize that these Americans died for them. Remember this picture when you are asked to buy an extra War Bond during the Fifth War Loan. From U. S. Treasury

INCOME REFUND CHECKS ARE IN THE MAKING

Declaring that every effort is being made to expedite refunds on 1943 income tax returns, Will H. Smith, Collector of Internal Revenue, said refund checks are being mailed to taxpayers of the Indiana district at the rate of 10,000 per week.

"To every taxpayer of this district who is entitled to a refund on his 1943 return, I would like to say," Collector Smith stated, "your refund is being processed as rapidly as possible. I cannot tell you exactly when your refund will come through, because it might be today and it might not be for a few months. But I can promise you that you will be paid interest at the rate of six per cent per year for every month your refund is delayed after March 15.

"Throughout the country we have about 18,000,000 refunds to make. In each case, the return must be compared with employers' withholding tax receipts and other documents. In many cases, returns contain errors that must be corrected.

"This involves a tremendous amount of work that must be done with a comparatively small staff, due to wartime manpower shortages. Obviously, the entire 18,000,000 refunds cannot be completed at the same time, and some taxpayers must wait another few months.

"However, a million checks are being distributed every three weeks and so you can see that, in your case, you may get your refund fairly soon."

Collector Smith suggested that taxpayers refrain from writing letters to inquire about their friends, because, in fairness to all taxpayers, the checks are being written in the order in which they are mechanically processed, and it is impossible to determine the status of any individual case without disrupting and slowing up the whole procedure.

However, if a taxpayer has changed his address since he filed his return, he should advise the collector of both his old and new addresses.

Eugene Gee is spending his vacation with Mrs. Gerald Gee and son, Jerry at Dayton, Ohio.

Chester Tucker and family moved this week from Leo into the Roscoe Walter tenant home just outside the incorporation.

Mrs. Rose Means is acting as relief operator at the telephone office for a couple of weeks, due to Candace Loftus and Wanda Wappes taking a vacation trip into Wisconsin.

Mrs. Anna Rickett visited her daughter, Mrs. Mae Allwood ad family at Butler last week. Mrs. Allwood injured her hand a few days ago when it was caught in the wringer.

Mrs. Flora Gee, who has been staying at the convalescent home in Butler, has been brought to the home of her son, Foster Gee and wife, where she will remain for awhile. Her health is quite improved, but she suffered severly with the hot weather.

Last week was a sad week for Mrs. Jane Randall. On Tuesday she received a message of the death of a cousin, Biglow Ramp, 70, of Columbia City, and on Saturday a message came telling of the death of her brother, Jefferson D. Pinchon, 85, also of Columbia City. Because of ill health, Mrs. Randall was unable to attend the funerals.

The town board had a busy session Monday night. Willard Hurni was made clack-treasurer, allowing of claims for two months, discussing the mater of cutting weeds about town, and notices were ordered mailed out by the clerk to parties interested, the making of the tax budget for next year and discussing matters in general and of drainage problems.

SHE WILL DRINK HER WEIGHT OF WATER

INSTALL RUNNING WATER Electrically

A COW requires about 25 gallons of water a day for health and milk productivity. That makes 1,400 pounds a week. The daily need of poultry is 2½ gallons for each 100 chickens, and hogs quench their thirst with approximately 2 gallons a day each . . . and so on down the line of farm animals.

Electrically pumped water is a "Must" on the farm today as never before . . . man-shortage dwarfs the peacetime advantages of economy and ease, adding to the need.

Good news, too, is that the government has now made increased quantities of electric water systems available for the farmer.

THIRTY YEARS WAR

Thirty years ago, on Aug. 4, 1914, the German army entered Belgium and began the war which continues today. The restless, troubled years between 1918 and 1939 were not peace, but a deceptive lull in which some prepared to renew the fight while others looked on in an almost fatal lethargy.

The first conflict taught America that science had shrunk the world until no country could be sure that it might live undisturbed in peace and freedom while a force that opposed peace and freedom sought to impose its will elsewhere on the globe. We learned the lesson slowly. Some thought, at the armistice, that war was gone forever. Others believed that if war returned to Europe, it need not concern us.

But it became apparent in the 21 years of armistice that the resumption of war would be even more bloody and devastating. The world knew what countries would have to be put down, and why. America knew, even as she tried to persuade herself otherwise, that the world had shrunk still smaller and that escape was impossible.

The modern Thirty Years' War is drawing to a close. This time the prospects for peace are more promising. Today, at least, we know that if the job is not done right this time, more war will come, and bring with it not only the end of progress, but the end of civilization as we know it. That is the sober, literal frightful truth.

HITLER'S CONTROL

It is dangerous to draw too many parallels between the trouble brewing inside Germany now and the revolt that brought about German collapse in 1918.

The mutinies which forced German surrender 26 years ago occurred only a few days before the actual armistice, and followed by many weeks the decision of the German general staff to seek an armistice.

Hitler has spoken of that event as a stab in the back and has taken steps to prevent it happening this time. He has a far greater hold over the people than the ruler of Germany had in 1918. Hitler controls even what his people think. He feeds them only such knowledge and information as he wants them to have. He has the gestapo and his other confederates and thugs to back him up.

So far, apparently, the only revolt in Germany is among those who share the leadership. It is a difference of opinion on military plans and methods.

It is not an indication of a popular uprising against the plots and plans that Hitler and the Nazis have attempted, at so great a cost to their own and the people of many other lands, to carry out.

The current revolt in Germany is at the top. There will be greater cause for elation on our part when it appears that the people on the bottom of the Nazi hierarchy are aware of what is happening to them and are ready to overthrow their leadership and call quits.

AMERICAN CASUALTIES

The report by the war and navy departments that combat casualties in this war have passed the number sustained in the first world war serves to invite attention to several comparisons.

The first is that nothing in the thirty-two months of this war has approached in intensity and sustained drive the campaign that carried the American Expeditionary Force in the first world war through the six months ending with the armistice. It was that brilliant and powerful campaign that crushed the Germans while they were gathering their forces for their victory campaign in 1919.

But in this war the combat has been spread around the world. The Navy's job of fighting to protect shipping and to cover landing operations had no counterpart in the first world war. Rising to this duty, the Navy has paid heavily in casualties to achieve a new record of superiority in naval warfare.

Army and Navy Corps casualties have been high in many sharp engagements, and in the few sustained campaigns for which the general plan of American participation has called. But it should be noted by the American people that the ground forces have yet to be called upon for their utmost power on any front.

It is probable that the deaths in this war would have been far greater under conditions which prevailed twenty-six years ago. The present high rate of recovery from wounds is due to the courage and skill of the medical units of all arms, and their amazing success in utilizing recent scientific discoveries. On the whole, the current casualty rate, anguishing as it is, is not out of line with military gains.

Press Comment

"We content ourselves in the assurance the Republicans have nominated for the presidency in this great crisis a man of high character, of demonstrated ability and of full understanding of the responsibility of his candidacy. John Bricker will be a good and useful running mate to Governor Dewey . . . The Republicans did a creditable job in Chicago. If they do as well in the campaign they will win the support of many independents who frequently cast the deciding ballots." — Cleveland Ohio, Plain-Dealer.

"Governor Dewey's rousing speech of acceptance last night must have sent every delegate away from the Convention with head high. The Republican nominee only touched on the issues which he will cover in the campaign, but he touched on them with so sure a hand, so directly and searchingly that an assurance was provided of a real fighting campaign. Those who heard Governor Dewey last night heard a man with great gifts rise to the new level that opportunity and responsibility offered him."—New York Sun.

• • •

"It is a strong ticket. The Governor of New York and the Governor of Ohio, standing upon a sturdy platform, form an admirable team for the great task of freeing the American people from the bureaucratic bogs of the New Deal."—Phil., Pa., Inquirer.

WE'R MUDDLING ALONG

While our American boys are giving the enemy a brave and brilliant fight on every battle front around the world, here at home we are continuing to make a most miserable and deplorable failure of winning the war. Bureaucratic government is surely making a foul mess of things at present and many are hoping, as a local business man remarked this week, that "the country will soon be given back to the people."—Milton (Ore.) Eagle.

WOMAN IN ROWBOAT KILLED BY A LOW-FLYING AIRPLANE

Grayling, Mich., Aug. 9. — Army officials at the Oscoda, Mich., air base reveal that one of three planes on a combat training mission yesterday struck and killed a woman in a rowboat.

Officials say an investigation was opened as soon as the formation returned to the field, but they decline to either confirm or deny reports that the plane was piloted by a free French flier.

The victim, 72-year-old Mrs. Mary Meyer of Medeira, Ohio, was struck by the propellor of one of the low-flying planes as she sat in a rowboat on Lake Margarethe.

The prosecutor's office says that French fliers have been warned about flying low and that one pilot was sent back to Africa for disregarding the warning.

CAMPAIGN TO REDUCE JOB ACCIDENTS BY 40 PERCENT

Chicago, Aug. 9. — The United State Department of Labor will conduct a campaign by which it expects to reduce job accidents by 40 percent—in figures about one-million—during the next 12 months. Theodore Meisner, regional diretor of the national committee for the conservation of manpower in war industries, will be the midwest chairman of the campaign.

Meisner has this to say regarding industrial accidents:

"It should give everyone a serious job to note that during the first two years of the war, 36,500 workers were killed, 212,000 crippled and 4,500,000 incapacitated. The total casualties caused a direct loss of 120,000,000 days of production."

During the campaign the committee will assist plants to discover accidental causes and furnish remedies. Meisner reveals that special certificates will be awarded to labor and management of plants that succeed in reducing their accident frequency rates 40 percent during the next 12 months. Any plant unit with 50 or more employes is eligible for the award.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS ABOUT RESTAURANT CEILING PRICES

Each Establishment Must Display Poster with Various Food Items on or Before August 16

1. Q. Are ceiling prices in effect in all eating and drinking places?

A. Ceiling prices are in effect in all restaurants, cafes, hotels, cafeterias, delicatessens, soda fountains, boarding houses, bars, catering businesses and other public eating and drinking establishments.

2. Q. Do all establishments have the same ceiling prices?

A. No. The prices for each establishment are set on the basis of what that particular establishment charged during the "base price period" of April 4-10, 1943.

3. Q. Do all meals have ceiling prices on them?

A. Yes. In each establishment the price of each meal is set at the highest price which was charged for the same meal during the base period.

4. Q. Do a la carte items have ceiling prices on them?

A. Yes. Their prices are the same as the highest price charged by the particular establishment during the base period.

5. Q. How can I tell what restaurant ceiling prices are?

A. Beginning August 16, 1944, each establishment will display a large poster showing the ceiling prices of 40 commonly sold meals and separate food items. The base period prices for all other meals and food items are filed by each establishment and will be made available to you upon reqesut.

6. Q. Can Sunday meals be sold at higher prices than the weekly ceiling prices?

A. If, during its base period, an establishment charged more for its Sunday meals than for weekday meals, it may continue charging those higher prices on Sunday, but its ceiling price poster must list the weekday prices of 40 commonly sold meals and food items.

7. Q. Can holiday meals be higher than the regular ceiling prices of meals

A. Establishments which charged different prices for holiday meals may go on doing so if their special holiday prices are not more than 15 percent higher than their Sunday, April 4, 1943, prices. Special New Year's Eve prices may not be higher than those charged on New Year's Eve, 1942.

8. Q. Do alcoholic beverages have ceiling prices?

A. Yes. Their prices in each establishment are the same as those legally charged during the base period, plus any taxes that legally can be passed on to consumers.

9. Q. What is the ceiling price of hot coffee?

A. The ceiling price is 5 cents per cup or pot in all establishments except those which charged more during the week of October 4-10, 1942.

NAZI SOUVENIR

Conneaut, O., Aug. 1.—Bill Dombrosky, 13-year-old Conneaut youth, is the proud owner of a German soldier's overseas cap. He found the cap along the New York Central railroad tracks and believes it must have been discarded by a Nazi prisoner enroute to a confinement camp.

MORE LOW COST CANDY NOW IN THE OFFING, OPA REPORTS

Indianapolis, Aug. 9. — The names cost candy for civilians is in the offing as the office of price administration works out a "more adequate price control than that now in existence for most types of candy," OPA said today.

OPA said plans are being made for a better system of pricing new sweets also.

SENATORIAL NAMES TO BE ON NATIONAL BALLOT THIS FALL

Washington, Aug 9. — More lowof United States senatorial nominees are going to be on the national ballot this fall.

James Emmert, who is state attorney general, rules that a seven year old Indiana legislative act specifies their addition to the federal ticket. Earlier in the week, the attorney's opinion was sought regarding their inclusion in the state ballot.

Emmert has declined to rule on a question regarding a separate ballot for senatorial nominees' names in 1946 when there will be no presidential election.

The attorney says that in two years the election laws will have been re-codified by a commission now at work on the project.

The ruling now fixes the names of the long-term candidates third on the federal ballot, following those of the presidential and vice-presidential nominee. The short-term candidates will be listed fourth and last.

SOLDIER TELLS WHY YANKS MARRY GIRLS IN AUSTRALIA

Chicago, Aug. 9. — Most people at home don't understand why American soldiers marry Australian girls, according to Pfc. Edwin G. Walker, 24, of the Far East Air Service.

Walker, formerly of Chicago where he lived with his mother, Mrs. Tessie Walker, was married July 4 to Hazel Castldine, 33, of Melbourne, Australia.

Since his marriage he has written his mother and his brother, John Walker, telling why he married Hazel. In one letter he said:

"No one should get the impression that American soldiers who marry Australian girls do not like American girls. The idea is that we married because we like the girl and did not care if she were Australian, Yank, or what nationality."

The Chicago soldier deplored the fact that a controversy has arisen over the Aussie-Yank marriages. He wrote:

"Such a controversy may bring some disunity between our two countries, and we do not want that. Also, it will make it more difficult for our Australian wives when we return to the United States after the war."

Walker said he believed fair-minded Americans will agree the Australian girls are not "getting the breaks." He added:

"My wife changed her religion to please me. She is learning American ways. She is becoming a Yank.

"We are very happy. I am aure we are always going to be happy."

DESIGNER OF 80c BOMBSIGHT IS NOW PRISONER OF WAR

Pullman, Washington, Aug 9. — The famed designer of the 20-cent bombsight used in the Doolittle raid on Tokyo is a prisoner of war.

A letter received at Washington State college reveals that Lieutenant Colonel Charles Greening of Tacoma was captured in Italy. The letter says his roommate in the Nazi prison camp is a Theta Chi fraternity brother, Lieutenant Colonel Loren McCollom, who was shot down while leading an attack on a Nazi air base in France. Their wives now are roommates in Hoquiam, Washington.

Greening designed the cheap, makeshift bombsight because the Americans did not want to risk loss of their secret bombsight in the event that any of the B-25 bombers should be shot down over Japanese territory.

RECEIVE SHOCK

Parris Island, South Carolina, Aug. 3.—Marine corps officials at a boot training camp received a considerable shock when they asked one rookie his father's occupation.

Until then even the commanding officer didn't know that Pvt. Gilbert Hershey was the son of the draft chief.

The recruit, who had completed two-and-one-half years at West Point, said he joined the marines in order to "go overseas as soon as possible."

ON CHANGING HORSES

"There are now 26 Republican wartime Governors. In these states the people did not change horses, they changed vehicles. For times like these and in a stream like this, transportation by horse is not good enough. The American people have common sense. They have been around. When they want to get ashore quickly, trust them to get off the horse and take a speedboat."—Gov. Dwight Griswold.

MAKE IT SIMPLE!

An Ohio farmer's wife wrote the OPA asking for the price of turkeys, received in reply 30,000 words of printed matter, then in desperation wrote her Congressman, "I still do not know the price of turkeys. It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to cipher it out. Isn't there something that can be done to make them answer a simple question simply?"

WRITES FROM HOSPITAL

We reproduce a short letter written by Merle Epler, who is a patient at Base Hospital, Indianapolis, written to Mr. and Mrs. Vinton L. Stemen of west of Concord a few days ago and is as follows:

"Was ever so glad to receive your letter. My leg hasn't improved much since last November. I'm wearing a brace, that I'll wear the rest of my life. Leg still drains a small amount. I have attacks of headaches every once in a while yet. They have been trying to get me discharged here for the past couple of weeks, but can't seem to make any headway because of a Colonel over at Billings Hospital, that says he thinks the Army should get some work out of me because they have spent so much money on me. I'm hoping and praying for a discharge. "Yesterday was pay day, after I payed most of my bills, I had $28.17 left, that's from two months pay I still hadn't gotten my laundry, or cigarettes. This morning when I got up, my pocketbook was gone. Someone had stolen it, took all my money, and threw my pocketbook behind a trunk. So I have 17c now. What a fix I'm in 'till I get some money from pay the last of this month. No smokes, no paper, no laundry, or anything. I don't know any of these fellows here to even borrow any."

Thanks for writing.

Your very good friend,

Pvt. Merle Epler, 35353427, 800th Base Unit, Stout Field, Indianapolis, (6) Indiana.

NO POOR RELIEF TAX LEVIED FOR COUNTY

For the first time in many years, no tax for poor relief will be levied in DeKalb County next year.

County Auditor Burley Ensley made this announcement Monday upon the preparation of the annual county budget. When poor relief levies are made, they are assessed against the individual townships and the allowances for the purpose by the township trustees are paid from the county treasury.

The trustees expect to have some applications for poor relief next year, but the balances on hand doubtless will be adequate to meet the demands. Expenditures have been declining rapidly in recent years and only four townships were assessed for 1943 and three for 1944. Those with levies for this year are Grant, Keyser and Troy.

Expenditures in the first half of 1944 were only $4,821, compared with $8,705 in the corresponding period of 1943. The balance on hand in the county treasury July 31 was $45,637, against $48,382 a year ago.

Butler and Stafford townships were entirely free from poor relief costs so far this year. Disbursements by the other townships in the first six months follow: Concord $328.66; Fairfield, $600; Franklin, $57.50; Grant, $439.59; Jackson, $102.90; Keyser, $2,303.29; Newville, $184.81; Richland, $150.72; Smithfield $282.41; Spencer, $113.59; Troy, $42.35; Union, $426.71; and Wilmington, $453.58.

Balances in the poor relief accounts of the townships July 31 follow: Butler, $1,221.41; Concord, $2,008.78; Fairfield, $1,359.22; Franklin, $4,007.23 Grant, $2,665.19; Jackson, $1,272.90; Keyser, $11,408.81; Newville, $1,115.21; Richland, $1,704.29; Smithfield, $2,603.31; Spencer, $1,003.65; Stafford, $1,575.57; Troy, $1,326.91; Union, $9,763.94; Wilmington, $2,598.

MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME

The Hall Johnson Choir is featured in MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME. This famous group of singers sings five of the world's best loved songs from the pen of the immortal Stephen Foster, who, more than any other composer, has best caught the tragic emotion which dominates negro art and immortalized it in song.

My Old Kentucky Home is the story of a girl from a wealthy blue grass family, tradition bound, who is about to marry the son of an old family friend, when her dreams are blasted as her fiance's ex-sweetheart comes on the scene to cause trouble landing them all in the headlines.

To this old Southern family, honor meant more than ambition, and to the many millions of people who love Stephen Foster's undying music, the romance and drama of My Old Kentucky Home will represent an unexcelled entertainment.

LOOKING AHEAD

BY GEORGE S. BENSON
President Harding College
Searcy, Arkansas

Rich Uncle

A young 4-F of my acquaintance works at a government-operated chemical laboratory in a distant state. He came home on leave a few months ago and scratched around considerably on his father's big farm collecting rocks. When he went back, he took the rocks with him, also notes on elevations and thicknesses of strata. He said he had always believed those shale glades might have value. Now he would find out!

More recently he was at home again with a business-like glint in his eye, discreetly silent on the subject of his mineral samples. After his first home-cooked breakfast he went horsy and saddled a nag. Not pleasure; it was a business trip. He cantered directly to the home of his mother's uncle, the richest retired capitalist thereabout. When he took to horse again, he was a sadder but wiser young man of affairs.

Had Bad News

Apparently the young man's home acres are full of a good grade of valuable ore, near the surface and not costly to recover. He had visions of incorporating a new, local industry soon after the war, offering jobs to the whole county's discharged service men and unemployed war workers. All he needed was capital—that's what he thought. He had even checked markets, demands, and prices for years back and had drawn probable production and profit charts for his prospect.

"Uncle Jeff knows his business," the lad said woefully. "He says he has $100,000 to put in such a venture if he can figure a way to come out whole. I showed him how we could gross $100,000 easily the first year, but he got out tax sheets and showed me that a 100% return on an investment of $100,000 is no good to him. The most he would be allowed to keep, along with his other income, is less than $3,000."

An Old Story

This young man went to a lot of trouble to learn what economists have been saying for two years. From his great uncle's point of view, a profit of $100,000 a year was only 2.8% return on a $100,000 investment, thus:

Net profit	$100,000
Normal profit...$8,000
Normal tax 40%.....$ 3,200
Excess profit ..92,000
E. P. tax 85%..... 78,200
Total taxes	81,400
Net profit after taxes.....	$ 18,600
Personal income tax 85%....	15,810
Income remaining	$ 2,790

Of course a $3,000 yearly income is $60 a week, good pay if it is a salary with no investment and no risk of financial loss. When a man puts up the tenth part of a million dollars (or when ten men go together and invest a million) it is seldom in "a sure thing." There are always risks to run in industry.

Money Plays Safe

All investors expect their money to work for them. For a man of much wealth, $100,000 earns only a small "salary." Such men are very careful therefore to put capital in a safe place with little or no danger of loss—like municipal bonds, for example. That's the gravest prospect facing the United States at the close of the war: Danger of having service men come marching back victorious over various armies of various dictators, to find no work at home.

The American people need a great many items, and are ready to buy them. Manufacturers know how to make them, good enough for anybody at popular prices. Making these things can provide good jobs for millions of men, but will it happen? Well—there is one sure way to spoil the prospect: Keep the taxing system exactly like it is now, so people who invest in industry can't benefit from it. Investments are absolutely essential to making jobs.

LOVE OR WAR?

I met a one-armed driver
"Poor fellow" thought I sadly,
For his beloved country
He has given one arm gladly.

His eyes were rather pensive,
His manner sort of dazey—
"Poor fellow" thought I sadly,
"From shell-shock he is crazy."

And then I saw a tousled head,
'Twas on his shoulder—out of place!
Of course it was, two eyes of blue,
Some lipstick, rouge, a dress of lace.

I met a one-armed driver
One hand and arm were missing.
At sixty per he passed me by,
As he the maid was kissing.

I met a one-armed driver
The highway he was wrecking.
He suffered not from shot or shell
But a violent case of "necking."

WHIPPOORWILL CALLS

It might be just a happening, but a woman tells how, when the children were small, she would permit them to play of a summer evening until the call of the whippoorwill was heard on the soft night air. It was then time to come in, for it was always a quarter after nine. She says you could have set the clock by that whistle. Whenever or wherever, the call of the whippoorwill is a sound of peace, as it tells "all is well," to the man who pays it heed. This lilting sound is not varied in inflection or in meter, but stays the same day after day as the bird flashes his cry to a summer sunset. He is a persistent sort of fellow too, as he continues to repeat again and again. Maybe disturbing the nightly slumber but his cheerful good will could hardly be tiresome and unwelcome. He surely deserves his period in the brush as he takes up where the thrush leaves off. A dusk reminder that day is done and sleep is near, as time is measured in the carolins of this bird, whippoorwill.

MANY MORE ARE NEEDED

Figures confound us and keep us adither as we live at a time when numbers run high and statistics run rampant. But all of us in St. Joe and Spencerville are interested in the facts concerning the issuing of the Bible to the armed forces. The Red Cross, camp activities, Bible societies are eve now asking for more editions. Boys overseas write back home for the folks to mail them a Testament. The War Department has ordered a Testament packed with everey life-raft. The Navy sees to it that over 40,000 went into rafts and boats of ships and airplanes. The American Bible Society sent 48,193 Bibles and 1,820,733 Testaments to our armed forces. And so the force of war touches the soul into seeking help beyond human power to sustain.

IF SCHOOL KEEPS

The present outlook for fall and the reopening of schools is on the dark side due to 70,000 teachers being needed when school opens and there is no way in sight to get them. It is estimated that 15,000 to 20,000 classes will be without teachers. 55,000 emergency certificates were issued for last year, to teachers who could not measure up to the standards required by their locality. With 100,000 teachers now in the armed forces and only 10,000 instead of 50,000 students graduating from teacher's colleges this year, it does take on a serious trend. Those who stress educational advantages are aware of what this will mean. Educators trying to work out a solution suggest the only way to get them and make this job more attractive to students of ability, is to raise the level of teacher's salaries. The average yearly salary is about $1,500 and while only a few teachers get more than $5,000 a year, 300,000 of them get less than $1,000. It might well be the reason more aren't seeking the profession and why more are leaving it.

MAILING CHRISTMAS PARCELS

This year the time for mailing Christmas parcels is from September 15 to October 15. (This applies both to Army and Navy personnel overseas.)

After October 15 no parcel will be accepted for mailing unless accompanied by written request from addressee.

Gifts must be packed in boxes made of metal, wood, solid fiber board or strong corrugated fiberboard.

Address parcel plainly and tie with strong twine. Address of sender and also of addressee should be placed inside the package.

Parcel should be marked Christmas package.

Packages must not exceed 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined.

Not more than one package can be mailed in one week to the same member of the armed forces overseas by or in behalf of the same mailer.

When combination packages are made up each item should be separately wrapped and well packed in container.

Perishable goods, intoxicants, and inflammable materials are prohibited.

To avoid delay and possible disappointment begin your Christmas shopping now. Last year later mailings threatened to defeat the program. Success can be assured this year only if the public gives full coopertion thru prompt mailing from opening date.

The LIONS CLUB

Seventeen members responded to the Lions Club roll call Monday evening, at the country home of Claude Laub, east of Spencerville. A pot luck supper was spread on yard tables

The speaker was Lion Wicoff, who had spent a week in Chicago, at Swift & Co. Packing Plant, taking a course in marketing of livestock. The class consisted of nine men from Indiana, Michigan, and Illinois, and six of these were from Indiana. The school lasted from 7 to 5 each day, and every phase of the problem was discussed.

The yards covered one mile square of territory. The daily sales are made to 250 buyers from Chicago and other points nearby.

The number of meat packers has been reduced from 5,000 to 2,000 because of regulations and for this same cause there is reported to be a future shortage of prime beef, as the farmer cannot raise for the price set by the OPA.

Some facts concerning the operation of the packing plant proved interesting, when the speaker said that their rate of kill per hour was 300 sheep, 300 cattle and 000 hogs, which made an average for the week of 4 to 5 million pounds, and because of this vast production of dressed meat their slaughtering charge had been reduced ½c per pound. The company has 17,000 less men working because of the war, and those remaining decided to work more hours in order to do the same job until their men are returned from service.

All meats are given three inspections. First on the hoof for outside defects, then after slaughtered and before being cured for resale to the public. All this insures perfect meat for the clam, and the men are government employed.

AN APPRECIATION

I wish to thank the church and friends for their cards and flowers, honoring my 85th birthday last week. Since I have been ill, cards bearing messages of good cheer arrive daily, which adds to the joy of living even when ill. —Mrs. J. R. Shilling.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clague are vacationing in Cleveland, Ohio, for about two weeks.

Mrs. Bessie Tuttison, daughter, Marraret, and granddaughter, Patty, of Springfield, Ohio were guests of Meritt Seehler for the past week.

Fred Stemen is showing hogs at the fairs this fall, starting at Kendallville this week.

Mrs. Helen Randall is spending the week at Hamilton Lake with the Roy Bowser family.

The Sellers property in St. Joe was sold a few days ago to Gerald and Mary Jo Briggs of the west end of town, and papers were made out Saturday closing the transaction. Mr. and Mrs. Sellers moved Tuesday into their Fort Wayne property. Since their brief stay here they have made many friends, all of whom are sorry to see them leave, but all wish them well.

LeRoy Wessel and family will leave Concord Saturday morning, Mrs. Wessel driving the family car while Roy will drive their truck loaded with personal effects, and in due time they expect to land at San Antonio, Texas. They both are afflicted with sinus trouble and upon advice of their physician they are seeking the desired relief. A few months ago they sold their farm on the west township line, formerly known as the James Irvin farm. Mr. Wessels parents reside at Garrett.

Mr. and Mrs. Lyle McMaken and family were at Mongo, Indiana, Sunday, guests of his parents.

Planless Planners

NEVER TOO LATE

The War Labor Board finally corrected a more-than-slight contradiction among members of its staff.

At the very time last April, when one part of the WLB was declaring that Montgomery Ward & Company was a "war" business, another branch of the same agency declared in a little-publicized opinion that Sears, Roebuck & Company was not a "war" business.

To prevent this contradiction from embarrassing the New Deal, the WLB in Washington belatedly has called Sears, Roebuck & Company a "war" industry, too.

A MERE $250,000

Senator Alben W. "On-again-off-again" Barkley says that the "difference between $15,000,000 and $15,250,000 is rather inconsequential" and, of course, Senator McKellar agrees with him. No wonder we can't get the truth about spending in Latin America as long as the New Deal is in power.

STILL "UNCO-ORDINATED"

Although Paul McNutt, head of the War Manpower Commission, has had more than two years in which to solve the manpower problem, it is evident in Washington that he and his thousands of political workers have not even tied-in their activities with other bureaus.

When McNutt recently urged businessmen to employ furloughed servicemen for industrial and other work, the businessmen liked the idea. So did the servicemen.

But the General Accounting Office, another government agency, has labeled the practice as "incompatible and objectionable." As a result, Government agencies which claim manpower shortages and would like to hire veterans for short periods of time are stymied in their efforts.

HAVE YOU A TRUE PICTURE OF YOUR ELECTRIC BILL?

Proof? In a nation-wide survey, 42% of the people sharply overestimated the amount of their last electric bill. 59% didn't realize that rates had been reduced in the last fifteen years—and 95% didn't realize how much!

Actually, the average American family gets about twice as much electricity today as it did fifteen years ago for the same money.

"For the same money." That's the clue. You don't realize that rates are down, because your bill may be as much as it was fifteen years ago—or perhaps even more. But you have more electric appliances now. You're using more electricity—and you get about twice as much for what you pay.

BOYS PREDICT THAT HITLER WILL MEET A DOUBLE DEATH

Newburgh, N. Y., Aug. 23.—A duel end by suicide and murder on Sept. 12 is predicted for Adolph Hitler by three young Clough brothers, of Newburgh.

Following a serious study of Ancient India's Yogi astral signs—their latest interest—Savi, 14; Gari, 12, and Franzi, 10, claimed that all signs forecast a double death for the Nazi leader.

Savi explains: "Probably Hitler will jump from a high window to suicide, and on his way to earth he will be shot to death by a revolutionary German officer anxious to end the war."

All three boys are honor students and last winter published reputedly the smallest news paper in the United States.

MISS MYERS PRESENTS "THE WINGLESS VICTORY"

Miss Dorothy Myers, Alliance, Ohio, a sister of Mrs. Frank Stevenson, Spencerville, will present her interpretation of Maxwell Anderson's play, "The Wingless Victory," at the Lutheran Church in Saint Joe, Thursday, Aug. 24, 8:00 P.M. (no one will be admitted after this time so come early.)

The play is a study of a social problem arising from racial discrimination. The action is set among the Puritan People of Salem, Massachusetts, but it could happen here when the service men come home with their war-wives.

The dramatic, the humorous, and the poetic are combined as Miss Myers presents in order each of the eleven different characters of this currently popular play.

The adult public (all persons over 15 years old) is cordially invited to see and hear this dramatic reading which Miss Myers gave originally as her Senior Recital at Muskingum College, New Concord, Ohio, from which she graduated with top honors last June.

If you enjoy drama, you'll want to hear this recital. Starting time: 8:00 P.M. Running time: 1 hour and 10 minutes.

PAULINE STORER DIES SUDDENLY AT HOSPITAL

Mrs. Pauline Storer, of St. Joe, wife of Pfc. Wayne D. Storer, who is with the invasion forces in France, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth T. Busz, of one and a half miles north of Garrett, died suddenly and unexpectedly Friday night at 11:30 o'clock at Sacred Heart Hospital in Garrett.

Mrs. Storer was 25 years of age and submitted to an operation for appendicitis Aug. 9. She seemed to recover satisfactorily and was to be released from the hospital Saturday. A nurse visited her room about 11:15 Friday night and found her condition normal. A few minutes later she returned and discovered that the patient had expired. The cause of death was embolism.

The body was taken to the Forrest D. Zimmerman funeral home, where services were held Monday afternoon at 2:30. Lawrence K. Layman, minister of the Garrett Church of Christ, officiated.

Burial has been withheld for several days upon advice of the Red Cross at Washington, due to the time required to cable the husband, and this has led the family to believe that a release may be possible, so that he may be sent home before burial may be necessary. As The News goes to press no further word has been received, but the family is anxiously awaiting a message.

Mrs. Storer was born in Fort Wayne, March 18, 1919, and the family lived in Garrett many years. She was graduated from Garrett high school in 1937 and was married to Mr. Storer Dec. 14, 1940. He was employed by the Tokheim, Co., in Ft. Wayne until he entered the army Feb. 10, 1943. He left for overseas last January.

A daughter born to Mr. and Mrs. Storer Nov. 12, 1941, died a few hours afterward. Another child, Rosalind Ann Storer, was born Nov. 9, 1942. Surviving besides the widower, the child and the parents are two sisters, Elaine and Eulalee Busz, at home; and two grandparents, Alva D. Perry of two and a half miles north of Garrett, and Mrs. Sarah Busz, of near Corunna.

Mrs. Busz was a member of the Church of Christ at St. Joe.

LEONARD CURIE WRITES FROM SOMEWHERE

Portions from a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Morris Curie this week from their son, Leonard, are printed herewith:

United States Navy.

Dear folks:

"This is the first chance I have had to write for a long time and there still isn't much that I can write. Received two of your letters today. The first mail we have had for a long time. I still can't believe "Rex" Green is dead. He was a darn nice kid. He used to work with Keith Davis at Hicksville.

"The war situation looks very good and I hope it keeps on improving. Germany may fold up very soon. Certainly glad J. Maxwell wasn't hurt bad. I finally heard from "Babe" Coburn. Guess he will be located for the duration at the same place. I fell asleep with just my shorts on for about two hours and really got burned. I was planning on just getting a little rest but suppose I was too tired. We are not supposed to have our shirts off. First time I ever peeled off like this.

"Are the fish biting? Sure would like to be doing some of it. Guess this is all I can write for now." With love,

Joe Bice and children are returning to Spencerville from Ft. Wayne in order to be ready for the opening of school.

The morning session will start at 9 o'clock and the afternoon meeting at 1 o'clock. The township trustees will hold a meeting during the forenoon.

Competition

Liberty had glamour back in 1776 when 56 loyal Americans took their lives in their hands to write a Declaration that all men are created equal, endowed with certain inalienable rights, such as Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness. What a change has come, and so soon! Only 168 years ago Americans fought and died for the right to pursue happiness. Now some of them want everything shared equally and with a minimum of effort.

Outside my window is the athletic field of a small college. The 1944 Field Day has passed and students' interest in games has subsided somewhat under the pressure of approaching examinations, but it continues to be a lively picture. I have watched competition there with unusual interest this year for special reasons. War has taken the big boys and the contestants are so noticeably young and slight. But sports are all the more important.

All Created Equal

At odd intervals, track men assemble at the starting pole and line up. The gun cracks and they all run. In every sense contemplated in the Declaration of Independence, these runners are created equal. Each has an inalienable right to win the ribbon. But, as a matter of fact, only one can win it. Only one will. The ribbon is unimportant anyway. It is the competitive struggle that makes college athletics worth their while.

Trophies stimulate competition. Competition inspires training. Training makes for development. If all our men had been created equal physically, if every race had to be a tie in order to be fair, there would be no competition, no training and no development. I am glad that athletic awards are not of great intrinsic value, glad that charges of unfairness are so infrequent in amateur athletics.

Any May Enter

There is no purer symbol of free competitive enterprise than an athletic field day. Our forefathers were wise when they wrote the rules of business and declared all men equal under the law. Anybody, a citizen or an alien, is at liberty to pick his favorite activity, find the class in which he belongs and have-at-it, according to his own ability. He can win. History proves that champions of any sort are hard to select in advance.

Some athletes are good at only one sport; others are versatile. Sometimes a man of many talents gets two or three ribbons; again a specialist excells. But they all try for it. The net result of the competition is a better set of men, better teams, better classes, better schools here and elsewhere—a better developed nation. Broad-scale progress results from the effort, not from the trophies and awards.

Shared Benefits

It is much the same in business. Nation-wide effort to achieve success accomplishes great things for the whole people. The rewards of Free Enterprise are worth having but they are not the main thing. Wealth, prominence, recognition, influence; these are ribbons. They are the stimulants that fire competition, but a few notables don't make a nation. It is the thoughtful work of many that makes America great.

Every liberty-loving citizen has a duty to keep competition open. Free Enterprise is threatened in America, by taxes that handicap the winners and by subsidies that reward the lazy, by government management and government competition. If Free Enterprise is overthrown by cranks who think every race ought to end in a draw, the ease they crave will not come. But idleness will come and paralyze a nation that has set the world's pace for 168 years.

"WINDJAMMER"

Cast: George O'Brien, Constance Worth, William Hall, Gavin Gordon Lal Chand Mehra, Brandon Evans, Ben Hendricks, Lee Shumway, Stan Blystone, Frank Hagney

O'Brien is called upon to serve a subpoena to a millionaire yachtsman who is engrossed in winning a California-to-Honolulu yacht race. The thrilling sight of a fleet of yachts leaving the harbor at the beginning of the race is an episode in the film. Once O'Brien serves the subpoena, the millionaire refuses to turn back, but continues to Honolulu with O'Brien an unwilling passeger. The presence of the millionaire's daughter, played by Constance Worth, gives O'Brien added interest in the surprise trip. With the story thus launched, the film snaps into a series of dramatic adventures that keep the fans in tense suspense. In a storm, the yacht's crew deserts because the millionaire refuses to let them unseal the motors. Tossing upon a turbulent sea, the yacht collides in a thrilling sequence with a scooner. With the craft demolished, O'Brien heroically rescues his fellow-passengers and they are taken aboard the schooner—only to learn that it is running contraband munitions to the Orient. When the captain of the schooner learns that he has a millionaire on board, he formulates a scheme to deliver him to native bandits and hold him for ransom. In a thrilling climax, O'Brien thwarts this plan, delivering the millionaire and his daughter to United States authorities in the Orient. Because of the harrowing adventures they have shared, O'Brien and Miss Worth find that the animosity they originally felt for each other has been changed into real love.

DRY WEATHER

Droughts of the Midwest have given the idea that food requirements for next winter will be something else to worry about. True that through lack of rain many crops have dried and agriculture has suffered a relapse in many sections. Yet, the dryness hasn't damaged the crops enough but that the United States has one of the largest wheat harvests in all history. The total is estimated at 1,128,000,000 bushels. Corn is way above average while other foods show up well since the truck-gardens have amply taken care of the tomatoes, lettuce, cabbage, peas and such. Fruits have been abundant tho potatoes are less than last year. The Victory Gardens didn't produce as much, but many of these families have shelves well stocked from last year's produce. Besides, the commercial canners will fill up this lack. On the whole, congratulations are in order for agriculturists.

Will We Make Another Mistake?

A noted writer in discussing democracy said "the people have a right to make their own mistakes."

Of course, no development is possible without the power to choose a course of action and all history seems to prove that humanity has taken full advantage of that privilege. Adam and Eve were given the choice between good and evil, and were warned of the consequences of the wrong choice, but made it any way.

Maybe they could not be blamed for what they did as they had no experience or example to guide them as their descendants have had, and were unfitted for a selective system, and their destiny was wrong.

How much better are we with the world's history teaching us that continued power always leads to the abuse of that power. The chance to get on the right path will be ours in November, will we take advantage of it?

CALL A HALT

The urgent appeal to save waste paper comes often to this editor's desk, almost daily. You too hear it on the air and across the back fence and are co-operating. Still too much paper crowds our elbow, issued from so many departments of government that we can't bother to read it or recognize all the departments that produce the bulletins. We haven't the time. It isn't just the government that issues so much waste paper, but many kinds of organizations putting out advertising matter that is unnecessary at the present time. Too much in regard to private policies, plans, arguments, that it generally isn't digested but shoved into the waste basket. As it is here on our News desk, so you will find it where editors are even busier. Why should mail be heavier in wartime than in peace, with a shortage on hand?

MAILING CHRISTMAS PARCELS

This year the time for mailing Christmas parcels is from September 15 to October 15. (This applies both to Army and Navy personnel overseas.)

After October 15 no parcel will be accepted for mailing unless accompanied by written request from addressee.

Gifts must be packed in boxes made of metal, wood, solid fiber board or strong corragated fiberboard.

Address parcel plainly and tie with strong twine. Address of sender and also of addressee should be placed inside the package.

Parcel should be marked Christmas package.

Packages must not exceed 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined.

Not more than one package can be mailed in one week to the same member of the armed forces overseas by or in behalf of the same mailer.

When combination packages are made up each item should be separately wrapped and well packed in container.

Perishable goods, intoxicants, and inflammable materials are prohibited.

To avoid delay and possible disappointment begin your Christmas shopping now. Last year later mailings threatened to defeat the program. Success can be assured this year only if the public gives full coopertion thru prompt mailing from opening date.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Arrangements are being made to have added educational features at the DeKalb County Fair to be held in Auburn, Sep. 26-30, according to County Agent C. E. Baker. One of these features will be a Fast Milking Demonstration sponsored by the Indiana Holstein Breeders Association. It has been found that cows may be milked completely by machine in three to four minutes and in four to five minutes by hand if the proper procedure is followed. This demonstration will be made by machine and it is planned to have it carried on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of the Fair. Two demonstrations will be given daily, one at 12:45 A.M. and the second at 8:45 P.M.

The location of these demonstrations will be the cattle judging tent located in Madden's Field laying North of 7th St., just east of Cedar Creek. The Fair management has arranged to have all the livestock exhibited in this field so that none of the livestock will be housed on the streets as in the past.

He and his other two compatriots waited only for the signal to strike. The Germans had used them as forced labor at two dollars a week. ON THE HIGH ROAD TO PARIS—Past buildings reminiscent of the days of Crecy, Poitiers and Agincourt, American soldiers traverse historic battlegrounds in Northern France. The modern rifle and armored car have made almost unbelievable improvement in weapons since men fought with the pike and long bow and armored knights led the way on horseback, but the landscape with orchards and hedgerows and mediaeval architecture has changed but little.

Another "Line" that Hitler cannot hold

WITH oceans separating them from the front lines of battle, the business managed electric lines of the United States provided another element in our war mobilization that was too hot for Hitler to handle.

Electricity is often the means of disposing of criminals who are a menace to society. Now, it helps to destroy the world's arch enemies by supplying power to produce the engines of war that are bringing about the downfall of dictators.

The Axis plan for world domination did not fully evaluate the vast electric power resources of this country that had been planned long before the first shot was fired—an industry that had not waited for the demand of power to develop before it planned and furnished the facilities. When the demand arose, every war plant in the United States got power where and when it was needed.

That's why our war industries went into action so fast—that's one of the reasons why our men on the fighting front all over the world have an abundance of the equipment needed to smash the Axis.

Miss Martin Reappointed To Important GOP Post

In recognition of the increasingly important role of women voters in the Republican Party, and the 1944 Republican convention action formally authorizing an Assistant Chairman in charge of the women's division, Miss Marion E. Martin was reappointed recently by Chairman Herbert Brownell, Jr., as Assistant Chairman of the Republican National Committee.

Miss Martin's reappointment, which continues her official National Committee associations begun in 1937 but broadens the significance of her activity, is regarded as a promise "of the full partnership of women with men in the campaign ahead."

As Assistant Chairman, Miss Martin carries a specific responsibility for direction of all women's activities of the National Committee organization. In this capacity, she also has the additional title of director of the women's division.

Actually, Miss Martin began her National Committee associations in 1936, when she was elected National Committeewoman for the State of Maine. She still retains that place.

In the seven years as directing head of national women's work, Miss Martin has developed a closely-knit women's organization. She is a recognized qualified speaker and has addressed hundreds of groups in 42 states. She has not spoken in Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, and Arkansas.

A particularly outstanding achievement in Miss Martin's political record is her initiation and development of the National Federation of Women's Republican Clubs. It is an organization of political study clubs which has had a phenomenal growth. Today it has 3800 clubs in 40 states, with a membership of 400,000.

Miss Martin's interest in politics began in her initial college days at Wellesley. She continued her political studies at the University of Maine and also at Yale University, where she was studying law in 1937 when she assumed directorship of the women's division.

"Well, here I am, I'm doing fine,
And Mother's O.K., too.
And barring complications
I guess Daddy will pull thru."

I arrived Aug. 20 at 9:15 P. M. I weighed 7 pounds. They named me Stephen Duane. My folks are AMM3/c and Mrs. Paul D. Crothers.

SOLDIER TO MARRY ENGLISH GIRL, 18

Mrs. Amelia Adams, of Newville, has received a letter from her son, Sgt. Henry L. Smith, telling of his plans to marry an English girl, Miss Mary Jones, of Luton Beds, London.

Sgt. Smith, who formerly resided at Butler, has been in the army for three years and two years of this time in England. Sgt. Smith is 24 years of age and his bride-elect is 18. The approaching wedding is a romance of the World War.

A party at the home of the bride's parents in England on Aug. 5 at which time the engagement of the couple was announced. The marriage will not take place for about three months due to marriage regulations between English girls and American soldiers.

Mrs. Adams has also received a letter from the mother of Miss Jones in which she states that she and her husband are very fond of Sgt. Smith. She continues: "All I hope is that they will always be as happy as they are now. I think you will like my daughter. She is really a nice girl and the only girl I have. I would like to have you be a mother to her. Just pick up where I leave off as she will be away from all she has known since she was born and of course will feel lonely for a time in a strange country. I have three sons who are all in the army and two of them in Italy.

"Your son spends his weekends at our home and you would be surprised how we miss him when he goes back and when the time comes to lose them both I don't know what we shall do. Mary would like to have a white wedding and we plan to have 50 guests and are going to have your picture on the table because we can't have you but maybe some day you can get to England for a visit."

SCHOOL REUNION WAS HELD AT DEFIANCE, O.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee O. Tustison of Defiance, Ohio, entertained the St. Joe School reunion group which meets annually to honor Dr. Robert L. Dixon as teacher in St. Joe back in 1901-'02. Because of gasoline limitation and traveling restrictions, Dr. Dixon and wife were unable to attend, but a nice letter was read by the host expressing regrets. Letters were also read from Dale Widney, of Columbia City and Sylvia Ginther of Spencerville, expressing their regrets in being unable to attend.

The carry-in dinneer was spread and the twenty in attendance did their best to sample every dish set before them, and yet there remained a generous supply of all kinds of good food.

Those in attendance were: Mrs. Fuschia McPherson, Marion, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Dio Dermott, Constantine, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Bishop, Auburn, Mrs. Nettie Baker, Ft. Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole, Mrs. Inez Hadsell, Mrs. Lela Northrup, Mr. Roy Koch, Mrs. Nina Kees, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox, and Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Leighty.

The afternoon was spent in visiting and all went to the old fort which is near the Tustison home. An auto tour of the town was made and an inspection of the Crescent-News printing plant of which Mr. Tustison is manager.

The day was most pleasantly spent in the lovely home of the Tustisons. The reunion next year will meet with Mrs. Inez Hadsell, east of St. Joe.

Mrs. Nina Kees was presented a bouquet furnished by Mrs. Buckingham, honoring oldest person in the group.

The LIONS CLUB

There were 19 Lions roaring to eat Monday night when the gong rang at 6:30, at the Spencerville gym, where the group were guests of the August committee. The September committee announced is made up of Lions Kline, Billow and Keeler.

Lion Education was ably handled by Lion Rectenwall and he closed his remarks by saying that every member should feel like he is one of the important members and that his absence would hinder the meeting. A check up showed that every member of the attendance committee was absent. Lion Bowman suggested that an ambulance be provided for the next meeting and that every member absent would be sent for by the special ambulance crew.

An additional suggestion comes forth that the absent members being hauled in, be bound to the stretcher and made to lie there whilee the Lions at their dinner and have the evenings's program, then to be released by the attendance committee.

Lion Paschen was the speaker at the Monday night meeting in which he discussed the Indiana H. S. Athletic Association and its workings. Organized in 1903, with Arthur L. Trester as the managerial head and a board of control consisting of 15 members. The state is divided into three sections with 5 members each, which gives all classes of school, a representative, who works out their problems and make recommendations to the state group for final decision. There are 812 schools participating in this athletic organization. Each school pays a $1.50 membership fee and the state revenue is chiefly from the tourneys. Because of the succesful management of the association they have piled up a vast cash reserve, after paying all their expenses. Last year each school received a $100 refund from the state board in order to reduce their surplus and to help the local school associations. Their chief aim is to regulate basket ball over the state, and place it on a higher plane and at the same time protect the individual schools.

CONCORD TOWNSHIP SCHOOLS

Registration for the 1944-'45 school year will be held Friday, Sept. 1, from 8:30-12:00 A. M. School proper will then start Tuesday, Sept. 5, the school day running from 8:30-4:00.

In addition to the new books the school is opening an exchange of used books. All pupils with serviceable used books are encouraged to bring them to school on registration day. These then can be sold along with the new books. Most of the books used last year were adopted on a 5-year basis and should be serviceable this year. Parents, however, are urged to not buy books before registration day since in some cases the pupil has a choice of subjects and some books purchased earlier might not be used. This is especially true in high school.

No school supplies will be handled at the school.

BUTLER TWP. STILL LOWEST IN COUNTY

Butler Twp. retained its place with the best record for per pupil costs in the district schools of DeKalb County for grades 1 to 8 during the last school year, the annual financial and statistical statement prepared in the office of Carl F. Stallman, county superintendent, shows.

The costs are computed on a basis of daily attendance. Butler township, with an average of $60. 26, is much lower than other townships, but reports an increase of $5.76 over the previous year. Stafford township is again highest, at $142.-84, as against $120.77 the previous year.

HAY FEVER

Yearly millions of Americans are affected by hay fever which besets them during August and September, as handkerchiefs are busily carried to nose, the face becomes contorted into ker-choo-oos and the pollens descend upon the victims so afflicted to these allergies. Ragweed is the biggest offender to sufferers though there are other dustlike pollens that cause hay fever. The afflicted eyes and swollen lining of the nose makes miserable too many people who can't escape the pollens. It is not easy to destroy pollens, for some have been found preserved in coal 250 million years old. Clouds of pollen have been reported 250 miles at sea and at 9,000-feet altitude. You see how practically impossible it is to avoid. However, scientific means have given some relief to sufferers and we hope that research and laboratory will further investigate and eventually conquer.

ROOSEVELT OR DEWEY?

Will it be Roosevelt or Dewey?

The American people will decide that question. That's what Democracy means. War or no war, our leaders are chosen by popular vote.

But, will the majority of the people elect the president this year? The answer is "no," if the present voting trend continues.

Fewer and fewer Americans have been going to the polls in recent years. Citizens are forgetting the first duty and privilege of citizenship. The trend is toward an alarmingly light vote in November. The Gallup poll and other measures say less than 40 million will vote this year.

That would mean minority rule. That would be a terrific blow to Democracy in America.

There are 88 million American citizens of voting age—8 million more thn in 1940. Fifty million voted in 1940. Normally, 55 million should vote this year. Yet every indication points to less than 40 million.

True, there are many who can't vote this year. There are men in service and migrant war workers for whom the military and civilian voting laws are too complicated. But, there are millions at home who can vote in their places, who can rise to the occasion and express the will of the people.

Who is elected president, or senator, or sheriff is no less important than how he is elected. If we can preserve free election by a majority of people, we can preserve Democracy.

No matter how we cast our ballots, it is a solemn wartime duty to get out and vote.

LABOR DAY

Normally Labor Day is a holiday for Americans to celebrate the rights and meaning of labor. This year factories, warehouses, wharfs, offices, will continue their work and put in time to being of special service. War changes holidays but the meaning of them is not lost. One of the principal interests of founding Labor Day was to protect the workman against unemployment. That is one of the main topics today as war draws to a close. Labor in the olden times suffered under the lash and the whip. Labor today has become s o powerful that it often tends to overcome itself and ruin that for which it has struggled so many years to attain. Without labor there is no wealth. Without money for its hire, labor is lost. The time was that he who worked by the sweat of his brow was looked down upon socially, was tolerated only for what he produced. Industry through labor was not a true gentleman's line of endeavor. How far we have progressed is shown by how enlightened we are to the true meaning of labor. Nothing is accomplished without expending of effort. Effort is work. Whether a man carries a dinner pail or leans back handsomely and lives off his stocks and bonds with practically no effort, the distinction is not too great. All men must labor, whether mentally or physically or both, if they wish for some useful and desired end. To produce in some occupation is man's lot in life. Great values are credited to honest toil, the achievement of a happy life with the knowledge that one's work is well done. There is this challenge for labor in every generation.

MYERS ELEVATOR UNDERGOING EXTENSIVE REPAIRS

Extensive repairs are now under way at the local elevator and Howard Myers states that he intends to make this the most modern plant in this entire section, when it comes to taking care of the grinding of farm feeds.

New machines will be installed, starting next week, which will make it possible to take care of a number of grists at a time. A fast, high powered sheller will take the grain from the dump pit, by the drag method, and by the aid of storage bins, the grain will be move along rapidly. The farmers will unload inside the elevator, then drive to the south side of the building where he will receive his grist at the loading dock.

By making the plant more convenient and less handling of grains by man power, the grists will be produced faster and easier, with the same help.

An increase in business has led Mr. Myers to make this additional investment in plant equipment, so as to better able to serve the wide scope of territory srved by this elevator.

Clifford Billow is local manager.

Hope it works guess they have tried everything else. Receive The News every week and find where everyone is all the time. My address is Pvt. Merle Epler, 35353427, Ward A. Italy, Aug. 20, 1944.

St. Joe News,
St. Joe, Indiana.

Dear Fred:

Guess it is time I'm dropping you a line. Received two copies of The News in tonight's mail. Sure was a pleasure to read it, even the advertisements were enjoyable.

My outfit is off the line, now, so we have a little time for letter writing. The men take full advantage of the situation, to wash clothes and catch up on correspondence.

We never know what tomorrow will bring. But we are thankful for every day and every hour in this area. It is wonderful to know that we can sleep tonight with no fear of enemy shells or patrols.

Each time we come off the line we grow more reluctant to go back up. But each man realizes that the war cannot be won from a rear area.

Early in July I had the misfortune to receive a small shrapnel wound in the knee. It was not serious and I was able to spend an enjoyable three weeks in a General Hospital. During that time I was able to realize the wonderful work being done over here by the Army Nurses and the Red Cross workers. Our nurses work long hours with little recreation. For them it is the same routine seven days a week, fifty two weeks out of the year.

The Red Cross provides the patients with toilet articles, stationery and reading material. They also write letters for those who are not able to use their arms.

Would like to enclose a poem written by a former officer with this company. We think it is pretty good.

Sincerely,
James R. Maxwell,

He visited his parents in Fort Wayne over the week-end and phoned relatives at Newville of his change of address.

THE INFANTRY

You've heard how men up in the sky
Have spread disaster wide and high,
And how the blasting Naval gun
Has caused the enemy to run.
It don't take much to be a hero,
To man a gun and down a zero
But listen you dirty, greasy lout
Listen, while I talk about
The Infantry, the Queen of Battle.
Now you say "Oh, let 'em rattle,"
But let me tell you Brother Joe,
There is no better branch I know
Than these hard fighting sons of hell
Who do the battle and do it well—
Creepin', crawlin', eatin' mud
Cussin', swearin,' sweatin' blood
Twenty five miles with a full field pack
Helpin' a guy when he's startin' to crack
No glamour, no build-up, no shoutin' out
But, Buddie, I know what I'm talkin' about.
They say we're fools to sweat and cuss
But wars are won by fools like us.

(If I could, I would dedicate this to Lt. Dale Collins, who is giving his best on another front.)

TWO KILLED LABOR DAY AT ST. JOE BY B. & O.

A double funeral service was held at North Scipio Church in Allen County Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock for Clayton M. Conine and his sister, Mrs. Lina Dorsey, both of Grabill, who were the victims of a crossing accident in St. Joe Monday afternoon.

Mr. Conine, 71, and Mrs. Dorsey, who was 73, were instantly killed when an automobile driven by the former was struck by Baltimore & Ohio west bound passenger train No. 7 at 1:42 P.M. The 1929 Buick coupe was knocked to pieces when it was thrown against a crossing flashlight pole and then against a relay box. Most of the parts of the car were scattered for about 40 feet along the tracks, but small pieces were carried on the diesel locomotive for a considerable distance.

Mrs. Dorsey's body was found under the frame of the automobile about 30 feet from the crossing and 10 feet from the tracks. Her skull was fractured, her neck broken, her legs and arms were factured and her right leg and right arm were nearly severed.

Mr. Conine's body was lying on the ground about five feet from his sister. His head and chest were crushed and his legs and arms were fractured.

The bodies were removed to the Walter Funeral Home in Spencerville and remained there until time for the funeral. The Rev. J. A. Ringenberg, of Fort Wayne, officiated at the services, and burial was made in Scipio Cemetery, the graves being close together.

Driver Probably Confused

As the automobile driven by Mr. Conine approached the crossing on State Road No 1 from the south a freight train had just passed, east bound. Carl Carpenter, of two miles north of St. Joe, driving a truck north, crossed the tracks immediately. The truck had reached a point 150 feet from the crossing when the accident occurred. Mr. Carpenter and several boys on the truck observed the passenger train approaching at high speed and told officers afterward that the red lights again began to flash. It is feared probable that Mr. Conine thought the lights were still flashing for the freight train and, proceeding slow, he started to drive across the tracks. The speeding train struck the right rear of the automobile.

Herman Fritz was conductor of the train and J. G. Kircher was the engineer. Both live in Garrett. Mr. Kircher stopped the train at once. He said he first saw the automobile when the train was only 150 feet away and that the car had stopped. It is probable that Mr. Conine stalled the machine in his anxiety when he saw the danger.

Mr. Conine was a retired carpenter and had served as marshal of Grabill. He and his sister were born in that vicinity and had always lived there. Mr. Conine's birth took place June 1, 1873, and his only child, Herman Conine, and a grandchild live in Fort Wayne. Mrs. Dorsey was born March 15, 1871, and her husband, George, died in 1923. Mrs. Dorsey resided with her only child, Mrs. Daisy Hollopeter, and family. There are two grandchildren and one great grandchild. One grandson, Richard Hollopeter, is in the Army.

Mr. and Mrs. Dorsey also are survived by one sister, Mrs. Margaret Moore, of Hicksville, O., and a half-brother, Walter Conine of Traverse City, Mich.

Relatives of Mr. Conine and his sister do not know where they were going at the time of the accident. They had talked about attending a sale at Cedarville and they left home after 11 A.M.

Soon after the accident, Mrs. Dorsey's daughter and son-in-law and their son and wife drove over the same crossing enroute north on a little holiday trip. They stopped to find out what had taken place and learned of the tragedy involving their own relatives.

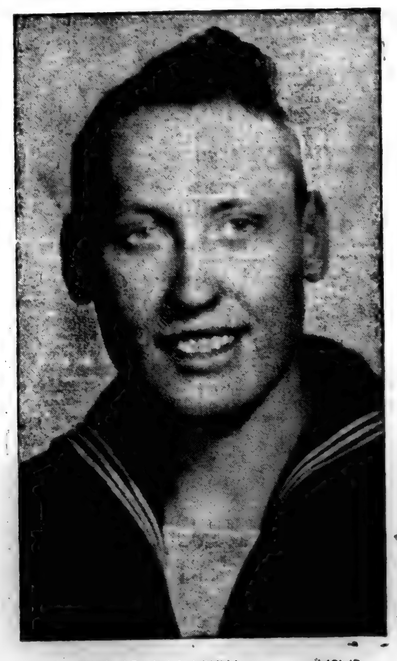
NEWVILLE MOURNS for ROBERT JOHN LARKIN



ROBERT JOHN LARKIN, coxswain USNR

The following account of the death of Robert John Larkin, was taken, by permission, from the overseas paper issued by the Newville Christian Church:

Mr. and Mrs. John Larkin, who now live in Auburn, received a telegram Aug. 19, from the U. S. Navy Department, telling of the loss of their son, Robert John Larkin, who was on a LST Boat with the amphibious forces in the Mediterranean area.

The telegram from the Navy Department follows:

"The Navy Department deeply regrets to inform you that your son, Robert John Larkin, coxswain USNR, was killed in action in the performance of his duty in the service of his country. The department extends to you its sincerest sympathy in your great loss. On account of existing conditions the body, if recovered, cannot be returned at present. If further details are received, you will be infomed. To prevent possible aid to our enemy please do not divulge the name of his ship or station."

He went to the Great Lakes Naval Training Station at Chicago for his boot training, then to Scotland and England and later returned to the United States for more training in amphibious operations. He was home on leave a year ago last April. Later he was sent to the Mediterranean area.

The last letter received by the parents was written on August 9, and arrived in Auburn on August 17.

Our heartfelt sympathy goes out to his parents; his brother, Richard, who is at home; his sister, Mrs. Harold Hose, of Saint Joe, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Thiel, of Butler, and Mrs. Abbie Larkin, of Butler.

Announcement of the sad message was made in Church August 20 and many tears were shed for Bob and many prayers offered to God in behalf of his bereaved parents. With broken hearts, we have put our first gold star on our Service Flag.

Bob was buried with his Lord in Christian baptism on Jan. 1, 1941, at Newville with his sister, Naomi, and many others, by Brother William Nice. Bob was very appreciative of prayers offered for him at the Church services and said that he needed them, but we should not worry about him going to the dogs. We feel sure from these remarks in his letters that he remained true to his Lord.

SEPTEMBER BRINGS FLOOD OF ACCIDENTS

St. Joe and vicinity had been free from accidents for a long time, until with the coming of September, we experienced 3 accidents in succession, starting on Saturday night.

At about 11 o'clock or near, Charles Seigman, of north of town, was driving down street looking for his two children, who had come in for the picture show. Seigman was reported in from work at Fort Wayne. He struck three parked cars in front of the Home Restaurant, and pushed them around so as to injure Charles Haupt, 16, of west of Spencerille, and Clelland Yeary, son of Mrs. Cecil Ramsey, of St. Joe The boys were taken to Auburn Hospital and later released as not seriously injured, with exception of being bruised.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER KILLED IN ACCIDENT

The collision of a passenger tutomobile and a semi-trailer truck Sunday morning at Jacob Baker's Corners, 3 miles east of St. Joe, at the Newville township line, resulted in the deaths of Mrs. Elizabeth Tuto, 50, and her daughter, Mrs. Agnes Herschberger, 27. Mrs. Tuto lived one-half mile north of the corner on the Powers farm and the daughter lived 1½ miles south of this same corner in Spencer township.

Mrs. Herschberger was thrown from her automobile and the car rolled over her, pinning her beneath the wreckage. She was dead when removed from beneath it. Mrs. Tuto was pinned in the front seat of the automobile. She was taken to the Community Hospital, Hicksville. where she died at 11:30 Sunday morning.

Both bodies were taken to the Reeb-Perkins Funeral Home in Hicksville, and funeral arrangements have been made for Friday afternoon at 2:30 from the Coburntown Church with burial in the Alton Cemetery.

Sheriff Paul Miller and State Policeman Jack Nye, Auburn, investigated the accident.

In the automobile also was a son of Mrs. Herschberger, age about 11 years, and he escaped with his life, but an ankle was badly injured, and word yesterday was that he was getting along fine. A small daughter had gone to Sunday School and Mr. Herschberger was at the home of Wier Anderson when the accident occurred.

This will be the second double funeral held from the Coburntown Church within 85 years. Two children, 6 years old, they being a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wilmot and a son of Mr. and Mrs. David Andress, residents of the community.

TOM KRISE IN RAIDS OVER GERMANY

An Eighth Air Force Bomber Station, England, Sept. 1.—Three times during his 32 missions over Germany and occupied Europe flak has crashed through the nose of his Flying Fortress but First Lt. Thomas H. Krise, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Krise, Rt. 1, Auburn, Ind., has been uninjured.

He declares: "I've been lucky."

A flight navigator at the base commanded by Col. H. W. Bowman, Arlington, Va., Lt. Krise has a large flak fragment he is keeping for a souvenir. It measures more than eight inches long and 4 inches wide and ripped a jagged gash thru the plexiglass just behind his navigator's desk. He has been lead navigator of a combat wing three times and of a group six times.

His aircraft went through a prolonged fighter attack on a mission to Oschersleben but received the most damage from flak on a trip to Ludwigshafen. On a mission to Leipsiz when his crew was flying deputy lead, the lead aircraft was forced to abandon the mission and Lt. Krise's craft took over. They did the job so well his pilot, bombardier and he each received the Distinguished Flying Cross.

During his tour he has been over Berlin twice.

He was commissioned in the R. O. T. C. at the University of Indiana, of which he is a graduate, and received his wings at Mather Field in October, 1943. He took additional training at Sioux City. Iowa before coming overseas in March ,this year. He wears the D. F. C. and Cluster and the Air Medal with three clusters.

MOSER—DEBOLT

Mrs. Alta Irene Moser, who for the past two years has lived in St. Joe with her sister, Mrs. Ada Zimmerman, and has worked at the Keeler Restaurant for the past eighteen months, was united in marriage Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, to Mr. Chauncey M. Debolt, of Toledo, O. The marriage took place in Ft. Wayne, and the couple will reside in Toledo where Mr. Debolt has employment.

Since living in St. Joe Mrs. Debolt has made a wide circle of friends, and all wish her much happiness in her new home.

LOCAL LUTHERANS UTILIZE LABOR DAY

The new concrete side walk in front of the Church is the result of some hard labor, skilled and otherwise, which about 25 men and boys pooled (or puddled) to make another planned improvement take permanent form.

No longer evident, but never-the-less major contribution to the success of the project and the survival of the toilers, were the fine meal prepared at noon by the women of the Church, and the generous servings of ice cream provided anonymously about 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hart and Esthella Hart Deventer visited their daughter, Arlien at Fostoria, Ohio, over the week-end.

Steward then took charge of the meeting. A song, "I Love to Tell the Story" was followed by scripture reading of the 121st Psalm, by Mrs. Miller. She read from a Bible, an heirloom of Mrs. Pervine's family, and given to her by a relative. This was followed by the class prayer, collection and closing song, "America." Mrs. Steward then gave the closing prayer. Mrs. Miller conducted a quiz, which created a lot of fun.

A fine pot luck supper was served. The rest of the evening was spent in a social manner. "Happy Birthday" was sung for each one who had a birthday in August as follows: Mrs. Josie Baltz, Mrs. Zelpha Steward, Miss Pearl Goldsmith, Miss Grace Houk, and Miss Loretta Funk.

Each one departed for their respective homes feeling they were benefitted by the meeting. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Edna Goldsmith at Spencerville.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

Winter rye, seeded as soon as soil moisture conditions permit, up to late October, will furnish the surest winter cover crop and earliest spring pasture crop for Indiana farmers. Rye pastures will be ready to graze at least two weeks ahead of blue-grass and will save much grain and hay feeding at a time when farmers will be shortest of feed. Rye is a good soil conserving crop, say Purdue University extension agronomists, saving valuable plant food subject to loss by leaching and erosion.

Rye may be seeded easily by drilling directly following soybeans cut for hay, or by discing and drilling on corn stubble where corn has been cut for silage. It may be put in where other crops have failed due to drought. The sooner rye is seeded, the greater will be the amount of late fall pasture and the earlier and stronger the growth for spring pastue. The rate of seeding is 1½ bu. per acre.

When soil conditions permit early spring grazing and when other pasture crops are available, rye must be grazed in early spring and then allowed to go for grain without much reduction in yield. Used in this way, it serves as an excellent nurse crop for grasses and legumes.

Balbo rye, where seed is available, is preferable to common rye, since it makes earlier spring growth and reduces the danger of "rye" odor in milk when grazed by milk cows. A limited amount of this seed is available in DeKalb County as Cecil Fitch, of Garrett, harvested some of this variety of rye for seed this summer. He reports it very satisfactory for pasturing with dairy cattle.

Fertilizing with rye with 200 or more pounds of 2-12-6 or 0-14-7 commercial fertilizer per acre, depending on soil fertility, will speed up and increase the amount of fall and early spring growth. It also will help the grass-legume seedings.

DO IT WITH WAR BONDS!

DID you ever get ready to blast a stump and wish you had Hitler and Tojo tied on top of one?

Well, you are giving this pair of varmints approximately the same treatment when you buy a War Bond. Because the money from that Bond is what enables our boys to work their way ever nearer and nearer to Berlin and Tokyo, smashing up a lot of Nazis and Japs on the way.

And here's a thing to think of: those Bonds will enable you to buy new equipment and machinery, repair and rebuild buildings, refurnish your home. For you get back all that you put in; plus substantial interest at maturity.

So let's obey that impulse to blast Tojo and Adolph to the skies : : : where we've already sent the Duce. Let's buy the Bonds that will help do it!

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED . . . NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy . . . from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

For America's Future, for your Future, for your children's Future

IT'S A CRAZY WORLD

The Inter-State Commerce Commission was created by Congress in 1887 to have control over all kinds of transportation in the United States. They have control over the creation of new facilities as well as those in use at that time.

In 1920 they were given the authority to force railroads to consolidate into systems by taking over weaker roads to operate by those with heavier traffic who could better afford the losses of the weak lines. They also had the authority to dissolve railroad systems if they thought it in the public interest.

The Commission also has absolute power over operating rules, freight and passenger rates and all matters concerning the railroad business.

Some time ago the President, the Director of Defense Transportation and the Inter-State Commerce Commission all thought certain combinations of Western railroads would be better for the public and the roads formed an association to carry out these plans. Last week the Department of Justice brought suit against this association as a violation of the Anti-Trust Laws.

Mrs. Carper was not the oldest resident but she was one of the few to attain the age of 93.

Mrs. Carper was married on Oct. 10, 1869, to Aaron Carper, who passed away in 1931. She and Mr. Carper celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in the same house in which they were married.

SUSPENDS DRIVERS BECAUSE OF LACK OF PROTECTION

A total of $181,307 to cover damages was posted by 82 per cent of the car owners and operators figuring in highway collisions in the first 3 months the new state motor vehicle safety responsibility law was in operation, Don F. Stiver, director of the department of public safety, said today. The statute became effective last November.

Posting of negotiable security is required of all persons not owning casualty insurance at the time of a fatal, personal injury or property damage accident. The remaining 18 per cent qualified under the law by filing Form SR-21, showing financial responsibility for damages through ownership of insurance.

Damages must be recovered by an individual through civil court action after the motorist involved has posted security or has filed the SR-21 form, Mr. Stiver said: The law, he pointed out, sets up machinery making it mandatory that all drivers accept full responsibility for the privilege of driving, but state is restricted from collecting or awarding damages.

In the eight-month period, ending July 31, orders were issued by the department suspending the driving privileges of 18,217 persons. A total of 14,702 suspensions were lifted however, when the motorists complied. Department evaluators estimated that persons without casualty insurance caused damages of $3,729,526. Mr. Stiver said 57,319 accidents were reported during the period.

THE BELL RINGS

The classrooms of our nation's schools buzz with activity as the young people dust off their desks and shake out their notebooks, to take again in hand pens and pencils to write another page in the history of American education. September and with it the opening of schoolhouses, the attaining of citizenship thru a public system of enlightenment. There follows the equiping of children with principles for self-government that only could be learned in attendance of a free school program. The task that lies before the instructors is a tremendous one, but since standards of education have advanced through the past years, the teacher as well as the student is ready to take advantage of this opportunity to cast out bigotry, ignorance, selfishness. The attitude of both should be to insure the future by stressing unity and peace. Well have the history books drilled in the forming of the states, the Boston Tea Party, Dred Scott Decision, the Revolutionary War, carpet-baggers, assassination of Lincoln and so on thru the background that brings us to the present. Do the history books point, as well, to the lessons to be learned for a tomorrow of problems in tactics, politics, organization, cultural and physical differences of the international members of our family, of peacemaking and government, in understanding among neighbors through hard physical differnces of the international members of our family, of peacemaking and govennment, in understanidg among neighbors through hard lessons taught through actual experiences, in other history books? This is a task for education in the schoolhouse of today in America.

Mr. Nichols, a man of 72 years and Mr. Houlton, of near Hamilton, who had only one arm, did a splendid job, and refused any pay for their work saying "that was what people were here for, to help each other." Mrs. Lysher was sure they saved her home as the fire department was out on another call that afternoon.

START THINKING

Hot under the collar, brows gathering moisture by the minute as we pray for relief from summer heat, it is still seasonable to think of Christmas shopping and mailing of packages for the soldiers overseas. Postoffice officials have been planning for some time, and now voice suggestions to the public on regulations that cover parcels going to army camps and overseas stations. The Christmas mailing date for both army and navy overseas, is from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15. Let us begin early, say today, to save cardboard boxes and stout string as these will be scarce by the time we need them. The same pointers of wrapping securely, addressing carefully is necessary since so many packages last year never reached servicemen through carelessness in mailing.. Shop early. Mark parcels "Christmas Gift" to be given special attention, packages to weigh not over 5 pounds, measuring not more than 15 inches long and 36 inches length and girth combined.

MAILING CHRISTMAS PARCELS

This year the time for mailing Christmas parcels is from September 15 to October 15. (This applies both to Army and Navy personnel overseas.)

After October 15 no parcel will be accepted for mailing unless accompanied by written request from addressee.

Gifts must be packed in boxes made of metal, wood, solid fiber board or strong corrugated fiberboard.

Address parcel plainly and tie with strong twine. Address of sender and also of addressee should be placed inside the package.

Parcel should be marked Christmas package.

Packages must not exceed 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined.

Not more than one package can be mailed in one week to the same member of the armed forces overseas by or in behalf of the same mailer.

When combination packages are made up each item should be separately wrapped and well packed in container.

Perishable goods, intoxicants, and inflammable materials are prohibited.

To avoid delay and possible disappointment begin your Christmas shopping now. Last year later mailings threatened to defeat the program. Success can be assured this year only if the public gives full coopertion thru prompt mailing from opening date.

AT ST. JOE FREE TALKING PICTURES SATURDAY NIGHT

HOOSIER SCHOOLMASTER

Hoosier Schoolmaster deals with the trials encountered by a youthful Civil War veteran who takes the position of a schoolmaster in a small Indiana village. Ralph Hartsook, the school master comes to Flat Creek with a band of exsoldiers which propose to take up government lands in a newly opened reserve. They find that they have been defrauded by a group of wily leaders and decide to camp in the creek bottoms near the village while young Hartsook takes the position of schoolmaster. Hartsook finds that most of the residents of the community are held in ignorance and bondage by a chosen few. So successful is he in bringing enlightenment into the section that his crafty enemes decide to have him put out of the way by a gang of night riders and the picture climaxes in an exciting battle as the soldiers take up arms in his behalf. Interwoven in the gripping plot is a beautiful romance between the schoolmaster and Hanna, a pretty bond servant. Norman Foster essays the principal role of the schoolmaster with Charlotte Henry contributing the feminine interest. Just why this tale of simple rustic life should have captured the hearts of all classes and continued its popularity through several generations is a matter for conjecture. That the refreshing humanness of the plot, the vividly quaint characters and the unusual dialect they employ all combine for unusual entertainment is generally agreed. In the Hoosier Schoolmaster beloved American characters step out of a great novel's pages to live and love in the hardy, eventful days of grandfather's time.

Would you call a plumber to help a cow calve?

EVERY man to his trade. When the cow's having trouble at calving time, you don't send for a lawyer or a plumber. You get a vet who has the special skill and experience required.

That's the way our many farm customers feel about electric service. They know we've been in the business a long time. They know we have the equipment, the manpower and the experience. They know they can count on us for good service at low rates.

And, in a business-managed company, good service goes all the way. It means careful engineering, sound construction, dependable power and quick repairs if fires or storms strike. These things are important when you're short of help and rushed for time, with all the world at war.

While working in a field recently Farrell Hanna noticed a number of crows attacking a large hoot owl in a high oak tree near by. Rushing to the house, he gets his double barrell bazooka and comes back and fires away, and a Great Horned Owl tumbles down. It had a wing spread of 4½ feet. Large enough to carry a full grown chicken or rabbit a short distance. He caught the same kind of an owl in a steel trap two years ago when he discovered one catching chickens by the brooder house on a moonlight night.

Planless Planners

GLIMPSES

"Here it comes—there it goes" can be said of the machinery desperately needed by American farmers if they are to keep up the burden of feeding America, her allies, and the conquered nations.

The optimistic statement to the Senate that American farmers are "seeing" the farm machinery they need brought forth the information that most of the machinery "seen" by North Dakota farmers is going past them on the way to Canada, Russia, New Zealand, Australia, England and Africa.

One North Dakota farmer told of seeing six carloads of combines and three tractors passing his farm by rail in one week bound for Canada, while the entire northwest is being forced to curtail food production by lack of farm implements.

EDITOR FINDS NOTE

While working on our back yard last Saturday evening, we discovered a magazine rolled up securely and a note tied to it, which had been thrown from a passing troop train, probably from the evening before, as two troop trains went though St. Joe on Friday evening, saying: "Who ever finds this, write and say how and where. Give to Fred Leighty." The message on the reverse side of the note is as follows:

"Dear All in St. Joe:

"I'm on my way to P. O. E. finally at last and since I'm passing through thought I'd let you know.

"Watch papers for quick advancement in France. I'm on my way to get it over with quick. Just passed Concord so don't tear up the place till I get back.

Vanishing Jobs

One day in the outskirts of Chicago I witnessed a traffic accident. A grocer's delivery car struck one of several children playing in the street and injured him painfully. Playmates scattered in excited disorder seeking the boy's parents, a doctor, a policeman. Each child tried to do what he thought needed most to be done. The father, a hairy specimen, was the first "help" to arrive.

No sooner had his dark eyes taken in the situation than he began to scold the injured boy. He didn't actually cuff his son but he said some really harsh things for any patient to bear along with an injury. (It turned out to be a broken arm.) The unhappy deliveryman took some oral abuse also. The father contributed nothing else. He vented his anger freely with profanity in thick dialect.

Doesn't Make Sense

Maybe some learned expert on human behavior could have explained that father's actions. A suffering child wept; unknown injuries waited treatment while duly constituted authority did a loud job of attaching blame without investigation. Understanding this might help explain why people, openly committed to the interests of labor, work so effectively making jobs scarce.

Destroying jobs does not help labor. Workers are never so well off as when there are plenty of jobs. An employee's right to quit his job and take a better one makes pay good, also working conditions. Employers who are liberal and considerate of their employees get the best men and head the best organizations. This is as much a part of America's Free Enterprise system as owning property.

Where the Jobs Are

Not many years ago competent workmen often quit their jobs with big corporations to go in business for themselves. They did it, not because they were sure to earn more. In fact they knew they might earn less. They did it for liberty to use their own ideas. They had self confidence and faith that their plans would prosper. The element of chance made it fun to operate businesses of their own.

Running your own business is no fun now; more like a headache, and this sad fact is closing the doors of many one-time thriving little enterprises. Seventy-five per cent of all American workers are engaged in small business. If, in the post-war periods, small employers are hopeless; if they find no reason to stay in business, see no chance to excel, get no fun from competition, jobs will be really scarce.

Thinking Time Now

Working people in this country, if they are wisely looking out for their own interests, have no bigger stake in anything than in small enterprises, be they farms or factories. What good is all the oratory about schooling discharged service men to fit them for certain jobs if most of the jobs are doomed to vanish, leaving two men waiting for every position that's left?

There is no certainty that there will be enough jobs after the war to employ service men and former war workers in pursuits of peace. There is no assurance in the words of the politician getting tough with crippled industry saying, "Big Business must put them all to work or support a gigantic WPA to employ them." It is like the voice of the benighted father cursing his maimed child. The right steps taken will assure plenty of jobs. Next week we will start to outline those steps.

The LIONS CLUB

The Ladies Aid of the Lutheran Church served the Lions in the church basement, Monday evening, and they did it very creditably, earning the gratitude of the good feeders, who had almost 100% attendance.

Lion Billow of the program committee introduced J. G. Stanaway, a representative of the Alpha Portland Cement Co., who was present and showed a film on the manufacture of Portland cement. The process of manufacture from the stone quarry to the finished product was shown and proved very interesting and instructive.

The attendance contest is on and will continue until in April '45. Last year the local club made a very creditable showing and this time they propose to capture one of the trophies.

Lions Paschen, Fisher and Stemen will have charge of the October meetings.

DEKALB COUNTY FAIR OPENS ON 25TH

Those coast to coast network stars, the famous Blackhawk Valley Boys, and Penny West will appear in Auburn, for the opening of the DeKalb County Free Fall Fair, Tuesday evening, Sept. 26.

Featured for many years on both the NBC and Blue Networks, the Blackhawk Valley Boys are renown throughout the country for their genuine ability for singing songs of the range from the many months spent with radio stations in the lone star state of Texas.

Connoisseurs of harmony, the Blackhawk Valley Boys are also adept at original novelties, cow country and western ballads. The instruments featured by this capable crew are Spanish and tenor guitars, accordion and bass.

The personnel of the Blackhawk Valley Boys includes Red Bicknell, fast talking master of ceremonies and bass rythm man; Pete Fall, ever smiling comedian; handsome George Arthur, romantic young vocalist, and Andy Anderson, tow headed accordion wizard.

The Blackhawk Valley Boys are featured performers on the WOWO "Famous Hoosier Hop" heard each Saturday night at Fort Wayne.

Other excellent entertainment has been scheduled for every day of the Fair along with ten rides, seven shows and the largest and best display of the livestock and farm produce exhibited in northeastern Indiana.

MORTUARY

CHORPENNING

Last Thursday morning while sitting in a rocking chair in the home at 424 East High Street in Hicksville, Mrs. Myrtle Chorpenning, aged 63, wife of Thomas Chorpenning, died very suddenly while her husband was standing by her side. She had felt as well as usual on arising but while getting breakfast she complained of not feeling well. Her husband called a physician who pronounced her condition as a heart ailment.

Mrs. Chorpenning was born September 1, 1881 at St. Joe and was a daughter of Allen M. and Rosa Wright Nelson. She grew to womanhood in St. Joe and on March 17, 1896 she was united in marriage with Thomas Chorpenning also of St. Joe. They went to housekeeping and lived in St. Joe for about four years when they moved to Garrett. After living in Garrett for a few years they moved to Hicksville. In 1913 the family returned to Garrett and in 1926 when the B. & O. shops were moved to Chicago they moved there. They returned to Hicksville in 1939.

Mrs. Chorpenning was a member of the Church of Christ in St. Joe. Surviving her are the husband, a son, Clayton, of St. Joe, four grandchildren, a great granddaughter, and two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Saylor and Mrs. Ressa Keener, both of Hicksville.

Funeral services were held in the Perkins & Reeb funeral home in Hicksville at 2 P.M. Saturday. Rev. Wm. Clague, pastor of the Church of Christ in St. Joe, officiated. Burial was in the K. of P. Cemetery.

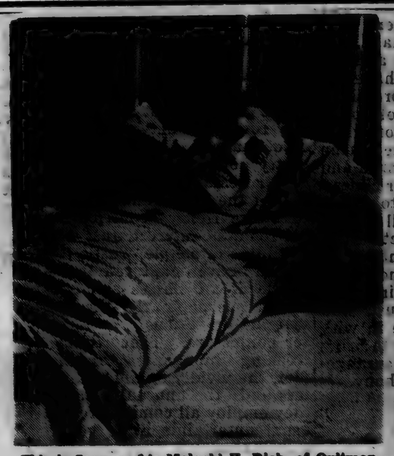
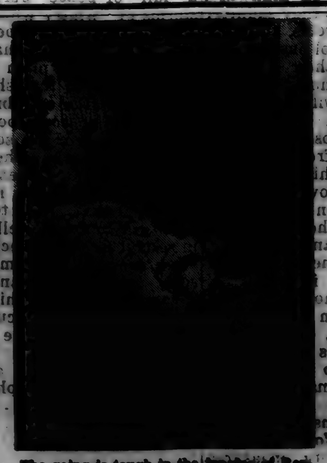
They Are Buying War Bonds —Are You?



This is Seaman 1/c Melachi H. Rich, of Quitman, Georgia. He is only 18 but a veteran of action in the Mediterranean. The destroyer escort on which he served was torpedoed and he was hit in the spine. For weeks he could not move his feet but now can move one foot pretty well. Four buddies are in the hospital. They were all rescued by a sister ship.



The going is tough in the Solomons Islands, Marine Pfc. Divil Phelps of Bridgeport, Conn., was thrown from a reconnaissance car and received a fractured right leg and compound fracture of the left. But he's doing all right as you can see here. Phelps is twenty-two.

A guided 'no Nazi torpedo can wipe off. Marion Porter, Steward 3/c, who hails from Spartanburg, S. C., was in the water three hours after his ship was torpedoed in the Mediterranean. A 20 mm shell case was thrown against his leg when the ship was hit and fractured it badly. Now he is waiting for his injury to heal so that he can get another crack at the Axis.

OUR CONSTITUTION

On Stpetember 17, 1787 our Constitution was born. Completed and signed by the delegates the document was ratified and became effective two years later. This bulwark of our democratic government was not hastily conceived but carefully combed, drawn into shape in four months at the convention and studied for 18 months before the colonies accepted it. This bill of liberty was a collection of mans experiences of many long years when efforts to maintain personal liberty threatened but well defended against economic, social and moral differences in union, they proclaim a nation to endure. to fulfill a great destiny, united states governing, serving, protecting themselves, changing opinions, expressing religious beliefs, owning property, preserving laws, resenting injustice playing a part in the governing. We hold, with this Constitution and its Bill of Rights, the most perfect instrument of government as yet devised by man. It is not perfect, as we in St. Joe all know, but as far as governments have gone, it has at least stood out as noteworthy.

OUR RESPONSIBILITY

Streets again are filled with school children, on highways and county roads they saunter, afoot or on bicycles, climbing on and off a school bus. The responsibility of their welfare rests on the shoulder of St. Joe and Spencerville motorists. We are, in fact, trustees of their safety, those of us who drive autos and frequent lanes of traffic where children can be found. Slowing down, in school zones, may mean loss of time for drivers, but the cost in life is more important than any business engagement. Children are thoughtless, in spite of warnings of schools, parents. Accidents happen to frequently to heedless, thoughtless youth. This means that the motorist must help children to take care of themselves by using consideration and caution on his part. Constant drilling and insistant enforcement of laws and safety measures haven't yet eliminated hazards to the safety of school children. We must help to reduce the annual toll of accidents and save our children if they won't save themselves.

There's an unpaid balance due . . .

THE minute never comes when any of us can say, "I've done enough." Until the end of the war—and for years thereafter—there'll be an unpaid balance due the men who are winning Victory for us today.

But War Bonds do pay installments on that balance!

Right now, the only protection we can give our boys is guns that fire quicker, planes that fly faster, and tanks that maneuver better than the enemy's. Your War Bonds help to buy them.

And when the war's over, War Bonds will go on making "payments"—because they'll help the country—including your farm—get back to peacetime prosperity. Let your returning boy find the farm backed with a strong financial reserve in Bonds . . . for new buildings, new stock, new machinery, and extra living comforts for the home he's been fighting for.

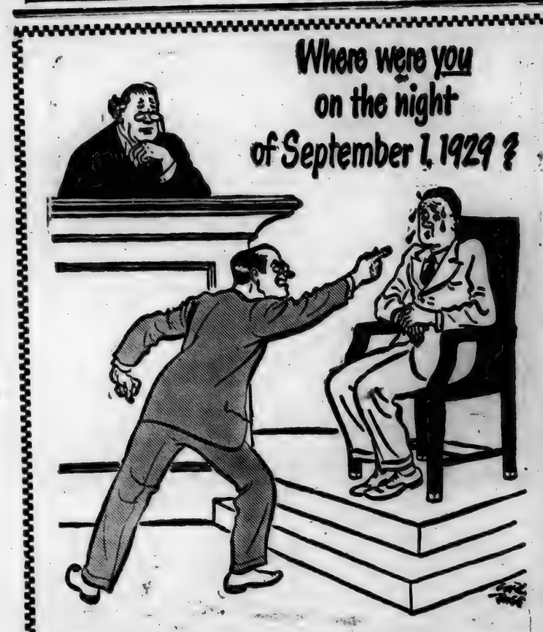
Today, and every day you can, buy another Bond toward that unpaid balance!

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED . . . NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy . . . from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

For America's Future, for your Future, for your children's Future

* Keep Backing 'em Up—WITH WAR BONDS! ****



Could you remember, if you were squirming on the witness stand? Probably not. 15 years is a long time.

Maybe, being September first, you were writing checks to pay the monthly bills. Do you remember how much you paid for electricity?

That's a tough one, too, isn't it? Actually, if yours is an average American household, your electric bill may have been a little less then than it is now.

But today you're getting twice as much electricity for your money!

How come? Well, while the price of electricity was coming down, your use of electricity was going up. You have a lot more electric appliances in 1944 than you had in 1929. But you enjoy all these added comforts at little, if any, added cost!

Even if you're hazy about everything else that's happened in the last 15 years, remember this wartime bargain. It's due to hard work by all our people—and sound business management.

SEPTEMBER

The reddened leaf that chances to remain on the bough before dryness brings it to earth and forgetfulness, the sound of honeybees at work for winter storage, the summer sun that slips Septemberward and mellows its rays to an autumnal glow, the petunias and phlox by marigolds and zinnias, all proclaim the closing of summer days. Berries and wild grapes, apples and late tomatoes, hickory nuts and busy squirrels, the closing of resort cottages and the reopening of school books, top-coats and bonfires and crisp leaves underfoot are the rich robes of September that clothe the spirit for cold months ahead. That which was bright turned to brown. Those which bloomed have died and too soon the line of feathery branch becomes a stark outline against a chill sky. But this is no today. Today is a clump of fall flowers, a brisk walk midst beauty with a surrounding quiet that seems a lull of peace before the storms of wintry winds. The loveliness of September's subtle sliding into the shade, the shutters of the plain and the frozen ground that shakes itself against the cool breath of a less kind season. Look today to the glories of the soft glide of this month, to the Queen Anne's lace and goldenrod and sumac of the field's richness. The signs that point to future drab grays, today spell beauty in restful lighting effects. The swan song of September is a song of sadness and sweet dreams as the birds chirp more softly, the gentle locust and spritely katydid tune in with the cricket and toad, to bring their notes for the arrangement of our fall symphony.

HOOSIER SCHOOLMASTER

Cast: Norman Foster, Charlott Henry, Dorothy Libaire, Sarah Padden, Otir Harlan, Russell Simpson, Wm. V. Mong, Fred Kohler, Jr., Tommy Bupp, Wallace Reid, Jr., George Hayes, Joe Bernard.

Hoosier Schoolmaster deals with the trials encountered by a youthful Civil War veteran who takes the position of a schoolmaster in a small Indiana village. Ralph Hartsook, the school master comes to Flat Creek with a band of ex-soldiers which propose to take up government lands in a newly opened reserve. They find that they have been defrauded by a group of wily leaders and decide to camp in the creek bottoms near the village while young Hartsook takes the position of schoolmaster. Hartsook finds that most of the residents of the community are held in ignorance and bondage by a chosen few. So successful is he in bringing enlightenment into the section that his crafty enemes decide to have him put out of the way by a gang of night riders and the picture climaxes in an exciting battle as the soldiers take up arms in his behalf. Interwoven in the gripping plot is a beautiful romance betweeh the schoolmaster and Hanna, a pretty bond servant. Norman Foster essays the principal role of the schoolmaster with Charlotte Henry contributing the feminine interest. Just why this tale of simple rustic life should have captured the hearts of all classes and continued its popularity through several generations is a matter for conjecture. That the refreshing humanness of the plot, the vividly quaint characters and the unusual dialect they employ all combine for unusual entertainment is generally agreed. In the Hoosier Schoolmaster beloved American characters step out of a great novel's pages to live and love in the hardy, eventful days of grandfather's time.

Navy's Destructive Five-Inchers

'Make Hay' in School, 'Teen-Agers Advised

EVEN though school is in full swing, it seems pretty early to think about graduation, especially if that great day is going to be several years coming, says Holly Miller, whose column in Capper's Farmer is a popular feature among boy and girl readers of the nationally circulated farm magazine.

"However, a diploma won't automatically turn you into the intelligent, educated, efficient young whatever-you-want-to-be," she counsels, "unless you've laid a good foundation through the years of good old golden rule days.

"Come graduation, your class poet probably will dream up a fancy peak into the future lives of your classmates, all in rather free verse. For instance:

He designs big machines of great strength and much might."

"Are you making hay while the state is paying for your education, or are you letting bright boys like George White get a running start? George probably studied his math and physics while he was in School. A basic background of information is not a luxury in this day and age. It's a necessity for Getting Ahead, because a fair percentage of the millions of your contemporaries are going to school to learn—not just to pass. Playing through school fits you for practically nothing but playing through life."

Handy Energy Savers

A long-handled dustpan saves homemakers lots of back-tiring stooping. If none is available in the stores, have your husband fashion one from an old mop handle, and your regular dustpan, suggests the Home Editor of Capper's Farmer, whose advice on household matters is read by 1,250,000 farm families. Cleaning bedsprings is a tedious job normally, she adds, but when you use a long-handled dish mop which has been treated with furniture oil, the dust disappears like magic. Moreover, you save time, disposition and many a backache.

Scotch Oat Bread Livens Up a Meal

Breads can do much to "liven up" a meal—especially such ones as the pictured Scotch Oaten Bread, says the Country Cooking editor of Capper's Farmer, a publication of national circulation.

This crusty, tempting loaf is made from a famous recipe handed down by an early Scotch settler. For breakfast, toast it and serve with butter and jam; it's made to order for snacks; or serve for a supper dessert with creamy cottage cheese and a bowl of homemade jelly, advises the Capper's Farmer expert.

Scotch Oaten Bread.

2 cups flour	1 teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar	1¼ cups buttermilk
2½ teaspoons baking powder	2 tablespoons shortening
½ teaspoon soda	1 cup raisins or cooked prunes
1 cup quick-cooking rolled oats

Sift flour, then measure. Sift with sugar, baking powder, soda and salt. Add rolled oats and mix thoroly. Combine milk and melted shortening. Add diced fruit, stirring just enough to moisten dry ingredients. Turn into a well-greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven for 1 hour.

THE CRYSTAL BALL

"In order to preserve their independence the people must not let our rulers load them with perpetual debt. . . .

"We must make our choice between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. . . . A departure from principle in one instance becomes a precedent for a second; that second for a third; and so on, till the bulk of the society is reduced to be mere automatons of misery. . . . The fore horse of this frightful team is public debt. Taxation follows that, and in its train wretchedness and oppression. . . ."

So wrote Thomas Jefferson in a letter to Samuel Kerchival in 1816.

HUSBAND COMPLETES FIFTY MISSIONS

15th AAF in Italy, Sept. 19. —1st Lt. Robert C. Metz, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd D. Metz, of Fort Wayne, recently tallied his 50th combat mission over Hitler's collapsing Europe. Husband of Mrs. Elizabeth A. Metz, of Spencerville, he is a bambardier on a 15th AAF B-24 Liberator heavy bomber based in Italy.

He has ranged from the southern coast of France to the far eastern corner of Roumania in his plane "Honey Chile," dropping bombs upon such important enemy installations as the railyards at Budapest, the airdromes at Munich and Vienna and the oft-attacked oil refineries at Ploesti, Roumania. All told, he is a member of a group that has dealt the Axis 125 blows and has been awarded the distinguished unit citation for plastering the railyards at Buchrarest, Roumania, destroying at the same time 40 enemy planes out of 148 attempting to intercept.

"I got my biggest thrill on D-Day. As our plane reached the southern coast of France, I looked down into the sea and saw hundres of ships of all sorts. There were great big battle wagons from which tongues of fire stuck out continually. They were shelling the German guns. We expected trouble from enemy fighters," he continued, but "the sky belonged to us completely that day. We hit the railyards and gun positions and then went home at the end of a perfect day."

PANAMINT'S BAD MAN

Cast: Smith Ballew, Evelyn Day, Noah Berry. Sr., Pat O'Brien, etc.

Panamint's Bad Man is considered the best of Ballew's series of pictures. The long, rangy Texan is cast as a Deputy United States Marshal assigned to break up a series of stage hold-ups. To accomplish his job more efficiently, he assumes the guise of a celebrated bad man and in this way works himself into the group. He arrests the entire gang after a sensational shooting spree which highlights this vigorous Western feature.

SOME HOUSEHOLD HINTS

In the modern materials there is much rayon. All should be ironed on the wrong side if possible. When collars, tabs, cuffs, can't be so ironed, then use a pressing cloth on the right side. Rayons differ so that certain degrees of dampness and in ironing heat vary with the fabric. Start with a cool iron and increase heat if necessary. Don't pull or stretch washable crepes. Heavier materials such as spun rayons, gabardines, butcher linens will take a hotter iron and need to be ironed while fabric is slightly damp.

Making Work

Proper steps taken soon enough will assure plenty of jobs, after the war, in peaceful pursuits for men busy today with war work and for those in uniform as fast as they are discharged from the armed forces. To say these men will deserve good jobs is saying far too little. Having saved this country from foreign foes, they will deserve to possess and enjoy their own prosperous land.

It is for the good of the country and every family in it that plenty of well-paid employment be provided after the war. It is not a mere matter of justice to the deserving; not at all a matter of pity for the unfortunate. It is patriotism; it is self-preservation. If America is to remain the land of liberty and opportunity, our first postwar step must be toward firm footing: Work for willing workers.

Industry Must Lead

The first move in post-war prosperity therefore is industry's move, putting some 7 to 10 million men to work at gainful employment. It is no small matter. The average investment necessary to make a job in American industry is $6,000 which means that industry must put up 40 to 60 billion dollars for plant equipment and working capital to make all these jobs good, that is, make them pay wages and interest on investment.

Soon after V-Day some 16 million men will start making their personal adjustments from war to a peacetime manner of life. About six million of them will get out of industry after the war; young people returning to school, married women resuming their home-making, etc. But some now in war industries will want to keep working.

Others From Battle

The United States likely will keep a large standing Army and a more powerful Navy than ever before. Probably anybody who wants to remain in the armed forces will have a chance to stay, but millions of fighting men will want civilian jobs right after the war. These two groups combined make 7 to 10 million workers and there is not much disagreement among statisticians about the figure.

Putting all these men to work, of course, is only one side of industry's big post-war responsibility. The other half of it is providing people the things they want and need at prices they can afford to pay. Both undertakings require some high-powered planning. Popular retail prices have to start with low production costs which depend on volume, but overproduction is a calamity in any plant, a big calamity in any industry.

Cooperation Needed

This sketchy outline should show what a colossal job of master precision American industry must accomplish, or else. It is stupendous, but it is possible. It will require accurate market forecasting, balanced production, economical operation and good selling. All must plan well.

If Private Enterprise does its share for national prosperity by investing 40 to 60 billion dollars to create 7 to 10 million jobs, industry will be obliged to have security of investment and hope of profit—a green light and a clear road. Labor and government both have a necessary part to play in post-war prosperity, and the next two chapters of this column will deal with them, one at a time. "Labor's Lever" next week.

COMMUNITY PRAYER SERVICE

In every nation that loves Liberty and Peace, hopes and prayers are that very soon hostilities shall cease both in Europe and the Far East. The day when peace will come in Europe may not be far away. We have read of and seen some of the results of this terrible conflict, enough to know that we do not want another conflict.

We feel that instead of the carousing and revelry that would likely take place, that there be community prayer and meditation service.

This service will be held at 7:30 P.M. at the Church of Christ on the evening of the day hostilities cease in Europe. The community is welcome and urged to be present.

KINSEY—THOMPSON

A very pretty wedding took place Sunday, September 10, at the Methodist Church at Wolcottville, when Miss Beverly Kinsey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kinsey, of Wolcottville, became the bride of Ralph G. Thompson, of Fort Wayne, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Thompson, of Cincinnati, Ohio. The single ring service was performed by the Rev. Glen Sutton, pastor of the church, in the presence of one hundred relatives and friends. Palms and beautiful vases of white gladioli formed a pretty setting for the exchanging of vows and preceding the ceremony Miss Joyce Diggins played a 15-minute musical of bridal airs. Mrs. Glen Sutton sang "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "Song of Love."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an "Alice Blue" sheer street length dress with brown accessories and a corsage of orchids and stephanots.

Her sister, Miss Jonquil Kinsey, as maid of honor, was attired in a rose sheer dress, blue accessories and carried a pouder pugg bouquet of blue illusion and pink roses. Willard Hopkins, of Fort Wayne, served the groom as best man and John Hanna and William Parks, of Fort Wayne, were ushers.

Following the nuptials a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents with seventy guests attending. The rooms were decorated with gladioli and asters. Ice cream and a three-tierd, decorated wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom were served by four cousins of the bride, Marjorie Willett and Barbara Trim, of Fort Wayne, April Bowser, of St. Joe, and Treva Ulms, of Butler.

After the reception the young couple left for Cincinnati, Ohio, where they spent a week. Both the bride and groom are employed in the chemical laboratory of the General Electric Company at Fort Wayne. They will be at home to their friends at 234 E. DeWald Street, Fort Wayne. —Wolcottville Herald.

APPLES

Eden had its fall when the bounty of an apple tree proved too tempting. As the fragrance of fruit reaches we wonder how any could resist the McIntosh, Baldwin, Winesap, Jonathan, the Delicious and Greening. An apple tree is an honorable growth with its gnarled branches that bring its fruit in season, its crooked boughs that blossomed with such beauty in spring. Its shade affords rest, the cider for its ripeness pleases the thirsty. Windfalls lie at its feet and the leaves that robed it through summer heat, blown down to brown. The baskets of apples that are put away for winter evening's pleasure, stored for sauce and pies and dumplings, are the gifts from a tree that is almost human in its understanding of man's need.

NO COMPROMISE

The closer to victory over Germany, the nearer an end of European war, the more dangerous is our peace, when the result makes us less willing to fight our Japanese enemy to a finish. When we defeat Germany and the tidings reach these shores, the flood of rejoicing will be out-of-bounds. And with this happiness many will want all soldiers home again and so elated over our victory and the end of Nazism, will fool themselves into thinking it also the death knell for Japan. Listen to a compromise with this foe, they will insist, to a compromise that will get all fighting done, and even if the terms be light isn't it worth that to get our boys and girls back home again, they ask. Our worst enemy is licked so why need we risk more lives, continue killing when the more serious menace is dead. Let's return to our normal lives and do away with war restrictions as soon as possible, they continue, these misguided souls. They have never felt the force of our Japanese foe and their type of thinking is dangerous when it meets up with others who are non-thinkers and easily led and swayed. Don't think Japan hasn't felt this sort of public sentiment would spread in our country after Germany has been defeated. Japan is anticipating this, that she may build again for another war as surely as she built for this. No compromise with Japan if this nation values her future peace. Japan knows she won't win her fight through her military force but she is betting on enough sentimentalism after we finish with Germany to give compromise with her a hearing. Fortunately for this country, most people are alive to the danger of such peace terms, the worthlessness of such paper. The majority of us want Japan conquered completely, entirely devastatingly, for the good of all Asia.

ELECTION IN WAR

In 1864 Lincoln stood for reelection during the process of fighting a war. The nation survived the balloting. In our time we too will face a general election to decide upon men to govern our country. Here we come in contact with disunity and strain, snares and political promises and chaos, unless we can overcome the evils of a wartime election with fair, open minds, to follow through the voting program. Strange, yet war itself brings about unity among allies and among citizens of the country. Politics brings about disunity, factions that fight with a distrust for rival parties, discredits sound ideas in the face of reason, simply to play the political game. We recognize vote-getting promises that puts an end to war with the final bullet, and of ending privations as soon as victory. Much lies beyond all this and we well know it. We will not permit politics to divide us on the peace since politics hasn't divided us on winning the war. We can weather an election in wartime and choose our men, united not in political leanings but in the determination to stand the test of our constitutional rights. Politics will not divide unity in St. Joe.

REMEDY THIS

Schools teach reading and writing and here in St. Joe we felt that schools were available to everyone. Therefore we can be shocked that illiteracy has cost our army 240,000 men, which means the loss of 15 divisions, perhaps divisions that would have made a difference in the length of war. The army needed these men badly enough that they proceeded to give them an eight weeks course in reading and writing. Texts that made the learning easier, were furnished, and since educators have proved that adults who are illiterate can master the fundamentals

BE SAFE . . . BE SURE . . . WITH WAR BONDS!

No corn in the weather can wash out your investment in War Bonds. No cut-worm or borer or other insect pest can get to them. No market fluctuation can alter their value from day to day. They're one "crop" that never fails!

We Americans pride ourselves not only on knowing how to make a penny now and then, but also on how to keep one. So we get double pleasure out of our War Bond purchases. First, we're backing our men in uniform who are fighting all over the world to keep America safe and free. Second, we are building a financial reserve to meet the inevitable emergencies of such a business as farming. And third, when those Bonds mature, we will have the cash for new equipment and machinery and buildings to help maintain the efficiency and earning power of our farms.

Yes, if you're looking for a "crop" that never fails, you'll put in an order today for more War Bonds . . . even if you have to go without something else to pay for them!

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED . . . NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy . . . from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

For America's Future, for your Future, for your Children's Future

quickly, the army met with success. Illiteracy is a national shame, a blot on our civic conscience. Educated in the rudiments in eight weeks by the army, it points to an achievement that can be made in any section where illiteracy exists. Illiteracy is unnecessary and should be eliminated for the good of all of us.

Nelson Eddy Stars in "The Electric Hour"

In answer to the constant cry of the millions of radio listeners, "We want GOOD music," the electric companies will sponsor a new radio program over the entire CBS network called "The Electric Hour" and starring Nelson Eddy and debuting on Wednesday, September 20.

Nelson Eddy, handsome young baritone of radio, opera, concert stage and moving pictures, will headline the new radio program, "The Electric Hour," which makes its debut on the entire CBS network, Wednesdays, 10:30 p.m., EWT, starting September 20. With Eddy will be featured Robert Armbruster directing the orchestra and chorus.

Eddy, who is known the country over for his concert appearances, his fine musical moving pictures and his radio work, will be accompanied by Robert Armbruster and a symphonic-type orchestra. The combination of Eddy and Armbruster is a familiar one to lovers of fine music, for not only has Armbruster worked with the famous baritone on the air, but has furnished the musical background to Nelson Eddy record albums.

Nelson Eddy was born in Providence, Rhode Island, June 29, 1901, of musical parents. He sang in churches as a boy and when he moved to Philadelphia in 1915, determined to study music. That meant work—and work he did. As a telephone operator, as a reporter, then as a writer of advertising. He learned operatic arias by listening to them on records. He continued working by day and studying by night and, in 1923, won his way into the part of Amonasro in a local presentation of "Aida" by the Philadelphia Operatic Society. His notices were good and encouraged him to greater study.

His debut in professional grand opera came in 1924 at the Metropolitan Opera House with the Philadelphia Civic Opera Company. Alexander Smallens gave him additional coaching and today Eddy gives Smallens full credit for his operatic successes.

He came into the full zenith of his professional career through moving pictures. The whole country became "Nelson Eddy conscious" when he and Jeanette MacDonald were co-starred in one of the first great movie-musical hits—"Naughty Marietta," in 1933. His concert tours were amazing successes and he has been known as "America's Number One Box Office Singer."

His list of moving picture successes is a long one. He has been one of the nation's favorite radio stars for years, winning poll after poll even when he was not heard on a regular series, but merely making guest appearances.

He has a magnificent baritone voice, magnificently used. He had splendid diction in half a dozen languages, distinct gifts for acting and a fine stage presence. From first to last he is completely and naturally American.

The show, which will be heard at 10:30 p.m. EWT, will be a half-hour in length. Charles Herbert, brilliant young director who has just completed three years with CBS, has been signed to produce the show.

Informal in character, the half-hour will bring to listeners the best in music—whether it be operatic or a romantic ballad of today, a Gilbert and Sullivan "patter" song, or a melody from our Latin-American neighbors. Many of the hit songs of Eddy's moving pictures will be heard. Eddy himself, a fine actor as well as singer, will announce his own numbers and will bring a note of informality to the half-hour.

The programs will originate in Hollywood's Radio City.

Mrs. Nettie Baker, of Fort Wayne, and Mrs. Charles Bishop, of Auburn, spent last week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Cole.

Mrs. Josie Shilling is quite seriously ill at tme of going to press. She took worse Tuesday morning. She has been poorly for the past two months.

Carl Perkins' Berkshires came through four outstanding county fairs undefeated and capturing champion boar and sow at all of them. At the national Berkshire Show in Indianapolis a few days ago he won one first, two seconds and one eighth on four pigs placed in the show. LARGE GROUP AT SWINE DAY SCHOOL

"No man in the armed service and no American civilian has gone without food because of failure by agriculture to produce," declared Scott Meiks, president of the Indiana Producers' Commission Association in an address at Purdue University Friday before 1,000 visitors attending the 24th annual Purdue swine day.

"The hog farmers of America, with less help, less equipment and higher feeding costs, produced 122 million hogs in 1943, a total of 16 per cent more than in 1942, and this year, despite drought and other handicaps, they will produce approximately 88,000,000," he said.

Meiks blamed the 1943-44 hog market congestion on increased government demands without planning adequate processing facilities. Scarcity of feed and the corn price freeze added to the problem, he said.

Prof. C. M. Vestal, of the Purdue animal husbandry staff, explaining results of feeding tests on seven lots of hogs, pointed out that feeder hogs after reaching a weight of 75 pounds can be fed economically on limited protein rations where good alfalfa pasture is available.

Local men attending the swine day were chaperoned by Dale Wicoff and were: Fred Stemen, Claude Laub, Roger Laub, Louis Washler, John W. Cook, L. W. Yeiser, Roger Stebing, Leonard Jarrett, Paul Likens, Harold Murphy, C. G. Rectenwall, Carl Carpenter, Wm. Staman, Glen Cole, D. J. Burley, Clarence Woodcox, Arla Dwyer, Wm. Nusbaum, Guy Platter.

The LIONS CLUB

Twenty-five Lions sat down Monday evening to a fine dinner, in the Lutheran Church basement, and enjoyed a talk by Rev. Wm. Clague, who was introduced by Lion Ralph Keeler, as sponsor for the evening.

The pastor quoted from Paul when he said "Forgetting those things which are behind, I press forward to the prize of the high calling in Christ Jesus," and in commenting he cited instances where men were eager to forget their past, just as Paul, and that they were then ready to give their life to make amends for the past. Successful men must have good aims in life, not purposes that destroy individuals or communities.

Lion Rectenwall gave a thot on Lion education and Fred Stemen reported on the charter night at Harlan, at which 8 local Lions attended.

D. L. Haffner, of Garrett, chairman of the War Fund Drive, talked on the plans for the coming drive, and he appointed Lion Ralph Sechler to head the local drive and at Spencerville Mrs. Paul Dean. The quota for the county is $12,300, and half of this money is for USO and the balance is divided between the 21 relief agencies serving in this war.

Labor's Lever

America's 39 million non-farm employees last year drew about 90 billion dollars in their pay envelopes—three-fifths of our national income. These people have power to make their country prosperous or plunge it into chaos. They hold the lever and the best thing they can ever do for this nation is to act for their own best interests, seriously.

American workers will not toil for a few cents a day like Japs; they must not. Lowering Labor's living standards always damages American prosperity by just that much. Industry's only hope to compete in all markets, at home and abroad, is on a basis of manufacturing efficiency. Producing more marketable merchandise per worker per day spells prosperity to employer and employee both.

Making Jobs Pay

Last week in this column I showed how employment might be put at a safe, economic level after the war. Briefly the achievement will cost industry about $6,000 per job plus some good, sound planning. But this will be only a start. The jobs themselves must pay good wages and interest on investment. Otherwise they will be temporary jobs, not worth providing, not worth accepting. Only secure jobs are good jobs.

Cheap foreign labor has long been a challenge to American efficiency. There was a time when American workers felt directly the competition of immigrants glad to work for less than an American's living wage. The world was at peace then and immigration easy. Those conditions have changed, but cheap foreign labor still exists and it constitutes a serious threat.

Indirect Competition

Aliens may never under-bid American citizens for work on U. S. soil again; their competition will be indirect. The hazard is that European and Asiatic manufacturers will use their cheap help to imitate American goods and then sell the rubbish in America and elsewhere. Such a degrading of world markets will mean less business for American plants and fewer jobs for American workers.

The American workman's answer to such a challenge is easy: Less costly merchandise. This does not mean lower wages. It means higher wages. It means maximum yield—more and better products turned out faster and at less cost. It does not mean long hours. It means more workers on the job fewer hours with American efficiency, more yield per hour per worker. Whoever cuts production bleeds labor.

Wages Follow Volume

What a workman earns in a year is in proportion to what he produces. An employer's investment in tools increases volume, and the worker's earnings accordingly. High wages and high living standards for workers depend, therefore, on two things: (1) The employer's investment in equipment, previously discussed, and (2) workmen who can and will make that equipment do its best while in use.

If management buys tools to make things people want and thus creates jobs, if workers help crash the gates of world markets with prices lower than the drivers of slave labor can quote, doing so with good American things made faster to sell for less, then nothing can stop our prosperity but government itself. Next week, "Moral Courage," which is government's part in post-war prosperity.

FUNERAL FRIDAY FOR MRS. J. R. SHILLING

After two months illness, Mrs. Josie Shilling, wife of the late. J. R. Shilling, died at her home here at 6:45 Tuesday evening. She had just passed her 85th birthday on August 9th. The body will lie in state at the Rupp Funeral Home, where friends may call and the funeral will be held Friday afternoon from the St. Mark's Lutheran Church, with Pastor Frank Stevenson in charge.

HUNTERS GET LONGER SEASON AND GREATER BAG LIMIT ON DUCKS

Indiana hunters generally have expressed approval of the new 1944 migratory waterfowl regulations which provide them with an increased bag limit on certain species, and an extended open season.

The season will open Oct. 14 and close January 1. Last year the opening date was October 16, and the closing date was December 23. The season was lengthened in the interest of Southern Indiana hunters, according to Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game. The concentration of birds in that part of the state occurs in late December and in January.

The new regulations provide that an additional five birds may be taken this year over last year's limit of ten if the species are mallards, widgeons or pintails. They may be taken singly, or in the aggregate. Other highlights of the changes in waterfowl regulations include an increased possession limit, and a longer period in which birds killed during the regular season may be held by the hunter.

The possession limit on wild ducks has been fixed at twenty, including not more than one wood duck, and in addition, ten singly, or in the aggregate of mallards, widgeons or pinpintails. Hunters may have birds killed during the regular open season in their possession for forty-five days after the close of the season.

It is estimated that the waterfowl population of the North American continent this year is about the same as the figure last year, which was about 150,000,000, according to Mr. Mosbaugh. The first flight this year, he said can be expected shortly after November 1, depending upon weather conditions.

SALE

Two sales are scheduled for October. Dr. Price will sell his personal property on Saturday, October 7, commencing at 1:00 o'clock, and this includes his furniture, rugs, bedding, cooking utensils, dishes, silverware, and many miscellaneous articles.

The second sale is Dan Gratz, of two miles west of Spencerville, set for Tuesday, October 10, when he will sell 2 horses, 13 cattle, 63 sheep, 3 hogs, hay, grain, farm machinery, Ford truck, and some household goods. Reason for sale, farm has been sold.

CARS SMASH AT THE S. S. WYATT CORNER

Although an automobile crashed into the side of another and pushed it 16 feet, the occupants escaped injury, Deputy Sheriff Frank E. Carpenter reported Friday.

The collision took place late Thursday afternoon at the intersection of State Roads 1 and 101 at the Wyatt Corners. Henry Lung, of R. 3, Butler, was going east in a Plymouth sedan and Harold Seltenright, of Butler, was driving north in a Ford car.

Deputy Sheriff Carpenter learned that Seltenright disregarded a stop sign. Seltenright's car hit the other squarely in the center of the body. Damage to the Plymouth was estimated at $150 and to the Ford at $100.

LOOKING AHEAD

Food administration officials mention that the future outlook for beef for many households, is to point to a poorer grade and fewer cuts. The WFA had previously asked for 50 per cent of beef of Army grade. Now slaughterers, operating under the Federal inspection, are asked to set aside 60 per cent. The quality of beef reaching the market is of such poor grade that the armed forces can't get enough to supply them under the 50 per cent order. This gives you an idea of next winter's chances for steaks and roasts. We face a sugar reduction, also. In many parts of the country sugar supplies are at an all time low. It is predicted that the Cuban sugar supply will be less. They will take a large tonnage of raw sugar for alcohol for synthetic rubber. We see sweetness curtailed a bit, but we still will be a long ways off of a hardship standard.

SOUNDS GOOD HERE!

A local lad overseas writes home that one of the friendliest sights and smells he has encountered since he went away, the recent aroma and taste of homemade bread. As far as most of us are concerned there couldn't anything that would make one long for home much more than that item. They still use the old tried recipes of long ago, which still aren't excelled by modern cooks. Some folks started in the night before to mix and set the bread for the next day's baking. You recall the appearance of that heap of dough that had grown to double its size, puffed to overflowing its container? Remember the snow white towel that covered it from drafts and that yeast aroma that foretold of buttered slices of deliciousness to come. Some of the dough went into breakfast rolls with a sugary goo that was augmented by a sprinkling of cinnamon. Heaven help the hip line on a day like that! Let's stop at the store on the way home and take Mother a yeast cake just for remembrance—and who knows what might happen.

Is It Planned or Accidental?

If there were agencies at work in Washington to devise ways and means to injure or destroy tax-paying enterprise in this country, they could not do a better job than is being done in many instances. It is hard to believe, however, that this results from deliberate planning. It is also inconceivable that our lawmakers will fail to see the inequitable characterstics of some of the proposals before them.

There are now up for Senate and House consideration bills for the disposal of surplus war materials, which are said to favor cities, states and public utility districts with special prices or outright gifts of such materials, although similar towns would be denied tax-paying private industry which must compete with the tax-exempt public enterprises.

It is unthinkable that the United States Congress would pass such unfair legislation. If it does, there is no use talking about equal rights and justice in our country. The passage of such special privilege legislation would promote all forms of government tax-subsidized business, that would cripple or destroy private enterprise.

Certainly tax-paying industry has a better right to purchase surplus war materials, which taxes levied against it have helped pay for, than has public enterprise which never paid a thin dime of taxes to help produce such materials.

BOOST OUR OWN SYSTEM

Government has grown to be such a giant in this country and has so many millions of persons on its payroll, that it is the biggest problem business and industry are going to have to contend with in the so-called readjustment period.

Already there is an army of economic planners at work to keep the check rein of government on every private activity. This will be done under the guise of preventing inflation, and creating employment. Business and industry will have to figure out ways to operate and exist and employ labor and pay taxes, in spite of all the plans that all the planners can heap upon them.

Very few of the planners are sincerely outspoken in their desire to restrict government competition or domination of business, and encourage the individual to go out and try to create the postwar jobs and production which they talk about.

Most of the planners, by innuendo or plain threats, say that if business doesn't maintain record employment, government will. And many of them seem to be hopeful that they can lay enough stumbling blocks in the way of private enterprise so that they will have an excuse for saying that government must take over.

Imagine the spirit of optimism that would prevail in this nation if business and industry felt that our government and the powerful bureaus that now dominate it, were wholeheartedly in favor of promoting private enterprise under fair and reasonable regulation. If risk capital was encouraged to take a chance, it is safe to say that our natural resource industries would experience new growth after the war, as the world is going to want the products of our mines, farms and forests in unheard of quantities, in exchange for the goods that they must sell to us. Why not uphold the American system for Americans, instead of aping in so many ways the socialized systems of Europe, where some bureaucrat throttles the opportunity of the individual? It is time the people of this country began to work to save our own American system, instead of adopting alien philosophies.

SYMPATHY FOR FINLAND

Little Finland is entitled to sympathy and pity. It is out of the war. It did not make peace terms, it accepted them. The 23 clauses in the armistice signed at Moscow include nothing of which the Finns may take satisfaction.

Finland must immediately restore the 1940 border. It loses about 10 per cent of its population, its most important industrial center of Viipuri, its port at Petsamo in the north and including the rich nickel fields. On top of that it is called on to pay Russia $300,000,000 indemnity within six years.

Along with other things, the Finns are ordered to disarm the German troops in Finland.

The leaders of Finland became enamoured of the Nazi war lords and failed to stand independently for their nation. Their people pay the cost.

But do we give them the greatest weapon of all?

IN providing our men with the wonder-weapons of all time, is our job complete? Have we given them our best?

No! Not until every free dollar in America is invested in War Bonds have we provided our men with the greatest weapon of all. For it is support from the folks at home—support that lets the soldier know we're backing him to our limit—that gives him the greatest part of his fighting strength.

Curiously enough, the farms of America need those War Bonds as urgently as our boys need the weapons and the supplies those Bonds will provide. For as those Bonds mature, they will replace machinery and equipment and provide cash to maintain those farms as profitable business enterprises.

Have any of us yet really done our best?

Let's give those boys the greatest weapon of the war—all the War Bonds we can possibly buy!

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED . . . NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy . . . from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

For America's Future, for your Future, for your children's Future

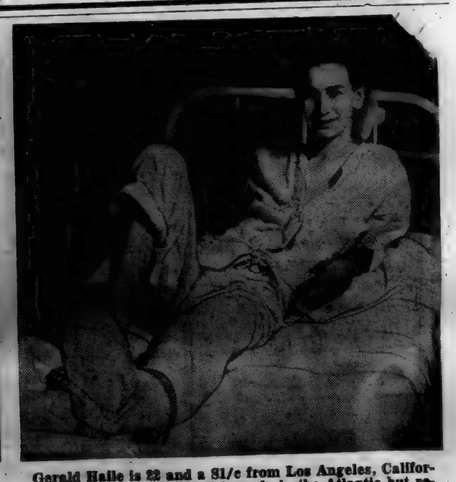
Gunner's Mate Oliver Huntsinger, 21, comes from Anderson, Indiana. He was aboard a destroyer escort in the Mediterranean when a Nazi torpedo struck his ship, throwing him a distance of 15 feet. First he was taken to a British field hospital and is now in the Navy Hospital at St. Albans, N. Y. He is buying War Bonds. Are You?

Wounded at Bizerte, S1/c R. D. Stalter, Spring Valley, N. Y., can still smile although one leg is shorter than the other because of a big piece of Nazi shrapnel. Your War Bond purchases make possible the best medical care in the world for our injured heroes.



Gerald Halle is 22 and a S1/c from Los Angeles, California. His ship took a Nazi torpedo in the Atlantic but remained afloat long enough for another to come alongside and take off the wounded like Halle. A carrier in the same convoy was sunk. Now he is recovering from his wounds at the Navy Hospital at St. Albans, L. I. Like most service men he is buying War Bonds.

Your BABY

By Lillian B. Storms

Not so very many years ago, there used to be a quite common ailment, called Spring Fever. Grandmother had a remedy, usually sulfur and molasses, which contained some of the food values which had been lacking in the family diet during the long winter.

The fruits and vegetables available to our grandparents were much more limited than ours and often did not last throughout the winter. They could not find a wide variety of vegetables on a grocer's shelves as we can, almost regardless of the season. We may not use our advantages as we should, at least for most of the family. But there is one member of the family we realize should have the "right food in the right amount at the right time," and that person is the baby. The ingenuity of some young parents has brought to your baby a wide variety of strained foods, of high quality. No longer does a busy young mother need to go to the grocery store every day to find what vegetable is available, and then take whatever she can find. This problem has been solved for her and daily saves her valuable time.

Your baby has a choice of evaporated milk, sealed in sterile cans, or pasteurized milk; either one of them are much safer than the milk our grandmothers could buy. There are special baby cereals, thoroughly cooked, flaked and dried, ready to serve simply by adding milk or formula. No more long cooking in the home and then straining to render the cereal or the vegetables suitable for a young baby. The little cans of baby's vegetables and fruits bring a variety for your baby, all year around, which grandmother didn't have.

ANNUAL FALL COLOR SHOW IS UNDER WAY

The fall color show has started and will continue thru late October with the first evidences of the autumnal shades found in sumac, dogwood, black gum and sassafras trees.

The first three weeks of the fall coloring are the most beautiful, for the shades of red and yellow are more varied as the green background gradually changes into a solid mass of brilliant colors.

It is expected that many people will arrange car pools to make alternate visits to the more spectacular wooded areas of southern Indiana, especially the state parks and forests during the next four weeks.

The brilliant fall colorings of red and purple will appear in the dogwood, the red sugar and black maples and especially on the glossy-leafed pin oaks, and on sumac, sweet gum, black haw and white ash. Yellow coloring will be found on tulip poplars, ash, beech, sugar and black maples and spice bushes. The orange colors are found on maples, sassafras and ironwood.

For the best coloring to appear certain weather conditions must predominate. If the days are bright and sunny followed by cool nights of forty-five degrees and lower a brilliant autumn is assured. The warm days allow the leaves to make sugar while the cool nights prevent it returning to the stems. The sugar then aids in making the bright red, yellow and orange colors that are characteristic of the fall season.

CASUALTIES INCREASE WITH INCREASE GASOLINE

Increased vehicular gasoline consumption may be associated with proportionate increases in highway deaths, according to Don F. Stiver, director of the state department of public safety, who has revealed that traffic fatalities had soared more than 18 per cent in the first eight months of the year.

He called on Hoosier motorists to "stop heedless deaths on the home front" by driving carefully and only when necessary. Killing and injuring vital war workers in automobile collisions will prolong the war, he asserted.

A slump of 29 per cent in July gasoline consumption under June was accompanied by a decrease of nearly 38 per ent in traffic deaths, Mr. Stiver pointed out.

Statistics show that 72 persons were killed in motoring tragedies in June, when 47,555,543 gallons were burned by Indiana car operators. In July, however, only 45 traffic accident victims were recorded as gasoline consumption dropped to 33,539,655 gallons. Sixty persons died in automobile crashes in August, but the amount of gasoline consumed was not available.

Mr. Stiver termed the record "an argument in favor of driving carefully and less frequently at a time when we at home must help strive for an early decision against the enemy."

He warned that an increase of 77 highway fatalities in the first eight months of the year probably will cause Indiana to exceed last year's all-time low of 717. State police records show that 493 deaths were recorded at the end of August, as compard with 416 for the same period in 1943.

An accident type breakdown for August disclosed 19 deaths occurred in accidents in which two or more vehicles figured, while 16 pedestrian deaths ran a close second. Ten persons were killed when automobiles careened from the road. Other fatality causes were: auto-train, 5; overturned in roadway, 3; other non-collision, 3; bicycle, 2, and fixed object, 2.

Planless Planners

"YES, WE HAVE NO BANANAS"

Before the fourth term campaign, cheese and meats were in scant supply on the American table. War Food Administration now announces half a million pounds of cheddar cheese must be sold to avoid deterioration.

WFA's controls and spoilage records are a trial to faith.

MEAT LOSS

Out of Philadelphia comes the report that 1,000,000 pounds of meat products have been tossed into fertilizer vats.

The excuse offered by the War Food Administration regional supervisor is that the storage space was needed for highly perishable meats ordered out of cold storage.

NEW HATS

If Lend-Lease were to be continued under New Deal Administration, wouldn't it be a good idea to call in the stork in an advisory capacity? Perhaps he could be talked into doing something to cut down the necessity for diapers both here and abroad. They are plenty scarce.

Official Photo of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey

One Senator was stunned to learn from the Lend-Lease Administration that material for 600,000 diapers had been shipped to North Africa, particularly when he discovered that the Arabs were wearing them as turbans.

SCENE: First floor of the Hastings home
TIME: The evening of August 1, 1944

1. The desk at which Mr. Hastings opened his monthly bills and wrote an indignant letter to the electric company, protesting against their advertising that the average family gets twice as much electricity for its money as it did fifteen years ago.
2. The electric clock at which Mr. Hastings looked to see if he had time to mail his letter before dinner.
3. The family radio, with Junior parked close beside it, listening to "Jerry and the Jeeps."
4. The porch light which Mr. H. switched on to guide the dinner guests.
5. The percolator, ready and waiting to do dinner duty.
6. The electric range, filling the kitchen with appetizing odors.
7. The refrigerator, from which Mrs. H. was taking trays of tinkling ice cubes.
8. The iron, with which Nancy was pressing a dress for her date.
9. The back porch, on which Mr. H. paused to think things over — realizing that his family did use a lot more electricity nowadays, and maybe the company was right after all!
10. The trash can into which he tossed his crumpled letter.

NEGRO BOY WAS HUNTINGTON SUSPECT

Monday eveninng, word was broadcast that a Negro had broken jail at Huntington during the day, and that he was headed in the direction of St. Joe. Mrs. L. A. Schendel picked this warning message out of the air and she told her neighbor, Reign Schondelmayer, what she had heard. In a few minutes he contacted Willard Hurni and talked the matter over, and when they looked down street, here came Mr. Schendel and a Negro. The boys made contact and began asking questions of his whereabouts during the day.

The Negro said he had been working at the Walter orchard and was leaving. The boys asked him to enter their car and they drove to Spencerville to talk to Mr. Walter, and everything he said was as the Negro had told them. Both the Negro and Mr. Walter were at a loss to know why they were being questioned, finally they decided to turn the boy loose. Upon returning to St. Joe they learned from the Sheriff that the fugitive had been caught in the afternoon. The Sheriff was in St. Joe during the late afternoon searching for the escaped Negro.

MORTUARY

SHILLING

Alice Josephine Shilling was born August, 9, 1859, in Concord Township, DeKalb County, Indiana, and departed this life September 26, 1944, at her home in Saint Joe, Indiana, at the age of 85 years, 1 month and 17 days. She is the last of a family of six children born to John and Sarah Gill pioneer settlers of DeKalb County.

On March 4, 1879 she was united in marriage to Josephus R. Shilling, who preceded her in death in April, 1941.

On May 29, 1881, "Josie" as Mrs. Shilling was known throughout the community, united with the local Lutheran Church, by adult baptism, being a member for sixty-three years, during which time she was noted for her regular attendance at the services of the church.

She leaves to mourn their loss, one son, Cecil, and one daughter, Lela Northrup, both of St. Joe, also five grandchildren, six great grandchildren, twelve nieces and four nephews, besides an untold number of friends.

The funeral was held from the Lutheran Church, Friday afternoon, conducted by her pastor, Rev. Frank Stevenson. Burial was postponed until Saturday afternoon, the family having received word that a grandson, Lynn Shilling, who is in the service was on his way home, arriving at 5 o'clock on Saturday morning. Richard Rupp had charge of the burial, which was made on the family lot in Riverside Cemetery, St. Joe.

Card of Thanks

The family expresses their appreciation of the many offerings of flowers and kind words of sympathy extended them at this time.

OPEN SEASON ON PHEASANT TO BE NOV. 10 TO 18

The open season on pheasants this year will be from Nov. 10 to 18 inclusive, Hugh H. Barnhart, director of the Indiana Department of Conservation has announced. The dates were recommended by the Indiana Conservation Advisory Committeee and approved by the Conservation Commission.

The bag limit will be two cock pheasants a day, and hunters will be permitted to have four cock pheasants in their possession.

The regulations this year are the same as those in 1943, and in its recommendation the advisory committee reflected the sentiment of members of conservation organizations throughout the state that there should be no change from last year.

Pheasant propagation on the state game farms was materially increased this year to offset a decrease in brooder operations of the conservation organizations throughout the state. The organizations were forced to curtail their brooder program because of the manpower shortage. Approximately 75,000 pheasants have been released by the conservation organizations and the game farms.

The pheasant survey taken by the research division indicates extensive variations in the bird population in many counties, according to Harrell F. Mosbaugh, director of the Division of Fish and Game. He pointed out that the native population, or those in the wild, is equal to 1943. Mr. Mosbaugh said it is apparent that hunters will be able to flush a larger percentage, considering the total population, than last year. It appears, he said, that the potential kill this season, will exceed that of last year.

Joe Folz thinks that maybe one way to stop wars would be to make countries pay for them as they go.

Few of us worry over how much money we make, but all of us worry over how much we get.

"The American farmer is the greatest living example of 'rugged individualism' that can be found any place throughout the earth. He stands alone. In many of the problems and mysteries of life he is law unto himself. He gives no orders to the outside world, neither does he expect to take orders from others. He tends strictly to his own empire within the line fence that forms the border of his little kingdom. In short, the American farmer is a 'feudal lord' ruling his acres with what might be termed 'The Divine Right of Individualism.' Do not try to drive the American farmer in an unAmerican way. This has never been done successfully."—From an article by Samuel Harden Stille in the National Republic.

What Are We Fighting For?

Some labor representatives claim that a majority of the armed forces are union members, so the question of whether returning service men will be forced to join unions or go without jobs is irrelevant. Assuming that a majority of service men do support unions whole-heartedly, does the United States, whose young men are now dying in battle all over the world to protect the rights of minorities in foreign lands, propose to disregard the rights of minorities within its own borders after the war?

Anyone should be free to join or not join a union, whether or not a majority of workers favor it. Unless freedom of choice is preserved for minorities, we have neither liberty nor constitutional government in the United States.

SO IT GOES

Polish patriots fighting in Warsaw for liberation from Germany, and the Polish Government in London, are not in accord. The Moscow Polish Committee accuses the Polish Home Army of assassinations and preparations for civil war. Italy is reported in a furore because of an alleged broadcast by Marshall Tito, who is supposed to have stated that Yugo-Slavia will demand Trieste, as one of the spoils. India's Moslems and Hindus must come to some sort of agreement before Britain will listen to sounds of Indian independence, it is written. An announcement that Churchill has suggested the United States expects to demand too widely in the settlement in the South Pacific, with current fears in many sections that Russia is reaching out too far for territory, makes The News reader wonder if revolt isn't likely before the peace signatures dry. This mentions but a few of the charges and counter-charges. Some of it is called propaganda, some of it demands conjecture. But it goes to show that while we try to bring an end to war, in the Allied camp all is not serene. What fools we are who sigh, then slay, sign and rest to sing, considering the gestures a historical matter-of-course, to start in again when the international songs turn to sighs. Slaying follows as sure as greed is linked to lust. Is there no meeting place, we ask?

THIS IS NOT AMERICA

Because a national election is soon to be held while the country is engaged in a war, a lot of people assume that that event in itself proves that American freedom is secure. Such an idea is not air, pure and simple. American political liberty is based upon economic liberty—the right of a man to create and run a business or hold a job unhindered by coercion or dictation from any source, in a free competitive market. The exigencies of war have banned the free market. Unless it is restored, our economic liberty and our political liberty are in deadly danger of destruction.

The completeness of the extinction of the free market is eloquently emphasized in the current bulletin of the National Association of Food Chains. Practically the entire contents under fifty or sixty headings is devoted to informing food retailers on the latest government decrees affecting the bread and butter existence of the American people. A few of them read as follows: New Point Value Charts, Rubber Ordered Eased, Used Commercial Vehicle Prices, Stapler Control Revoked, Ration Bank Deposits, New Trade Point Values, Agricultural Container Prices, Snap Bean and Cucumber Prices, Storage Restrictions Tightened, OPA Boards of Review, OPA Procedure Regulations, Fresh Vegetable Pricing, Potato Prices Raised, New Red Stamps Valid. And so on, ad infinitum.

This is not the American way of doing business. It is not a free market. If continued indefinitely into the peace, it will result in the destruction of freedom. As the magazine Life points out in discussing the problem of reconversion: "The only proper objective of government economic policy is to strengthen the free market. For the free market is the only economic system on which Americans can safely count to increase their standard of living, release their own creative energy, use their resources efficiently, govern the infinitely complex jungle of their daily trading and protect their political democracy, all at the same time."

AMERICA, NUMBER ONE EXPORTER

Many people speak of foreign trade in relation to this country as if it were an academic question. Usually it is spoken of in the future tense, with the implication that heretofore the United States has had but minor interest in world markets. Also, cheap foreign labor is usually thot of as a competitive impossibility, to be avoided at all costs. How abysmally uninformed many of us are on the facts of our own national existence!

The United States, before the war, was the foremost exporting nation of the world. We could not live alone without benefit of foreign trade and maintain our standard of living, even if we wanted to. The products of our factories and farms go to every corner of the globe. In 1938, our twenty best markets abroad for finished manufactures included Great Britain, Argentina, Philippines, Japan, South Africa, Russia, Brazil, Australia, France, Venezuela, Cuba, Mexico, Sweden, Colombia, Belgium, Netherlands West Indies, Germany, British India, and the Netherlands Indies. Who says we are provincial?

Moreover, our exports were of an almost limitless variety, ranging from toys to tractors and food. Cheap foreign labor hindered us little. For example, we out-traded Japan in Latin America by thirteen to one. For every dollar of goods Japan sold, we exported thirteen dollars worth to our southern neighbors. In other words, our share of total imports into Latin America before the war was 30.1%, while Japan's share was 2.6%.

The question of whether we will trade with the world is little short of silly, just as the question of whether our mass production and the efficiency of our workers can meet the competition of underpaid producers across the seas. We have done both. Trade barriers at home or abroad will hurt us more than they hurt the other fellow.

Mrs. Margaret Wisler and children returned home Saturday from West Virginia, where she spent the summer with her husband.

Horse Feathers—

At French Lick, September 15th Candidate Schricker, referring to Governor Thomas E. Dewey, said this:

"They (the voters) are not going to swap 'a horse for a pony' in the middle of the stream."

The next day the Indianapolis Times, never editorially unfriendly to Candidate Schricker, said this:

"The people are not going to swap a horse for a pony in the middle of the stream" . . . Governor Henry F. Schricker, referring to the presidential election chances of Governor Thomas E. Dewey, in a speech at French Lick.

"Governor Dewey's height: Slightly more than 5 feet, 8 inches; weight 157 pounds.

"Current Events of the Sophomore Class"

I was asked to write the events of the Sophomore class by the English teacher, Mrs. Buckner. I decided the best way would be to touch each subject briefly.

The first period of the day we all have history, taught by Mr. Calloway. We are now studying the ancient history of around 500 B. C. This is about the time the Greeks and Persians had their great war.

The second period the most of the class has General Business, with Mr. Duker as the teacher. General Business is the handling of money and a lower form of bookkeeping.

The third period some of the girls have Home Economics, under Mrs. Butler.

The fourth period on Mondays and Thursdays, the boys have Physical Education. Mr. Calloway teaches this. This summer we played softball and this winter we probably will play games inside.

The fifth and sixth periods we all have study hall, except the boys who take Agriculture. Mr. Maxwell has the fifth period study hall and Mrs. Buckner has it the sixth period. The Agriculture is taught by Mr. Wicoff.

The seventh period we all have English taught by Mrs. Buckner. We are using a hand book, "Essentials of English" which includes only the most important facts of English.

The eighth period we all have Algebra which is taught by Mrs. Wicoff. We are now studying the combinations of positive and negative forms.

About the middle of September our class of twenty-one members, elected officers and a sponsor. Our sponsor is to be Mr. Calloway. The officers are: President, Wayne Hook; vice president, Richard Goings; secretary and treasurer, Margaret Bartels.

These are the main class events so far this year.

FARMERS are Fighting Men, too. They always have been. It's nothing new to a farmer to fight against every conceivable kind of heart-breaking disaster—storms and droughts that set back whole seasons, that upset months of faithful drudgery.

Fortunately, the modern farmer has electricity as a helper in countless ways—lights that permit rapid completion of chores before daybreak and after sundown, that cause hens to lay more—motors big and little to pump water, grind feed and operate other labor saving machines.

War has produced a greater realization of the benefits of electricity on the farm. In peace as in war, we have the facilities and the skills necessary to supply these benefits.

A FREE PRESS

October brings its anniversary of National Newspaper Week, when we speak gratefully for a press that belongs to the American people, and not tyrannized by government-controlled propaganda, advertiser's whims and corrupted politics. Publishers, writers and readers still operate freely in this news line. However, we are abiding by orders not to print for public consumption certain news facts that would aid the enemy, in time of war. This is desired by all conscientious people, of course. Freedom of the press is one of our stands in fighting against tyranny. To give the reader as truthful a picture as possible, of domestic and foreign affairs, of keeping them reliably informed and with a faithful representation of all news, is the paper's responsibility. Newspapers, the public's servant, realize their duty to the fullest.

"MON AMI" — A Frenchwoman holds up her baby to clasp the hand of an Allied soldier. The youngster says "My Friend."

TIN FISH—A Mark 15 torpedo off the assembly line at Amertorp, the American Can Company plant at Forest Park, Illinois. This Amertorp plant and one at St. Louis are said to be the country's largest industrial producers of torpedoes.

The LIONS CLUB

Instead of a Lion's roar it was a Lion's groan, when they finished their pot luck supper, Monday evening at Spencerville Gym, and the twenty-five men sure did justice to the big spread.

The programs for November will be in charge of Lion Ralph Sechler and Lion William Staman.

Safety Chairman, Lion Stemen reported that the first eight months of 1944, there were 14,500 traffic fatalities.

Lion Wicoff read a letter on redistricting of Indiana which would place local club in 25 B with a membership of 1566, and thirty-nine clubs. The object is to revamp the districts so that their governors can make better contacts, and it is thought the local clubs will endorse the plan.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Richard Key, of Wood River, Illinois, and a former St. Joe pastor, who is visiting in the community. He said he wished to add the fifth freedom, which is the most important of all that has been advanced, and that is freedom from sin. This has been given as the cure-all for the world's difficulties. The acceptance of Jesus Christ in the lives of all our people, will in turn make a free people, a free nation, and a free world.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Chas. O. Krise. The meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Allen Haller. The Collect, America, and the pledge to the flag were given by the members.

Mrs. Ralph Keeler had the lesson for the evening. She used the articles entitled, "Look at This Autumn Blessed Land;" "My Talk with Joseph Stalin;" and "The New Communist Conspiracy," followed by a discussion by the group. She concluded her lesson with the article "Report on Paradise."

Mrs. Inez Hadsell had the special work, a song and several contests. Mrs. Fred Leighty gave the critic's report. Sixteen members answered to roll call. After a short business session, the meeting adjourned to meet in two weeks, October 18, with Mrs. Stanley Means.

The hostess served a delicious lunch consisting of potato salad, soda crackers, cup cakes and tea or coffee.

KELLER—WHITE

The single ring ceremony was used Sunday, October 8th, when Miss Ruth Eileen Keller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Keller, of near Butler, former residents of St. Joe community, and Dewey Ervin White, of west of St. Joe, were united in marriage.

Celebrate Golden Wedding, Sunday, Oct. 8th., at Beautiful Country Home

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence C. Woodcox

The C. C. Woodcox home was the scene of a gala occasion over the week end, it being the fiftieth, thirty-ninth, and thirty-fifth wedding anniversaries of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wodcox, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Woodcox and Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Burley.

The festivities began with a six o'clock dinner on Saturday evening when twenty-seven members of the three families sat down to a bountiful feast prepared by the three hostesses.

The celebration continued on Sunday afternoon when open house was observed by Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Woodcox, to which over one hundred guests registered, besides many congratulatory messages were received by mail and telephone.

Mr. and Mrs. Woodcox were married in St. Joe in 1894 and are the parents of four children and ten grandchildren, three of whom are in their country's service.

They were the recipients of many gifts which were very much appreciated.

Both are enjoying good health and are able to take part in many public activities.

Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick sang a song, "When She Wore Something Old, Something New," accompanied by Mrs. Lena Meek at the piano, during the afternoon visitation of friends.

APPLES HARVESTED BY GERMAN PRISONERS

The first of German war prisoners to be in this community, are ten men between thirty and forty years of age, who are employed as apple pickers at the Widney Orchards. They come from a camp at Defiance and are in charge of one guard.

The men are good workers and seem to be enjoying their work here. They speak only German language and even the guard does not know what they are talking about. They do not show any sign of resentment, and possibly think themselves lucky to be picking apples, rather than picking bullets out of the air.

Mr. Stone makes the trip to Defiance each day for the laborers. They are trusted at their work, and because of not being able to speak our language would make them more cautious and obedient.

Their clothing is all marked PW, which means prisoner of war, and escape would be out of the question for long, should they entertain any such ideas. Anyway the shortage of local labor is being met by those who are held as prisoners of war.

FORT WAYNE WOMAN ILL ON TRAIN IN KENTUCKY

Corbin, Ky., Oct. 9.—Mrs. Ray Herrick, of Fort Wayne, Indiana, was taken from a train here Friday night suffering from ptomaine poisoning. She was reported in good condition at a hospital.

Mrs. Ray Herrick, who resides on the Winchester Road, was on her way home from Columbus, Georgia, where she was visiting her son, who is stationed in a military camp there.

After receiving word of her illness, her husband and son, Russell Herrick, 1235 Packard Ave., went to Corbin, Ky., Saturday morning. A telegram received here later in the morning said her condition was fair. —Monday evening's News-Sentinel.

SMITH—SHULL

Sunday, October eighth the Waterloo Methodist Church was the scene of the simple but impressive marriage ceremony of Miss Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin J. Smith, of Waterloo, and Pfc. Frank H. Shull, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. K. Shull, of St. Joe, Indiana. The vows were spoken before an altar lighted by the Cross and Candelabras and decorated with garden flowers. The double ring ceremony was read by Rev. Guy Jeffers after a thirty minute musical presented by Mrs. Ned McIntosh and Mrs. Guy Jeffers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a teal blue wool gaberdine tailored suit with brown accessories and a corsage of white gardenias.

Miss Joan Smith, sister of the bride, who attended her as bridesmaid, chose a gray suit with gold accessories and a corsage of yellow baby chrysanthemums. Allen Haller Jr., nehew of the groom, served as best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception for fifty guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. A three-tiered wedding cake, topped by a miniature bride and groom in military attire, centered the table, from which Mrs. Hilda Troyer, Mrs. Marcile Viers, Miss Wilma Hanes and Mrs. Beryl Shaw served.

Following a two weeks wedding trip the birde will return to her duties as teacher of physical education and social studies in the Angola Schools.

The groom, having served as an engineer in the air force for three and one-half years, two years of which were over seas, will return to Geiger Field, Washington State.

MORTUARY

PATEE

Cancer of the stomach proved fatal to Bert L. Patee, age 72, a retired farmer, at the Dr. J. A. Sanders Hospital in Auburn at 5:15 Monday afternoon. Mr. Patee lived alone on a farm near Newville and was the father of Mearl Patee, of Lakeshore Drive, Auburn; Earl Patee, of Auburn Junction and Ora Patee, of Butler.

Mr. Patee had been a patient at the hospital in Auburn since August 1. He had been in poor health for the past year. He was born in Steuben County on September 28, 1872, and had resided for the past forty years in DeKalb County. He was employed for a number of years at Butler as a section hand. In 1907 he started farming near Newville and owned a farm one mile northeast of Newville. His wife died about two years ago and he had lived alone since that time. He retired from farming a little over a year ago.

The body was taken to the Johnson funeral home at Butler and will remain there until funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock this Thursday afternoon at the Newville Church of Christ. He was baptized in this faith several weeks ago. Burial will be made in the Butler Cemetery.

Milton Fronsoe, former pastor of the Newville Church, will officiate. He is now located at Collier, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Coburn are home from Jackson for the week due to the illness of Clay. They expect to return the last of this week. LeRoy was home over Sunday.

To The Women of Indiana!

YOU WILL BE the last to let our fighting men down. Then read carefully. The one thing our boys want above all else is to come home to the kind of America they know and love! An America where there's prosperity and jobs for all! It's been said that the Government may simply pay them to stay in the Army — and provide work for them in this way! Well, you know that's NOT WHAT OUR BOYS WANT. They want to come home to the girl that's waiting — a normal life that affords the comforts and happiness they have fought to save. Those things that mean America. A new refrigerator. Picnics in the country. Church on Sunday.

And it's up to US HERE AT HOME to see that our boys DO come back to those things. That's why you are urged to consider this carefully — and vote against a FOURTH TERM and those in Indiana who are for a fourth term. Four more years of getting farther and farther away from the freedoms we're fighting for. Four years of Browder, Hillman and Communism.

So don't let the boys down. Back them up by casting your vote for THOMAS E. DEWEY. In this way you'll guarantee prosperity and jobs for all, with the kind of America the boys know and love, waiting when they return.

To assure this, vote for THOMAS E. DEWEY and the straight Republican ticket.

The Covered Bridge

Gone are most of the covered bridges of yesteryear, made of wood they spanned many an inland waterway. Concrete and steel has taken their place and proven more serviceable, but not as colorful. We might remember having stood in one and called with childish voices just to hear the funny muted tones that sounded so differently from over the water. Some believed the covered bridge was built to get horses and cattle across the water without stampeding since they wouldn't fright with the sides enclosed. More practical ones say the bridges had covers to protect the wooden trusses and arches that served as supports. But disappearing they are, only to appear as a photograph now and then and appeal to the memory of many an oldster.

CUTTING WOOD

Who live in towns too far from wooded lots to hear the sound of a crosscut saw, miss something musical in the fall air. A musical saw, played upon with hammers on some vaudeville stage with a beat that brings acclaim from the crowd, is no sweeter tone than comes with the trusty crosscut and a couple of right arms swinging together in unison. It pleases the sense of fitness of things. To a St. Joe man who has helped to pile up cords of firewood, it isn't a simple task, like every sort of labor, takes cooperation and timing, timing that keeps the saw from biting and snagging, coordination by flexing the right muscles that press down at the proper time, relaxing at the right moment. The smell of the fresh sawdust vies with that of burning leaves in a fall bonfire. If you have known the feel of a crosscut, the sliding through the wood, the backstroke that is an art in manipulation, then you know what we mean by the fitness of certain things.

Your BABY

By Lillian B. Storms

How much should your baby weigh?

A newborn baby may weigh anywhere from 5½ to 11 pounds and still be a normal, healthy baby. For the first few weeks it will be important to know whether or not he is gaining every week. After the first ten days he should gain at least four ounces a week, perhaps as much as eight ounces. The important thing is for him to make regular gains, rather than that he should weigh any given number of pounds and ounces.

Usually a baby doubles his weight by five months of age, but some babies achieve that gain at four months. The modern well-fed and well-cared-for baby triples his birth weight before one year. Babies vary considerably in their rate of growth. A small baby may gain more rapidly than a baby above average weight at birth.

Do not be concerned about what some other baby of the same age may weigh. Your baby is normal if he gains regularly, about 4 to 6 or even 8 ounces a week for the first six months, and from 3 to 6 ounces a week after six months.

Sometime in the second or third year, he may slow down the growing process and not gain weight as rapidly. The amount of food he eats will vary with his rate of growth and bodily needs.

Modern babies are given foods other than milk much earlier than were their mothers. Orange juice, or other source of vitamin C, and cod liver oil, or another form of vitamin D, are both added to baby's menu in the first two weeks.

Cereals are usually started sometime between three and four months. There are special baby cereals, thoroughly cooked and strained and dried, so that when milk is added, they have a fine creamy consistency suitable for the sensitive digestive tract of a young baby. The baby cereals are made of wheat or oats and are fortified with vitamins and minerals for extra values.

Dry Cleaning headquarters, at St. Joe is News Office. Bring in by Thursday morning, it's returned to St. Joe Saturday.

A letter from Frank Smith of Garrett, an old reader of The News, states that he is improved some in health after about nine weeks in the hospital. Mrs. Smith also spent six weeks in the hospital due to being struck by an automobile in Garrett. Mr. Smith is suffering from a skin trouble which has bothered him for thirty years.

Muddy weather and dry cleaning service a minus score so take care. Allow mud on a garment to dry well, then often it can be removed with a thorough brushing. When mud contains oil or grease the stain can be loosened as by applying lard to any greasy spot. Sponge next with a cleaning fluid. Mud can damage leather for if dried on there, it might leave a permanent stain. Never wear leather shoes or gloves until they are dry.

Mrs. Claude Laub very pleasantly entertained the Rural Housewives Club last Tuesday. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Minnie Gee by singing "Happy Birthday" to Mrs. Edna Jenkins and Mrs. Winifred Hart. Mrs. Leona Mason gave the opening number by reading complications and two kinds of people. Roll call was responded to by giving our favorite verse rhyme. Mrs. Hazel Washler gave the special number. Mrs. Lillian Scholes an associate member, and Mrs. Cora Maxwell were present. The hostess served a two course luncheon, including the birthday cake which was cut by the honored guests. The next meeting will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Minnie Gee.

This Is What War Bonds Do

They tell our boys in France and Italy, in Asia and the Pacific what these boys most want to hear : : : that we're behind them!

They make our country strong, not only for the purchase of weapons today but also to maintain and increase the productivity of our farms tomorrow.

Each Bond you buy forms a financial reserve which is indispensable to the efficient and profitable operation of your farm. Make it a rule to put into War Bonds a good percentage of every dollar you take in.

When those Bonds mature, they will be worth many times the effort it took to buy them. For they will mean new and more efficient equipment, the ability to buy advantageously, the means of financing crops, assured education for the children : : : and a means of retirement when you turn that farm over to the boys!

So, Buy Bonds : : : with every dollar you can muster! Uncle Sam needs the money now : : : you'll need it later!

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED . . . NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy . . . from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

For America's Future, for your Future, for your children's Future

* * Keep Backing 'em Up—WITH WAR BONDS! * *

Women's Activity a "Must"

"I prize American liberty" is a basic reason why one American woman, Mrs. Grace B. Reynolds of Cambridge City, and Indiana's former state treasurer, advocates political activity as a 1944 "must" for American women.

In this, Mrs. Reynolds herself gives more than passing "lip service." She gives daily evidence of her strong beliefs in active political service, as a campaign assistant to Miss Marion E. Martin, in charge of women's activities for the Republican presidential campaign.

"I believe the Republican candidates, Governors Dewey and Bricker, offer us the true leadership of liberty we must have to help this nation go forward," Mrs. Reynolds says. "That is why I am doing all I can to bestir American women in their political thinking, and to direct some straight-thinking on the 1944 issues."

At the New York campaign headquarters, Mrs. Reynolds is applying her knowledge of practical politics. She learned "the hard way," first as a precinct worker back in 1920, then through county and state work, and finally on the Republican National committee, of which she is a former vice-chairman.

As Indiana's state treasurer for five years, she had the distinction of being the first woman elected to a major state office.

No Two Pants Suits

With 1,900,000,000 pounds of surplus wool piled up in this country, 800,000,000 pounds of it imported from Australia, it remains utterly impossible for thrifty Americans to follow the economical policy of buying two pairs of trousers with a suit of clothes.

In Idaho, Governor Thomas E. Dewey, after conferences with leading sheepmen of the western area, found that this uneconomic condition is bound to react to the damage if not the utter ruin of American sheepraisers who have been urged by the New Deal administration to increase their flocks.

War Production Board Allows the Production Of Two Million Irons

Washington—The War Production Board announced today the assignment of the last of its production quotas for manufacture of electric irons, thus bringing the production program to 2,937,000 irons.

LADY YOU MAY SOON GET YOUR WISH . . . . .

IN A RECENT National Survey designed to discover what electric appliances were most urgently needed by American homemakers, electric irons were among the top items. The W.P.B. authorization for the manufacture of over two million irons will not supply the need but it will reduce the scarcity.

If you really need an electric iron, it will be wise to place your order now looking to the day when your dealer can fill it . . . and if you are one of the fortunates who possess an extra electric iron, do your part by arranging for someone else to have it now.

Other electric appliances may be coming along from time to time. Consider your actual requirements and then let your dealer help you get them when manufactured and released. Share what you have—plan for what you need.

Home from War

Who can say at war's end
"We are lucky living men?"
After so much of us has died,
How can we be satisfied
That we, the so-called living men
Will find a way to live again?
For when a man has daily faced
The brute within him, low, debased,
Can he look forward to the light;
Wipe out the mem'ries of the fight;
Forget the strange, erotic bliss
That comes with some cheap, purchased kiss?
Ah, no, and it will be his fateful lot
To live on, and find that he lives not;
Though like the living we'll behave,
We'll be dead without a grave.

JENNERS SPEAKS AT AUBURN SATURDAY NIGHT

Captain William E. Jenner, Republican nominee for United States Senator from Indiana for the short term, who will address a Republican Rally at Auburn on October 21st, is regarded as one of the outstanding younger Republican speakers of Indiana. Captain Jenner has just been retired from active duty with the United States Army Air Forces because of an eye impairment.

Captain Jenner was elected to the Indiana State Senate in 1934, representing Orange, Martin and Lawrence counties. He was re-elected in 1938 and served as President Pro Tem in the 1939 and 1941 regular sessions. An attorney, he was one of the youngest men to sit in the State Senate.

Captain Jenner enlisted in the U. S. Army Air Forces on June 25, 1942. An eye infection necessitated his return to this country from overseas duty in May, 1944. An army medical examining board at the Mayo General Hospital, Galesburg, Illinois, recommended his retirement from active duty as of October 7th, 1944.

Captain Jenner was born in Marengo, Crawford County, July 21, 1907 and was educated in the grade and high schools there, completing his education at Central Normal College at Danville and Indiana University where he received his A. B. degree in 1930 and L. L. B. degree in 1932. He began the practice of law at Paoli, later moving to Shoals where he took over the practice of the Hon. Frank E. Gilkison, when the latter became Judge of the Daviess-Martin Circuit Court. He is recognized as one of the leading younger orators of Indiana and has a broad understanding of government affairs.

He is a member of Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, Delta Tau Detla, and of the Masonic and Elks Lodges and Modern Woodmen, and the Methodist Church.

Captain Jenner is married and has one child, William Edward, three years old. Captain and Mrs. Jenner live at Bedford.

Congressman George W. Gillie will be present and has been chosen by County Chairman Ensley, to introduce the speaker.

After the speech at the court house, all those who will visit Republican headquarters will be served doughnuts and coffee, and here all the candidates will assemble to meet the public.

PERSONAL HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Hensley are now residents of St Joe, having moved Monday, into the home purchased of Charles Bassett and wife.

Jay Bleeks, who has been unable to work for the past year on account of poor health, will have a public sale on Friday, October 27, at which time he will dispose of his live stock and machinery, and then move to Newville, where he has purchased the Lewis Price property, just north of Smith's store. Bills will be printed this week.

The former Sol Shank farm of 60 acres, owned by Roy Cutshall, and located four miles north of St. Joe, was sold last week to Pepe Bros., near LaOtto, and they expect to raise potatoes and onions. Dale Walter and family will move as soon as the farm home is vacated, having hired out to the new owners. Mr. Cutshall is looking for a new location.

Walter Keesler has resigned as manager of the Holman Feed Service, taking effect on October 30. He will go to Nappanee, where he will take charge of the retail store for the Nappanee Milling Co. Walter has had charge here for three years and Mr. Holman enjoys an excellent feed and grinding business. Just who will succeed Walter is not known. His family will remain in St. Joe for the winter at least, and if things shape up nicely will probably move in the spring.

STRONG—BROWN

Miss June Rose Strong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Strong, of Saint Joe, Indiana, and Arvill B. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Brown, of Napa, California were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents at eight o'clock Friday evening, October 13, 1944.

Miss Coral Strong sang "I Love You Truly" accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Homer Casebere. The song was immediately followed by the soft, sweet strains of "Love's Old Sweet Song," during which the bridal company entered the room and took their places beneath an archway of ferns and snapdragons.

The bride wore a white floor length gown fashioned with a silk jersey fitted bodice, with a sweetheart neck and a full skirt of silk cable-net over white satin. Her head was adorned with a halo of white roses and her throat was encircled with a gold chain on which hung a pearl and gold locket, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of white roses and white snapdragons.

Harry Strong served as best man.

Mr. William E. Best, minister of the Newville Church of Christ, read the double ring ceremony, after which the happy couple was tendered the best wishes of relatives and friends as Mrs. Casebere played Leiberstram.

A reception was served to twenty-one guests and the bride and groom cut the three-tiered wedding cake decorated with white roses. Two large candles lighted the table.

Mr. Brown, who has been attending the Tri-State College and would have received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Engineering in December, reported for duty in the armed forces of his country Oct. 17. Mrs. Brown will remain at home with her parents until his return. She is a senior in the Saint Joe High School.

WHAT MAKES A HOME?

What makes a home—
A davenport in just a certain spot,
A cozy chair or some what-not
On which the eye can fall;
A glowing fire as red as wine
A picture on the wall—
A garden with a clump of phlox—
Geraniums in a window-box,
A tree, a trailing vine
To which your eyes can roam?
Ah, wise men, sage, tell us just what
It takes to make a home.

What makes a home—
A little crib which holds a baby small—
A window in an ivyed wall—
A little smell of fresh-baked bread—
A shanty by the track—
A switch to turn to change the gloom
From gray to golden red.
A mansion grand with stately dome—
Ah, wise men, sage, tell us just what
It takes to make a home.

What makes a home—
Is it a place where loved ones wait—
An open door, a swinging gate
Through which to pass to hungry lips
To aching arms and hands that grips
And holds, and hearts that pray—
A place to which the thoughts must stray
From Army camps, fox-holes or prison cell—
Is it a refuge from the gates of hell?
You answer not for be you bard or sage
The answer you will never find on printed page
But in the hearts of men and voices from the grave,
"Home is the place we died to save
Home is the place we'll never see again,
Home is the heritage we leave to other men."

What makes a home—
Ten million voices give reply—

HAIL THE JEEP

What greater fame has war brought than to the little hit-the-high-spots Jeep, the car for performance on space the size of a dime with a speed that belies its jaloppy appearance? So practical has the Jeep proven itself in war that afterwards it will be found on neighboring farms, in factory yards, in local garages. Thousands of Americans today are eyeing the future for the ownership of a Jeep. These cars are to be manufactured for civilian use and since they are proving themselves capable of a remarkable performance on the road, they will be developed to suit civilian needs in many varied fields. The streets of every town will be seeing them. This is just one of the changes war will bring us. Who knows but that the airplane will be crowding the skyways overhead in the same manner. There is a possibility that we might get too much of a good thing.

COUNTRY LIVING

Altho we grant that one can reside in the country on less money than it takes in the city, there seems to be an idea afloat in cosmopolitan centers that living in the country is practically free. Ask any inhabitant and he will tell you that one can still live beyond an income in rural centers the same as in the metropolitan settlements. To maintain a farm there may be milk, butter and cream, eggs and chickens, pork tenderloin and beef steaks, but to get food you buy feed, and the price of feed is no small item. Surely vegetables from your own acerage is fine, but don't forget to add to it such incidentals as tools, fertilizer, seed for instance, and you have more than applesauce and canned tomatoes, bushels of potatoes and onions for winter's store. There seems to be a matter of taxes, insurance, maintenance and probably hired hands, to add up to making life in the country not accomplished on little or nothing.

HOLD THIS LINE

A war bond is to finance war, war is not over so the financial need is necessary. Reports point to an increase in the cashing in of war bonds. There are some cases where there is real need to do so, but these are rare. If we cash in our bonds, then more are going to be issued to take care of the shortage. And what would we do with the money? Right now, quality is poor, prices higher than most articles are worth and in saving our money until after the war, we will then find lower prices probably certainly more of a variety and surely a better grade of material. Even if war is soon over in Europe, it takes money to finance a Pacific battle. With war bonds as patriotic investments, and financial assets, let's keep them and keep buying them until it is ALL over, over there.

UP IN ARMS

Every four years in St. Joe we froth at the mouth with the pre-election activities, get worked into sometimes a "mad" over politics and campaign promises, steam into a voting booth on the day itself, celebrate or bewail the outcome and in a short while, go back to a somewhat complacent life with the country's political affairs fading simply into the background. Our administration fervor appears to spurt every four years. Why is it that at that time we more closely deliberate political situations, at that time radio and newspaper dwells more diligently on the manifestations of the shining lights and the representatives of the people at that time more ardently and considerately apply themselves to keeping the voter convinced that his is the right party, with the proper man to lead him? Every four years, fair or foul, we go thru the ritual and then generally return to a lackadaisical attitude after the storm. This is no only unAmerican, it is foolhardy. Today we are strongly urged by both candidates regardless of our party affiliations, to get ourselves into those voting booths on election day and execute our right, our obligation, to name a leader for we, the people. It is important that the administration of government should be decided by All of us fit to vote. But, even as important, is that we don't go into a political campaign with colors flying and afterwards remain in a dormant state while the winner pursues the course of political promises or broken commitments, of alliances and entanglements, without continuing our purposeful attempt to be interested and play a role in government.

ANOTHER APPEAL TO VOTERS TO CAST BALLOTS ON NOV. 7

Appealing to all citizens of DeKalb County to turn out to the polls on Tuesday, November 7, Albert Yoder, of Jackson Township, president of the DeKalb County Farm Bureau, has declared that the nation needs as never before the sound judgment of rural and small-town America in deciding who its leaders shall be in the years immediately ahead.

"The stability of America," he said, "has always been in the grass-roots in the people back on the farms and in the small towns. These are the people who own or plan to own their own homes, and their own land, the people who must pay taxes and who from long experience in running their own businesses are accustomed to making their own decisions. They should study the records of all the candidates and then make their wishes known at the polls."

The tremendous task that is ahead will call for the best leadership America can offer, he said, quoting this statement by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation:

"The coming years will be fraught with both opportunities and pitfalls. Adjustments will have to be made and they must be made in such a way that the American farmer does not get the short end of the stick. This means that rural America must look to the record, determine who its friends are and then support them at the polls."

Mr. Yoder quoted figures showing that only eight of the last 34 years have farm prices reached parity—and five of those years were in either World War I or World War II. He also said that weekly wages of factory workers as of the first of this year were four times as high as during the 1910-14 period, while prices received by farmers were less than double.

Pointing out that every American has an intangible as well as a tangible stake in America, Mr. Yoder referred to a recent statement by Hassil E. Schenck, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau, Inc., to the effect that today "the share of each man, woman, and child in America in the national debt is approxmately $2,000. This means that the average farm family of five has an intangible debt of $10,000 to carry, or considerably more than the value of the average American farm."

New Deal Has Destroyed Democratic Party, Gov. John Bricker Declares

Governor John W. Bricker, Republican vice-presidential nominee, delivered vigorous indictment of the New Deal Administration as he carried his speech-a-day campaign tour west of the Mississippi.

Speaking in St. Louis, on October 4th, over a nationwide network, Governor Bricker accused the New Deal of dividing the people of the nation in order to hold its power.

"It has set class against class," he said. "It has played minority groups for their political support. It has attacked not only the actions, but the motives of all who dared to oppose it. Never before have we had the bitterness, engendered by selfish political interests, that we have experienced in this administration."

Governor Bricker condemned the New Deal for "its vicious and persistent attacks upon business," and for using its extraordinary wartime power "to suppress the rights of the American People and to subordinate them to constant bureaucratic domination."

"I do not condemn the Administration for its legitimate efforts on behalf of the workers of this country," Governor Bricker continued. "But I do condemn the New Deal for its favoritism among labor groups, for playing one against another for political purposes, for bad administration of labor laws and for political adjudication of disputes between labor and management. Such tactics have resulted in strife and strikes, they have actually lessened war production."

Charging that the New Deal "is leading this nation away from American principles of government," Governor Bricker said that the Roosevelt Administration had destroyed the traditional Democratic party.

"Instead the reins of power have been turned over to such White House agents as Hopkins, Frankfurter, Rosenman, Pepper, Ickes, Kelly, Hague and the temporarily inactive Pendergast," he said. "They know little of the real life of America and they care less. They want power and jobs. Patronage is their meat and drink. Power is their passion. The American people are their victims.

"But there is now a more dangerous influence than these. As the New Deal took over the Democratic party—so now the Communists and the radicals have taken over the New Deal. The New Deal Convention in Chicago raised to the pedestal of power a man whose ideas of government are alien to the Constitution and free representative government. His name is Sidney Hillman.

"The millions of dollars collected by Hillman and his PAC, often from unwilling and intimidated hard working people of America, were too much for the New Deal leaders to pass by. They saw the opportunity to evade the Hatch Act—to defy the corrupt practices act—indeed to buy this election. A supine and political-minded attorney general helped pave the way by a purely political opinion."

Governor Bricker added that the Communists under Earl Browder had joined forces with Hillman in control of the New Deal Party.

"They are seeking to tie the noose of Communism not only around the New Deal but around the whole American people," he concluded.

Governor Bricker also scored the New Deal in speeches at Bowling Green, Kentucky; Nashville, Tenn.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Centralia, Ill.; Ottumwa, Iowa; a Tri-City Meeting (Rock Island, Ill. and Davenport, Iowa); and Milwaukee.

Be glad it didn't happen here!

BE GLAD no Gestapo agent burst open the door to your home, demanding your money, your clothing, your furniture—yes, even your children . . . to be sent into slavery for the Reich.

Be glad no Nazi Storm Trooper burned your crops to keep them out of the hands of his pursuers, killed your livestock to feed German war lords, burned down your home to show you his might.

It could have happened here, you know!

Why not put our thankfulness into concrete form? Why not buy the War Bonds we ought to be buying? We haven't bought enough, yet, you know . . . not nearly enough. And there are men across the sea fighting our fight who are asking what we are doing at home. Have we an answer for them?

You will need your War Bonds as urgently after the war as Uncle Sam needs your money today. You will need new machinery and equipment, new fences, new buildings. So BUY NOW! Don't spend a dollar unless you first ask yourself: "Does my country need it more?"

5 REASONS FOR INCREASING YOUR WAR BOND PURCHASES

1. The tempo of this war is hitting its highest point. Government expenditures for war are at the peak. MORE MONEY IS NEEDED . . . NOW!
2. In proportion to WHO HAS THE MOST MONEY, individuals are not buying their share of War Bonds. America must correct this situation.
3. War Bonds provide the farmer and rancher with the financial reserve he must have to survive the ordinary ups and downs of farming as a business.
4. Money will be needed urgently at a future date to replace and repair farm equipment, machinery, and buildings. War Bonds will provide it.
5. War Bonds are the safest investment in the world, return a good rate of interest, are easy and convenient to buy . . . from bank, post office, rural mail carrier or Production Credit Association.

The classified column of this paper in demonstrating its ability to bring customers and its really surprising what success of buying or selling it produces. Every week our customers report success. Last week one advertiser, Chas. McCrory said he needed a clothes wringer and wondered whether an ad would do any good, and he was immediately given the assurance that should there be such a thing idle, that an ad would bring it out for use. Monday we had a card from him and it said: "I have wringer, discontinue the ad." You can have the same experience of selling what you dont need and of buying what you may need.

THE LESSON OF THEIR LIVES

"For nearly three years our nation has been engaged in a world war. Today our armed forces are winning victory after victory. Total, smashing victory is in sight. Germany and Japan shall be given the lesson of their lives—right in Berlin and Tokyo.

"America — our America which loves peace so dearly—is proving once again that it can wage war mightily . . . that it can crush any aggressor who threatens the freedoms which we love even more than peace. The American people have risen to the challenge. The war is being won on the battle-fronts. It is also being won in the factory, the office, the farm, the mine and the home.

"Yes, we are proving that we can wage war. But what are the prospects of success as a nation at peace? The answer depends entirely on the outcome of this election."

DEKALB COUNTY WAR FUND

Schools and Lions Club To Make Contacts

The Concord Township and Spencerville High Schools, along with the St. Joe-Spencerville Lions Club are to be the only agencies in the two townships to contact the public in behalf of the 1944 National War Fund drive.

A copy of the letter sent to the Principals and President of these agencies by the DeKalb County War Fund Committee, with particular emphasis for Concord Township, states in part: "The quota assigned to your township is $200 and the town of St. Joe a quota of $200 exclusive of the township, making a total for Concord Township of $400.....The St. Joe-Spencerville Lions Club is to contact all manufacturers, merchants and professional men in St. Joe and the local schools the homes.....We are requesting each student in your schools to contact each wage earner in his home and also in homes in their immediate vicinity in which there are no children of school age."

Mr. Duker in commenting on the role of the school in this worthy cause has asked that the public be exceptionally patient and trusting with the younger students that call upon the homes. Each solicitor will be given the necessary instructions in filling out the pledge cards, but in case of the very young solictor calling, the public or contributor should help fill out the cards. A special attempt will be made to have the bulk of the soliciting done by students of high school age. Some will necessarily have to be done by grades 5 and 6, very little by grades 3 and 4, and practically none by the grades 1 and 2. To acquaint the public with the pupils' role he gives in part the instructions given the school by the DeKalb County War Fund Committee: "The pupil will call at the home with a pledge card.....the sum donated and signature to be written in by contributor. Solicitors to insert their name in left end of card, cross out club and write in name of school and date. The solicitor to fill in detachable stub, name of contributor, amount of pledge, etc., check square as paid. Return pledge card intact and teacher to mark detachable stub 'Paid' and return to contributor through student..... If to be paid by check through bank where contributor carries his account, leave stub and return pledge to teacher."

National War Fund Slogan

The National War Fund goal is $250,000,000.

DeKalb County's quota is $12,247.60.

Concord Township's share is $200.

St. Joe's share is $200.

While 22 agencies benefit by the fund over 50% of the fund is allotted to USO- United Seaman's Service — and War Prisoners Aid.

Both Mr. Elson, age 88, and Mrs. Elson are in good health considering their ages. Those present at the birthday celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Thrush, Janet Lee Thrush and Teddy Dean Thrush, of near Auburn, Mr. and Mrs. Byrl Heitz, of 363 West Fifth Street, Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Heitz and Sue Ellen Heitz, of East Fifth Street, Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thrush and Jack Eugene Thrush, of near Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Thrush, of near Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. King Oberlin, of near Butler; Mrs. Allie Clark, of North Cedar Street, Auburn, and Mrs. Emma Swisher and Mrs. Hazel Brown of East First Street, Auburn.

Happy Birthday

It surely is pleasing
As years come and go
To reflect, without easing,
On events long ago.
In youth you looked forward
For events yet to be
Now you glance backward
And do so with glee.
For those years have been plentiful
In friends, family and health
Through your aims to be helpful
You lost sight of self.
Your bread upon waters
Now returns many fold
From your own sons and daughters
And others untold.
So today's Birthday Greetings
Are all meant for thee
With fond hope for more meetings
'Twixt yourself and everybody.

FIGHTING AGAINST

Communism, Browderism and Hillmanism — against regimentation of labor, the farmer and business — against dictatorship and one-man government — against secret treaties — against sixteen years of one-man rule — against Roosevelt and the New Deal.

FIGHTING FOR

Plenty of jobs and fair wages — an opportunity for the farm hand and the tenant farmer to own his own farm — for a fair price for the farmer — for quick return of our fighting men — for everlasting peace in the world — for clean government by law instead of presidential order — for destruction of the Washington bureaucracy.

JOHN W. BRICKER

Clean House In Washington! Clean House From Top To Bottom!

Indiana Republicans have given you the best legislative record in twenty years. Seven millions and more in tax reduction — by careful saving built up a reserve fund of more than $40,000,000 against possible postwar depression — administered all the administrative offices of state government in a highly satisfactory manner — forced good government in Indiana through legislative enactment — reduced the gross income tax on retailers — passed the merit law covering thousands of state employees — reduced the state property tax — created bi-partisan boards for all state institutions and the state police force — destroyed the vicious liquor racket and the infamous 2% Club. This record can and will be continued under Ralph F. Gates, nominee for governor, and splendid candidates for the legislature, and a full state ticket

The comics say "this way"

WHEN a comic strip artist wants to suggest the birth of a new idea, he draws an electric bulb glowing above his hero's head. Since that symbol comes from our business, maybe we can borrow it to do a little enlightening of our own.

For example, there's the old idea that companies like ours are all owned by a few wealthy people in Wall Street. Actually, of course, this company is largely owned by the same people it serves and run by your friends and neighbors.

Our biggest security-holders are banks and insurance companies which have invested your savings here because they can count on sound business management—and because cheap, dependable electricity is so basic to the American way of living.

So whether you own us directly through stock, or indirectly through a savings bank, you have a stake in this company. We welcome your ownership and your patronage. We try to be worthy of both.

BROKEN PROMISES!

Acceptance Speech

Delivered in Chicago, Ill., on July 2, 1932:

"For three long years I have been going up and down this country preaching that government—federal and state and local—costs too much. I shall not stop that preaching. As an immediate program of action, we must abolish useless offices that are not definitely essential to the continuance of government. We must merge, we must consolidate, subdivisions of government, and like the private citizens, give up luxuries which we can no longer afford."

On October 31, 1933, there were 566,945 federal civil service employees. On July 1, 1944, there were 3,112,965 employees.

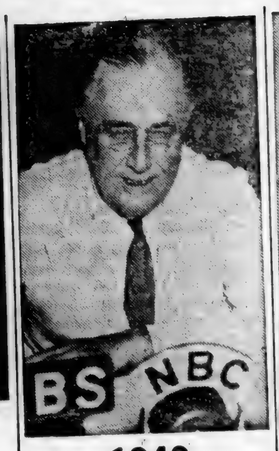
Acceptance Speech

Delivered in Philadelphia, Pa., on June 27, 1936:

"The brave and clear platform adopted by this convention, to which I heartily subscribe, sets forth that government in a modern civilization has certain inescapable obligations to its citizens, among which are protection of the family and the home, the establishment of a democracy of opportunity. We are poor indeed if this Nation cannot afford to lift from every recess of American life the dread fear of the unemployed that they are not needed in the world."

The American Federation of Labor unemployment figures for January, 1940, showed 10,156,000 unemployed.



1940

Acceptance Speech

Delivered in Washington, D. C., on July 19, 1940:

"To you, . . . I express my gratitude for your selection of Secretary Henry A. Wallace as the vice-presidential candidate.

"Finally, the added task which the present crisis has imposed upon the Congress, calls for constant co-operation, between the executive and legislative branches, to the efficiency of which I am glad to pay tribute."

Senator Alben Barkley, Democratic majority leader, said, commenting upon President Roosevelt's tax message to Congress, on February 23, 1944: " . . . a calculated and deliberate assault upon the legislative integrity of every member of Congress."

Acceptance Speech

From the Pacific Coast Naval Base as broadcast to the Chicago Democratic National Convention, July 20, 1944:

"In any event, whenever that time comes, new hands will then have full opportunity to realize the ideals which we seek."

PFC. HOMER STEMEN SAVES SOLDIER'S LIFE

U. S. Army Station Hospital England, Oct. 30.—While attacking S. S. Troop positions defended by German tanks, Pfc. Homer J. Stemen, 29, 111 E. 10th St., Auburn, Ind., was twice wounded in a successful attempt to return another wounded infantryman to the American lines outside St. Lo. He is now recovering in this United States Army hospital in England.

The two infantrymen had advanced with a basooka to blast two German tanks. With two grenades they had destroyed one of the tanks and were about to fire another when they were caught in a withering machine gun cross fire. For several minutes they were pinned to the ground. Pfc. Stemen started back to the lines to bring up more ammunition. He was returning and had almost reached his companion when both men were hit by machine gun fire.

Although wounded in the shoulder Pfc. Stemen made his way to his companion who had been hit in the chest, and gave him first aid from his medical pouch. The Germans started a barrage of 88 shells in the vicinity and it was necessary for both men to get back to their own lines. Crawling on the ground and dragging his companion with him Pfc. Stemen had nearly reached the American positions when a shell exploded near him and he was hit in the leg.

Medical department soldiers soon reached both men and took them to safety where they dressed their wounds and gave them first aid. Pfc. Stemen was taken to a field hospital and was evacuated to England by plane together with the man he had rescued.

Pfc. Stemen, who was awarded the Purple Heart, is "recovering satisfactorily" and will soon return to duty, his war surgeon, Captain Herbert B. McLauthlin, of Denver, Colorado, reports.

Pfc. Stemen is married and his wife, Helen Mae, and three year old daughter, Marjorie Ann, reside at the same address in Auburn. His mother, Mrs. Mary Stemen, lives east of Spencerville. Pfc. Stemen farmed outside of Spencerville before he entered the army in 1942.

YOUR VOTE DOES COUNT

If someone with a lot of enterprise and energy were to take a poll of all persons who did not vote in the last national election and ask them why they did not vote, the answers would probably be something like this: "I just didn't think my vote would make any difference one way or the other in such a big election."

Even in a democracy where one man's vote counts as much as another, and where national elections have been decided several times in the past by a mere handful of voters, this type of thinking still prevails among many persons. Nothing could be further from the truth. Let us examine a few close elections in our country's history for proof.

In 1884, New York state, which then had an electoral vote of only 36 as compared to its present 47, was the deciding state in the contest between Grover Cleveland, the Democratic candidate, and James G. Blaine, the Republican candidate. Cleveland polled 563,154 votes to Blaine's 562,005, which gave him a plurality of 1,149.

If a majority of these 1,149 voters—or 575—had voted for Blaine instead of Cleveland, the Republican candidate would have had a plurality of one vote over his opponent and New York would have gone Republican. It is easy to see from these figures that a few votes make a lot of difference in some elections.

In 1916, with the United States closer and closer to the war raging in Europe, the November election was the closest in many years. Woodrow Wilson, running for a second term against Charles Evans Hughes, the Republican candidate, went to bed late election night apparently a defeated man. The electoral vote stood thus: Republicans, 254, Democrats, 264. The report was, however, that California where the outcome was in doubt, would go Republican. That meant that California's 13 electoral votes would be added to the Republican total of 254, making 267, or enough to carry the election.

Not until the next day did the election count in the Western state show that the Democrats won by 466,200 to 462,394—a plurality of only 3,806. A switch of 1,904 Democratic voters in California to the Republican side in this election would have meant that Charles Evans Hughes would have been the war president instead of Mr. Wilson.

Hardly a day goes by that the newspapers do not report an election in some community so close that a shift of only a few votes would change the result. The balance of power in many an important issue therefore often is vested in one or two persons.

It is not likely that as a voter you will be the deciding factor in this or any other election. But the fact remains that individual votes do make up the total and the total decides the election. And your vote counts as much as anyone else's. It is not only your privilege, but your duty to vote Tuesday, November 7. As a good citizen you should do nothing less.

CHILD DELINQUENCY

Much is said on the subject of delinquency, proposals made and remedies tried. The wave of juvenile crime has continued to sweep the country since war started and hoodlumism has hit hard the cities. No matter the size of town, delinquency is an issue that affects the public welfare. Better parenthood has been one of the solutions to the problem. This is something that can be done right here at home, correcting child delinquency through understanding and sympathy. Behind each child is a parent, as a rule one parent is alive, who can affect a cure, due to each young one being born with a sense of good and bad.

Elders might cope better with this problem by not allowing children to keep all kinds of night hours, proper education, frequent night spots that are questionable, to relax supervision because "children will be children" and an easier way out of doing our parental duty. Many refuse to curb a child's pleasure since you are only young once. The remedy for ills attacking the natinn's youth is the bettering of home condidions, of not being neglectful in overlooking the spiritual education of the child, considering his companions, noticing his pursuits in relaxation. See if his desires are normal, healthy, happy ones, that he is groping for the right. The effort to make of ourselves better parents will result in better children.

TOWARD LIGHT

As we proceed from neon and indirect lighting to more progressive ideas for the years of peace, one's thoughts slant back to times gone by when man struggled for his light, when by candle glow he was providing hope for generations to come who would advance to the kerosene light. The day when man found the wick soaked in fat of animal gave forth a gleam, made further improvement and led to rise of the globe that started simply and ended in ornate designs and patterns. As we see them revived in stores today, those rose-bedecked imitation coal oil lamps, with glass chimney to carry out the antique idea, we think of how far we have come in an age of lighting. Long years the coal oil lamp swung from a railroad crossing, guarded life and property, dangled on carriages that traveled the roads of mud, served on land and sea, with the miner below and lamplighter above. Kerosene lanterns helped make history. The lantern, when used in stories of years back, seems to typify all that is dated in period. The symbol of man's reach to the gas light era has been the source of spreading further rays of despair and hope. Man felt as safe with his light then as do we with our modern flash. The path was followed as securely as reflected in the rays of any electric bulb. For the lonely and from the isolated, shone the lantern from window and steeple, wagon and bridge, fore and aft, leading and cheering to one's goal. Living beyond to see the illumination that hides behind pictures and mirrors and wallboards, concealed beneath silk and parchment, reflected by indirect globes to spare the eyesight, show how man has lived to see the coming of night.

HOPE CHEST-1944

THAT little tin box marked "War Bonds" is full of dreams for the bride and her husband—but dreams that are practical and that will come true. Those aren't mere certificates we are all putting away—they are guarantees of future happiness—Homes, for one thing, luxuriously easy to keep charming and comfortable with electricity. In that little box repose big electric appliances. Ranges and refrigerators, washing machines, water heaters and even air conditioning equipment will come out of it.

Truly a Bond Box may be, sooner than we think, a magic source of the best things of life. The All-Electric Home is certainly foremost on the list of these.

Proudly salt away those war winning bonds, Home makers. There's nothing better you can do just now. Prepare for that home of tomorrow. Dream a little, plan a little, and live gloriously with your returning fighter when America's faith has been justified.

KNOX FEARED COMMUNISM

The New Dealers are trying to distract the voters' attention from the Communist infiltration into the ranks of the Democratic Party. Then there is nothing new about it and it is in line with a plan of the Communists made 25 years ago.

Roosevelt's late Sec. of the Navy, Frank Knox, wrote to L. A. Rose, of Galway, N. Y., in 1936: "I agree with you that we are being forced to choose between the accepted American form of government and that in Russia in many ways. The New Deal is sympathetic to a lot of things going on in the Soviet." It is obvious that the New Deal was agreeable to the Communistic influence for it has shown itself competent to "Purge" any unwelcome group and has had 8 years to do it since Knox made this statement.

A look back into the Communist history in the U. S. for a few years shows that the present situation is because "we planned it that way" and the present influence of the Hillman-Browder gang is no accident, but quite acceptable.

How this situation came about should interest every voter and be an urge to make him take sides next Tuesday. Some thing to keep in mind when voting is that while Roosevelt has said he does not care for the votes controlled by the Hillman-Browder outfit, he has NOT said he would refuse to be President if they helped to elect him. Neither has he said they would have no part or influence in his administration.

When the Bolshevik Revolutionists in Russia succeeded in establishing a more or less stable government they asked the U. S. to recognize them, but they were refused by the Wilson administration and the Russian Embassy in Washington remained closed. They then opened a "Soviet Bureau" in New York for the purpose of spreading "educational propaganda."

A Russian named Martens conducted this work and employed not only Russian writers but also several Americans of repute

Martens testified before a senate committee that Russia paid the expenses of this work which was about $10,000 per month, and that their job was "to organize and co-ordinate revolutionary forces in the U. S. to act with the same forces in other countries for a world revolution, using terror if necessary."

Morris Hillquest was director of the legal department of this Bureau and was also one of the campaign managers for Senators Wheeler and LaFollet in 1924 which indicates how they were working at that time.

The plan was to cause unrest and strikes that would tie up industry and transportation. Many of you will remember the I. W. W., the Socalist Labor Party of America, and the Left Wing of the Socalist Party of America. A powerful but less known organization was the "Plum Plan League' who tried to organize the railway employees to take over the railways for government operation. In the call for the "Congress of the Communist International" they said: "The most important task of the present movement.....is to strengthen the Soviet, to increase their authority and to imitate the government apparatus of Russia."

The campaign of violence these people tried to put over here did not work out and a senate committee investigating their activities turned in a lot of evidence on their attempt to overthrow the government. Atorney General Palmer went after them and put 140 of them in the penitentiary. Palmer's work was followed up by Daugherty who succeeded him and he got a lot more. Palmer's house in Washington was bombed and Daugherty was smeared by Wheeler until he resigned as Wheeler had promised in a campaign speech at an I. W. W. meeting in Montana.

The Soviet "Ambassador" Martens was deported in spite of a group of senators who tried to prevent his trial. With Martens gone back to Russia the "Bureau" in New York was closed, and the headquarters moved to Mexico where it continued to operate for several years.

Up to this time every effort of the Communist movement in this country had been to get organized for force and revolutionary methods. It became apparent that this could not be done as a separate political party and that it would be necessary to first weaken the government by a process of boring from within the old parties so that operations of a revolutionary character might be carried out with less resistance by the government itself.

Communist language is always pretty heavy reading but here are some quotations from their "Program."

"The Proletarian revolutions come at a moment of economic crisis precipitating a political crisis; the Politico-Economic crisis causes a collapse in the Capitalist order."

"Every class struggle is a political struggle. The object of the class struggle which inevitably developes into civil war is the conquest of political power."

"Being outlawed, the Communist party reorganized as underground illegal parties. Thus for the present the Communist Party of America is prevented from participating in the elections under its own name."

Trotsky and other Communist leaders put out what they called their "Theses on Tactics" as a book of instructions. One thing they said was: The Communist Internationale draws the attention of the Communist of America to the fact that the illegalized organization must not only serve as the ground for collecting and crystalizing the active Communist forces but that it is the duty to get out of the illegalized condition into parties, into the open, among the wide masses. It is the duty of the party to find the means and the forms to unite those masses politically, through public activity, into the struggle against American capitalism."

That sounds a lot like telling them to organize the C. I. O. Political Action Committee which has been done according to the 25 year old Moscow plan. (Any way you look at it you should vote next Tuesday for your choice of the future course of these United States.)

CAPEHART'S LEAD IS CUT TO 17,000

Republicans in Indiana are all Out in Front with Only 330 Precincts Still Out—Gates Leads by 44,000

Indianapolis, Nov. 8. — Governor Schricker late today cut the advantage of Homer Capehart, republican candidate for senator, from 23,000 to 17,000 votes in the midst of a GOP upsurge in Indiana.

Republicans, from Governor Dewey down to the bottom of the Indiana state ticket, are out in front with only 330 precincts of 4,016 remaining to count in the top race.

It was democratic Vigo county, comprised of Terre Haute, which helped to slash Capehart's comfortable lead over Schricker.

In the other major races, the GOP failed to unseat venerable Representative Louis Ludlow in the 11th district and Representative Ray Madden in the first district, the Gary-Hammond steel mill section.

Dewey polled 122,489 more votes than did President Roosevelt on the basis of returns from 3,686 precincts.

And Republican Gubernatorial Candidate, Ralph Gates, maintains an impressive 44,000 advantage over Senator Samuel Jackson of Fort Wayne. William Jenner, republican, is far ahead of Democrat Cornelius O'Brien for the short term senate seat.

NEW FEED PLANT HAS OPENING

The opening of the newly remodeled feed grinding department of the Myers Elevator in St. Joe, was held last Friday, with a nice group of farmers calling during the day and taking advantage of the free grinding and making a thorough inspection of the labor saving method now used in the handling of the grists.

Every caller was greeted in the office by Mr. Howard Myers, owner, and Clifford Billow, local manager, and Mr. W. F. Burbank, representative of the Wayne Feed Co., whose purpose was to acquaint customers of the merits of Wayne feeds, and to explain how they may best be used to produce the results the farmers are looking for.

Mr. Burbank was kept busy answering feed questions all day long, and because of his congenial way with the patrons, would go a long way in making new and lasting customers, both for Wayne Feeds and also the local dealer, Myers Elevator.

Merlin Simanton was given a bag of Wayne Hog Supplement at the close of the day for more closely estimating the number of calf pellets on display. The number was 4710 with an estimate of 4500.

FARMERS PICK NEIGHBOR'S CORN

On last Thursday a large number of neighbors and friends planned to meet at the Jay Bleeks farm and husk his corn for him. Jay has not been able to do any work for some time and he and Mrs. Bleeks greatly appreciate the good neighborly act.

Those assisting were Tod Kosht, A. M. Rinehart, Wilbur Rinehart, Lloyd Strong, Harry Strong, Jim Musser, Ferrel Hanna, Ralph Hose, Charles Cook, Wm. Staman, Robert Sechler, Freddie Cook, Burl Enzor, Thad Brown, Sam Wyatt, Adrian Washler, Eugene Webster, Junior Haller, Geo. Koeppe, Russel Lyon, Sam Mumaw, Robbie Wyatt, Gale Benner, John Engle, Buck Engle, Martin Mansfield, George Mansfield, Tom Brunson, L. W. Yeiser, Jay Bleeks, Rev. Best.

The ladies of the Newville Church of Christ prepared the dinner which all enjoyed.

Mrs. Jerry Rittter and daughter, Carol Sue, and Mrs. M. Morr and son, Jerry, of South Bend, were Thursday and Friday guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Draggoo.

Two fire calls were answered last week end. On Friday a grass fire west of the HK tower broke out and on Saturday afternoon Mrs. Jane Randall had to call for help. She was burning leaves and the fire spread beyond her control and caught her shrubbery on fire and then spread along the house in the leaves until the blaze set fire to the eaves near the chimney on the east side. An attempt was made to stop the fire without calling the department, but the blaze ran swiftly in the dry leaves endangering the entire property. The loss, of course, is covered with insurance.

BUTCHERING DAYS

Rural America has its butchering days, pernaps unappreciated by the city slicker who knows not of such an institution, this harvest for the preparation of winter's meat. You do not shrink from the killing, the preparing, but to those who gather with friends to observe the occasion, it becomes not only a business but a friendly gathering as well. Old fashioned as the town pump, the chance to talk politics and crops, for the women to chat and exchange recipes, is far from a melancholy or distasteful festival. Sausage and spareribs are far from unsavory subjects in St. Joe. Then consider the yearly gathering of the rural clans to butcher, a mingling of folks happy to work and talk together. Another custom remaining from those many years back that spells America.

A HELP TO ALL

Sponsored by the American Bible Society and two particiating groups, millions of service men and women with their families and friends, will join to observe a Nationwide Bible Reading from Thanksgiving-to-Christmas. The Bible has proven an inspiration to our armed forces. Those at home have long been guided by its counsel and vision. By concentrated reading, simultaneously, there will be a spiritual bond between those overseas and those who join them in reading here in St. Joe. Through a national poll of pastors, Army and Navy chaplains, certain Bible passages have been chosen for each of the 33 days. These we will list later. With governors and pastors, newspapers and radios, co-operating to make each community aware of this mighty observance, the hope, the appreciation of mutual understanding in prayer, will bring a moral force to bear, in daily Bible reading. Many soldiers have already written home for families to join them in reading certain Bible passages, to keep faith in this way. What better stimulant to body and soul than to take the Book in hand. Of course we will observe this with reverence and concentration. Nothing but good can come from it.

I thank sincerely all the voters and friends who so generously supported me for re-election as Representative of the Fourth District in Congress.

The trees are growing very bare
The leaves fall to the ground.
They scatter all about the lawn
And are dancing all around.
They seem to be so merry when
They dance about the lawn
That they step upon each other by mistake.
That doesn't seem to matter
For they sing a jolly song,
And are very, very happy
With the jollyness they make.

With the reports of four solicitors still outstanding, collections made at the Concord Township School for the War Fund are as follows:

Concord Township, quota, $200.00, pledged, $128.90.

St. Joe (Town) quota, $200.00, pledged, $112.50.

With the Lions Club collecting in town also, it seems that the town might raise their quota, but the township will fall definitely short.

Stamp and Bond sales to date are $307.90. With the 6th war loan now starting these sales should increase rapidly. To date they are very slow.

HOW TO APPLY FOR SUPPLEMENTAL GAS

Many applicants who send in application forms for supplemental gasoline are not enclosing their mileage rationing record as required by the regulations. In such cases the application form must be returned to the applicant with instructions that he mail it back to the board along with his mileage rationing record. This procedure makes a lot of extra work for the already overworked board staffs and at the same time causes delay in taking care of the request of the applicant. In some instances applicants report that they have lost their mileage rationing record. In a case of this kind extra work is required in getting a duplicate for the applicant.

When the mileage rationing record is received along with the application, the new ration is noted on the back of the form and the record is mailed back to the applicant. The mileage rationing record must be submitted with every application for supplemental or special mileage gasoline. And, of course, every car owner should take good care of this form.

The mileage rationing record is the stub of OPA form 534 which was the application form for the applicant when he obtained his renewed A book. At that time the stub was torn off and given to the applicant, so that he might retain it and have it available for future applications for supplemental gasoline.

"UNFINISHED BUSINESS"

Extracts from sermon delivered by Frank Stevenson on Reformation Day, October 29.

The Protestant Reformation began 427 years ago yet it remains the major item in the Church's 'Unfinished business' today. This 16th. century crusade to re-establish the Bible as the Christian's supreme authority in matter of faith and moral and to re-crown Christ as King of Life, began in Germany, spread quickly to the Scandanavian countries and across the Channel to England. Today it has encircled the globe but it is yet not a finished task. Protestants are a minority group within the Church.

We sometimes speak of the Reformation as though it had been accomplished long ago and written into history as a major event, but, in truth, the battle is far from won. The majority of Christians (so called) still credit the bishop of Rome with infallible wisdom (or rely upon their own poor reasoning) in judging what is right or wrong, utterly ignoring or openly contradicting the clear teachings of the Bible, our only authoritative Word of God.

As heirs of the Reformation movement we must address ourselves anew to this unfinished business of Resistance, of Reform and of Restoration. We dare not be satisfied with our successes until all men everywhere—those yet pagan, those now papists, and those professing to be Protestants—shall choose, with their eyes open, to live by the light of God's word alone. To profess faith in Christ as your Saviour is good; to abide by His Word proves that you are what you claim to be—His Disciple.

The Protestant Reformation which we commemorate today involves many points of theological controversy but all of them spring from the one basic choice between the words of the pope and The Word of Christ as the supreme authority in the Church.

During the first 500 years of its life, the Church appealed to the Scriptures as the revealed test of truth but during the next 1000 years the Bibles served merely as a foostool for the successive bishops of Rome, self-styled "The Pope." One after another holy men of God sought to rescue the Word of God from such abuse but the feet of the popes were made of lead. In superstitious regard for the 'old teachers' the Word of God was held captive and closed and Being a Christian became a matter of believing in the Church—not in Christ.

On October 31, 1517, Martin Luther, an Augustinian monk, an ordained priest, and a university professor, after a careful comparison between the teachings of the papal Church and the Word of God which he had accidentally rediscovered in an old Latin Bible, was driven by conscience to openly condemn the bishop of Rome and the corrupt practices which he perpetuated by his totalitarian power. The staccato of his hammer as he nailed his 95 theses to the chapel door at Wittenberg University in Germany sounded out Christ's own criterion of discipleship: "If - ye - con - tin - ue in - my - word, - then - are - ye my - dis - ci - ples - in - deed." (John 8: 31)

In the years of debate which followed this challenge and in the controversy existing between papists (Roman Catholics) and Protestants today, the focal issues are: 1) Salvation by Grace alone vs Salvation by Grace plus works; 2) The priesthood of all believers vs an heirarchical priesthood; 3) The living presence of Christ with His Church as He promised vs His vicarious presence in the person of the pope as the Church had asserted; 4) The single choice between heaven and hell vs an emergency landing field somewhere between these two, called "purgatory," into which the pope projected the 'Power of the Keys.' But behind each of these is always the fundamental choice which distinguishes Protestants from papists, namely: Who shall we believe when the Church and the Bible do not agree?

In terms of a few concrete experiences: 1) Do you accept as true the Bible's presentation of Christ as your only Lord and Saviour? or do you invoke the aid of saints for good measure?; 2) Do you accept the Bible's teaching concerning the stewardship of life which makes Christ your real 'boss' whenever and wherever you work, or do you feel that God loves the service of one who Preaches Christ more than the manual labor of one who Plows Corn?; 3) Do you accept the clear proclamation of the Bible that "marriage is an holy estate, ordained of God and to be held in honor by all? or do you fall for the ballyhoo of unmarried priests that they are more holy?

If you can sincerely check the first part of each of these questions, you are a Protestant, you are Gospel-grounded and Christ-centered in your faith and life,—you are indeed, a Disciple of Christ. The message of the Reformation has reached your heart. You may be checked off the list of "Unfinished Business."

MOTORISTS URGED TO PREPARE FOR WINTER

With fewer automobiles on the road to provide essential transportation through the winter than there were this time last year, the State Highway Commission warned Indiana motorists to prepare for the approaching of snow and ice.

The automobiles now in use, the commission pointed out are more vital now than ever before to wartime civilian economy.

Highway district and subdistrict garages are busy with last minute preparations for cold weather road maintenance, and the commission urged that county and municipal equipment also be checked in order that essential snow clearance work will not be delayed when blizzards block the highways.

It is vital that essential vehicles get through when snow and ice arrive, and the commission annual reminder is being issued early this season for that reason. Truck operators, as well as motorists were urged to see that equipment for cold weather driving is in working order.

We live in deeds, not years;
in thoughts, not breaths;
In feelings, not in figures on a dial.
We should count time by heart-throbs. He most lives
Who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.

First — victory. Next — nail down the peace.

Then they want to throw off the rigid regimentation of military life — and not run into the same sort of regimentation back home.

They want to set out for themselves, as Americans always have . . . to use their own heads and hands in fashioning their own destiny.

A job and an opportunity — in the American system of free enterprise. This is the post-war plan of men in uniform.

Government can't be expected to carry out these plans. It's up to every one of us at home to see that they're fulfilled — eleven million times.

EARLY REPORTS SHOW NORMAL GAME SUPPLY

An average hunting season was forecast this year on the basis of reports received from over the state by the Division of Fish and Game in advance of the opening date Nov. 10.

Regulations for the hunting of upland game are the same as last year, with the exception of the date for the pheasant season, which will be from Nov. 10 to 18 inclusive. The quail and Hungarian partridge season will extend over a 40-day period, closing on Dec. 20, while rabbits may be taken until Jan. 10.

Hoosier hunters find their main sport in rabbits, and according to reports, there is an average population of this game animal. However, the population is spotted, with an abundance in some localities, and a scarcity in others. The quail population is said to be above average, and equal to that of last year, which was regarded by hunters generally as a good season for shooting this species. Practically no winter loss was reported and it is said that there was a large carry over of parent stock. Word from Northern Indiana counties, where the quail often are seriously affected by severe climatic conditions, indicates an above normal population there. Information gathered by the Division of Fish and Game also points to an increase in pheasants in 1943. The population of this increasingly popular bird, however has not returned to the peak season of 1940.

More than 75,000 pheasants have been released by state game farms and local conservation clubs throughout the state this year. Liberation of a large number of these birds was delayed until late September and early October in an effort to prevent a depletion of the population from mortality before the opening of the hunting season.

Hunters are reminded that the law requires that they obtain permission from a landowner before shooting on his property.

Winter is Fun

I like winter because it is fun,
I never get mad until it is done.
You can make snowballs
And slide on your sleds.
You can act like a monkey
And stand on your head.
This is November, it's just begun,
So let's get ready to have some fun.

—Norma Jean Hartranft.

CONSERVATION TEXTS FOR USE IN SCHOOLS

Announcement is made by Hugh A. Barnhart, director of the Indiana Department of Conservation that the first of a series of text books on the conservation of natural resources for use in the schools of the state is ready to be printed. It is hoped, Mr. Barnhart said, that the text books will be ready for use in the schools in the next semester.

Introduction of the teaching of conservation into the schools of Indiana was made possible, according to Mr. Barnhart by the co-operation of Dr. C. T. Malan, state superintendent of public instruction, the Department of Conservation, Indiana University, and Purdue University.

The first text book, "Conservation of Plants," was written by J. L. Van Camp, associate extension forester of the Purdue University department of forestry and conservation. Members of the Department of Conservation assisted Mr. Van Camp with technical information.

"These books and the lesson material supplied by Howard H. Michaud, chief of the naturalist service of the Department of Conservation are expected to be an important addition to the study of natural resources," Mr. Barnhart said. "There has been need for many years for such courses in order that the children of Indiana may learn of the importance of conservation."

There will be five text books in the series. They will contain photographs and drawings prepared by the Department of Conservation.

"Dr. Malan has joined wholeheartedly in the effort to teach conservation in the schools, and we feel that a definite forward step toward making Indiana a better place in which to live has been taken," Mr. Barnhart said.

Republican in Poulties, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

Distance lends enchantment particularly to some radios.

Man is but dust, and it doesn't take a woman long to settle him.

We have the first touch of winter, when we get the coal dealer's bill.

Wouldn't many of us enjoy our Thanksgiving dinner more, if it came before election?

"There doesn't seem to be as much rope skipping by the younger generation as in my day," says Ben Soule, "and it isn't because they aren't given enough rope."

A St. Joe man wonders if, when war is over, our returned fliers will be interested in automobile licenses.

A Spencerville man, atfer an evening of radio, says that with these commercials it looks as though whatever is not worth saying, is sung.

It is not work that kills men, it is worry. Work is healthy; you can hardly put more upon a man than he can bear. Worry is rust upon the blade. It is not the revolution that destroys the machinery, but the friction.

THE CLOTHES PROBLEM

To bolster feminine spirit, keeping fit and fashionable has been mentioned as beneficial to all concerned. A recent dispatch from Ceylon tells of what can happen to morale when the clothes problem gets beyond help. In Southern Burma, cloth is so scarce since they have had no imports for two years, that in some instances an entire family will have only one sarong, and so they share it among themselves, wearing it on alternate days! In other cases, village belles have committed suicide because they had no clothes to wear. And still over here we have our trend of fashion, changing with the seasons, our ladies cosmetic display as varied as and profuse as ever, the shoe closet flaunting its numbers in many styles and colors in spite of rationing. No St. Joe girl need bewail her lot. But haven't you heard some women say, "If I don't get something new to wear I think I'll die?"

BEING SENSIBLE

We admit we were worried about the young men of underdraft age not entering college this fall, but instead, marking time before military service by working. The civilian student figures he might have a semester in college and then breaks up the course by donning his uniform. The war job also offers an attractive salary. But even so, any time spent in college is that much nearer a goal when peace comes and the student returns to the campus. An educator suggests that college gives a boy something to think about as he sits in an army camp or on a ship and recalls those days back home, something to plan towards. It is encouraging that many 16 and 17-year old high school students heeded such advice, have decided to get what education is possible, however short it may be until they are called to serve their country.

PACIFIC GAINS

As we read of each advance in our hold on Japanese islands in the Pacific, we more fully realize how man overcomes distance, due to our progress by air. That which was weakness shortly after Pearl Harbor has become great strength today. What seemed formidable and unequal then, in the way of equipment and men, has been overcome. Look today at those atolls where fresh troops and veterans of early fighting are forcing the Japs to defeat. Our progress is bringing us closer our goal, we are knocking on the front door of Japan. The price has been paid in blood since our advance first started 16 months ago. As we press on, as we outfight the enemy, we grow encouraged, but we will not be over-confident and not let up in buying War Bonds—and holding them, until the courage and fortitude of these Pacific warriors of ours bring us final victory.

LET UNCLE SAM DO IT

There are some people who seem to think the government can do things better than private business. The idea seems to be that the government does not try to make a profit, while "private enterprise" is based on the effort to make one and the saving of the profit is a saving to the public.

The president of the National Association of Shippers recently called attention to the fact that the government took over the railroads to operate during the last World War and ran them to a deficit of one and two thirds billion dollars in spite of increasing freight rates nearly 80 per cent and of course paid no taxes.

This time in the years 1942-'43-'44 freight rates have not been increased (except 6 per cent temporarily) and the railway will have paid into the U. S. Treasury more than four billion dollars in taxes.

Such comparisons should definitely end any thought of government operation, or direction of any of the country's business.

THANKSGIVING DAY

The early refugees to these shores, thankful for a haven from dangers past, grateful for those blessings of opportunity found in this new land, gave us our first Thanksgiving Day, as far back as 1621. Not just for a successful harvest, the proud results of their labor, but for many other reasons did they raise their prayers. They had come from various countries to a strange soil, hopeful of building new lives, determined to conquer this vast wilderness where, with the help of God, they would freely and steadfastly erect a foundation for the house of government to come. Their Thanksgiving was devoted to faith. This has outlived them and today, at a time when comforts and safety, even such blessings as hope and courage are strained, we come again to the observance of Thanksgiving, and consider the bounteous harvest in our individual lives. Inasmuch as those Pilgrim Fathers laid the cornerstone for this democracy, we who followed, are certainly continuously grateful for the privilege, and are surely willing to guard the rights invested, most diligently. This is a blessing no war can erase, we shall see to that ever faithfully.

Humility has not been professed by enough, but such was necessary in formulating the original colonies. Universal love has not been indulged in enough by the majority, to have proven itself effective, since man has permitted intolerance through prejudice to overcome his good judgement. That was another of the attributes of the early Pilgrims. Harmony and unity they found must be added to make a nation great, to work for the good of all. None of these conditions have changed since 1621. Have the people themselves?

There is great significance to today's Thanksgiving Day, since the evils of bigotry, cruelty and poverty have been felt by a sorry world this past year. But for these things which we can not help, we will not aggrevate by adding to them thru lack of appreciation of the profound blessings enjoyed by this nation, by the people of the community, and our deep gratitude we are determined to maintain through the year. Thanksgiving every day, since every hour we should be aware of those material and spiritual goods offered each of us.

HOW ABOUT YOU?

The country editor finds the part of his paper which directly appeals to most readers is that section he reserves for news from servicemen and women. The activities in camps at home, letters from overseas, attract the notice and interest News readers. Soldier news is practically sacred news, here and everywhere. The large daily papers have columns of soldier news, for even when one might not be known to individuals, the matter is still attractive in action and human interest. Your editor tries to keep up with the local boys in service, through personal letters and consideration of the boys parents and friends, who give items. We appreciate this concern and since our subscribers find these contributions good reading, they too testify to the thoughtfulness.

Dry Cleaning headquarters, at St. Joe is News Office. Bring in by Thursday morning, it's returned to St. Joe Saturday.

RAINFALL DEFICIENCY IS NOTED IN OCTOBER

A continued deficiency of rainfall was noted for October according to data compiled by the Water Resoures Investigation committee in co-operation with the Indiana Department of Conservation and the State Highway Commission. The total deficiency at Indianapolis since January is six inches, and since May there has been a deficiency of over an inch each month.

Even with this continued decline in rainfall throughout the state, the deficiency is not being felt as keenly as if it had occurred earlier in the season, due to lower consumption and cooler weather.

The third lowest discharge for October was registered on the East Fork White River at Shoals and on the St. Mary's near Fort Wayne. The average at Shoals was 366 cubic feet per second, with only that of 1930 and 1940 being lower. At Fort Wayne an average of 21.3 cubic feet of water per second was discharged, with the records of 1935 and 1938 registering lower.

The seasonal decline continued in water levels in wells unaffected by pumping.

AVERAGE SUPPLY OF GAME FOR TRAPPERS

Indiana's annual trapping season opened Nov. 15 at noon, and reports received from thru out the state by the Division of Fish and Game indicate that a normal supply of fur-bearers may be expected. The season will close at noon Jan. 15.

The raccoon population, according to reports, is high, and is equal to that of last season. The raccoon is not only popular with trappers, but provides much sport for night hunters in Indiana.

One of the most popular fur-bearers, the muskrat, is not expected to be present in such larg numbers as last year. However, reports indicate that the season for muskrat will be normal, or slightly below normal. This, it was said, is due to the fact that many pot-holes went dry during the extremely dry weather last summer, and the spring floods which drowned out large numbers of young animals.

Trappers are being urged this year to save as much meat from fur-bearers as possible for food purposes. Many trappers normally discard the carcasses of animals they kill.

THANKSGIVING DAY

"THANKSGIVING DAY, 1944
"By the President of the United States of America

"A Proclamation

"In this year of liberation, which has seen so many millions freed from tyrannical rule, it is fitting that we give thanks with special fervor to our Heavenly Father for the mercies we have received individually and as a Nation and for the blessings He has restored, through the victories of our aims and those of our Allies, to His children in other lands.

"For the preservation of our way of life from the threat of destruction; for the unity of spirit which kept our Nation strong; for our abiding faith in freedom; and for the promise of an enduring peace, we should lift up our hearts in thanksgiving.

"For the harvest that has sustained us and, in its fullness, brought succor to other peoples; for the bounty of our soil, which has produced the sinews of war for the protection of our liberties; and for a multitude of private blessings, known only in our hearts, we should give united thanks to God.

"To the end that we may bear more earnest witness to our gratitude to Almighty God, I suggest a nationwide reading of the Holy Scriptures during the period from Thanksgiving Day to Christmas. Let every man of every creed go to his own version of the Scriptures for a renewed and strengthening contact with those eternal truths and majestic principles which have inspired such measure of true greatness as this Nation has achieved.

"Now, Therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, in consonance with the joint resolution of the Congress approved December 26, 1941, do hereby proclaim Thursday the twenty-third day of November, 1944, a day of national thanksgiving; and I call upon the people of the United States to observe it by bending every effort to hasten the day of final victory and by offering to God our devout gratitude for His goodness to us and to our fellowmen.

"In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

"Done at the City of Washington this first day of November in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-four and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-ninth.

"Franklin D. Roosevelt."

CONCORD TWP. SCHOOLS

After the game with Harlan Friday night, the teen agers invited everyone to their Teen Canteen. Quite a large group of St. Joe boys and girls attended. They all participated in playing checkers, Ouija Board, and ping pong. There was also a juke box and dancing space for those who wanted to dance. Popcorn, potato chips and cokes were sold. The Teen Canteen was chaperoned by the High School teachers. Thank you Harlan for the good time that was had by the boys and girls from St. Joe.

Grade 9

Our class has been getting along as well as can be expected. We held a class meeting Friday, November 17, and it was decided to start to keep a Class Scrap Book while we are in High School. It was decided also that it should be kept by a staff similar to an Annual Staff. The staff has not been decided upon yet.

We are proud in having 3 more Freshman boys being able to dress for the game with Harlan, one of which had a chance to play, and did he play swell! They are Clarence Brown, George Mansfield and Allen (Pat) Obendorf. George was the one who had the opportunity to play. Keith Wagner and Howard Miller have been able to dress for a great share of the basketball games.

—Reporter, Nancy Monroe.

Grade 8

Last week Jack Bowser brought a heart to school, so we could study it in Science. Mrs. Wicoff cut it apart. It was really very interesting. While we were discussing the heart Leona Drake fainted. She recovered in the period of 2 or 3 minutes, Nothing serious.

—Reporter, Charlene Arnett.

The St. Joe Tigers went to Harlan last Friday night hoping for their first victory, only to once more have the victory taken out of their hands.

The Tigers early gathered a lead which thy continued to increase until their Star center Davis was eliminated by the foul road.

During the 4th period the game was a see-saw affair only to be decided in the last minute with Harlan hitting two free throws in succession.

The Tigers displayed the same kind of ball they have played in previous games. They fought hard, clean and fast every second of the game. During the tremendous excitement of the game the Tigers remained calm and displayed perfect sportsmanship.

"Feathers in a Gale"

On Saturday evening, December 9th, the curtain will rise on a breezy. adventurous tale of the sea, when the Junior Class of Concord Township High School presents "Feathers in a Gale," a three-act comedy written by Pauline Jamerson and Reginald Lawrence. This spicy play, brisk as a Cape Cod breeze and as authentic as strawberry shortcake, was produced by the famed Arthur Hopkins last fall at the Music Box Theatre in New York. It is an important Broadway play of American life, warm, appealing and humorous.

The cast of characters includes: Janice Bragg as the flirtatious Annabelle; Garnet Swander as the forthright Matilda; Beccy Inlow as the winsome Phoebe; Lois Brunson as Lucy Abner, the snoopy wife of a town official; Mary Moore as Abigail, a town "probe;" Doris Trenary as Mrs. Spoor one of the "righteous" women of the town who upholds the evil practice of selling widows into servitude; Eugene Gee, as David Thacher, the young town parson; William Billow as Captain Seth Barnabas; Jay Smith as Zeb; Harold Curie as Captain Ebenezer, an old salt with young ideas; and Russell Ridgway as Josiah Abner, the Head Selectman.

You can't wipe this out with your tears!

You may know yourself, but other folks have their opinion as well.

The surest way to make a postage stamp stick is to put the wrong address on the envelope.

Why is the sandpaper always on the other side of the box when you want to strike a match?

Years ago an American, an Englishman, and a German, visiting an Oriental country, were granted an audience by the local potentate. Addressing the Englishman, he said, "I understand that you are a subject of the King of England." The Englishman bowed and replied, "Yes, your Highness, and I am very proud of it." Turning to the German, he said, "And you are a subject of the Kaiser." Clicking his heels and bowing stifly, the German replied, "Yes, your Highness, and very proud." Addressing the American, His Highness exclaimed, "And you are a subject of the United States of America." Whereupon the American exclaimed, "Subject, h - - -! I own part of the United States of America."

CHRISTMAS SEALS ARE NEEDED

Christmas Seal time is here again. This heartwarming practice of buying cheery little seals to help combat tuberculosis, began just forty years ago and has since become a world-wide tradition. The Christmas Seals are sold in 46 countries. This year, as usual, they make their appearance. In a war-torn world they are reassuring reminders that we live in a civilized world after all and humanity has a streak of goodness in it that will not be put down.

This year, as never before, the Christmas Seals are needed. Tuberculosis is on the increase. The steady progress of medical science in the treatment of the disease has not been sufficient to stem the debilitating inroads of war. Our crowded war production centers, overwork and nervous exhaustion have been an open invitation to tuberculosis. The great tragedy is that too many persons don't realize it when the unwelcome guest has found its way into their homes.

Yes, the Christmas Seal has new significance this year. It is one means by which all of us can take part in the fight against the renewed threat of man's enemy — the white plague.

IT TAKES PLENTY OF WAR BONDS TO BUILD B-29s

THE WAR in the Pacific is the most costly war America has ever engaged in. It's simple arithmetic. A mountain of special, costly equipment is needed. A B-29 Superfortress used in the bombing of Japan costs $600,000 in War Bonds. And this is just one of the many extra costly implements of war needed to achieve final victory in the Pacific.

That's why the 6th War Loan Drive is so important. That's why you must back it as generously as you have every other war loan drive. Invest in the next raid on Japan...

GETS LETTER FROM DOWN IN SUNNY TEXAS

Mrs. Elizabeth Milliman has received a letter from her daughter, Marguerite who is now located at Tyler, Texas, where she has been for the past four months operating an eating house for Jim W. Prickett. She had worked at the Y. M. C. A. in Fort Wayne for two years past. News readers will appreciate the following letter:

234 Saunders Ave.
Tyler, Texas.
November 14, 1944.

Dear St. Joe Friends:

"Greetings from the sunny southwest, and from Tyler, the 'Rose City of America!'

"This is truly a beautiful place. Half of the rose bushes grown in the United States are produced within a ten-mile radius of the city. Every lawn has roses and they are in bloom eight months of the year.

"Other flowers grow here, too. Poinsettia are in bloom in the yards, and some of the plants are ten feet tall. Holly has just turned and the trees are beautiful. Oleander, marigolds, zinnias and dahlias are others, which are quite pretty now.

"Just out of Tyler are the East Texas Oil Fields, — the largest in the world. At Kilgore, twenty-five miles east of here—the oil wells are truly a remarkable sight. One sees them in door-yards, in churchyards, in the street, and, in fact, just everywhere! They are so thick that in some sections the derricks even intersect.

"Quite a lot of cotton is produced in this locality. Sugar cane, yams, peanuts, figs, and pecans also are grown here.

"The climate here suits me perfectly. Today the thermometer registers seventy-five degrees in the shade, and I have all my doors and windows open. On my way from work, I purchased a large watermelon for fifteen cents, and a dozen long-stemmed roses for twenty-five cents.

"While some merchandise costs little, other items are very high. Apples sell for 12c a pound, pears are 18c a pound, eggs are 55c a dozen, butter is 64c a pound, and cheese is 70c a pound. Dairy products are very scarce. I have only been able to get cheese and butter twice since I've been here. Pork, too, is very scarce. I haven't been able to purchase either ham, or bacon. Clothing, also, is quite highly priced.

"Tyler, itself, is a lovely city of 35,000. It has unusually large, new public buildings. It is laid out around a court house, which has a beautifully landscaped lawn, and covers two blocks. The tallest structure is the Peoples' Bank Building, which is fourteen stories high. Camp Fannin, a few miles out of Tyler, has accommodations for 30,000 men.

"The homes here are beautiful, the people are very friendly, and although I'm a Hoosier at heart, I do like Texas very much."

Sincerely yours,
Marguerite (Milliman) Hercules.

The new streamlined school bus now in operation here, made its initial trip Wednesday morning, and was driven by Wilbur Yeiser. The new vehicle will carry 45 students and in a comfortable manner. 65 Degrees Below Zero!

CLEVELAND, OHIO—"Better be outside than in," comments Bea Gay as she peers into a "cold-box" which reduces temperature to 65 degrees below zero and which makes various types of scientific testing possible. Miss Gay and hundreds of employees visited these laboratories for the first time since the start of the war. The pumps or accessories of Pesco Products Co., Borg-Warner division here, equip nearly every American military plane and therefore the operations of the "cold-box" have been kept secret. These experiments will reflect their value also in the quality of peacetime products when the war is ended.

2,000 BAGS OF MILK WEED PODS COLLECTED

The collection of milk weed pods has progressed very well in DeKalb County according to Mr. Carl F. Stallman, county superintendent of schools, who has supervised this campaign. Almost 2,000 bags have been collected to date. The County Highway Department cooperated in sending trucks to the schools and did an excellent job in getting the bags of milk weed pods centralized. However, a few school children were unable to get theirs in to the school for the pick-up by the highway trucks. Mr. Stallman reports that he will receive any bags of milk weed pods in his office in the Court House up to and including Saturday, December 2nd. He emphasizes the importance of getting in every bag of these milk weed pods on account of the use made of them to make life jackets for the armed forces. He wishes to thank all the children, parents, and school officials making this campaign a success.

Belden—Kinsey

"It can happen even here," would be a fitting title to the culmination of a romance begun two years ago, in the marriage of 1st Lt. Kathleen Belden, of the Hospital Ship Maetsuycker's Nursing Staff and Sgt. Gawayne Kinsey, of the 47th Station Hospital, at a double ring ceremony on Wednesday, November 1, 1944, at 11:15 A.M.

The ceremony took place aboard the Hospital Ship, which was anchored somewhere off the coast of New Guinea. The starboard promenade deck was converted into a Chapel for the occasion. The American and Dutch flags were draped on the wall behind the white altar which was attractively decorated with roses and carnations that had been kept fresh for several weeks in the cold storage section of the ship. The red carpeted area before the altar and the aisle separating the white wicker pews formed an attractive T. Mass was read and the marriage solemnized immediately after, by the Catholic Army Chaplain, Justen E. Freeman. A solo, Ave Maria, was sung by Lt. Mary Bates, who was accompanied at the piano by Lt. Gertrude Chambers.

Lt. Velma Nall, friend of the bride, and a member of the Hospital Ship's Nursing Staff, attended the bride as maid of honor. Her gown, similar to the bride's, was of nile green lace. She wore a fillet of matching lace in her hair, and a shoulder corsage of orchids.

Sgt. Robert Elliott acted as best man. Following the ceremony a cocktail party was given, and a wedding dinner was served to the ship's personnel and friends of the couple, who are stationed on the island with the Armed Forces.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kinsey, of Wolcottville, Indiana.

Somewhere in the Pacific (Delayed)—High praise for his bravery during the first hours of combat on Jap-held Saipan has been given Navy Hospital Apprentice, First Class, Don C. Hanna, by the commanding officer of the unit of marines to which he was attached.

Corpsman Hanna, 21 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hanna, of Rollin, Mich., landed with an assault unit of marines, and despite shrapnel wounds received in the first few moments on the beach refused to be evacuated and insisted on assisting the wounded marines on the beach.

The official description of Hanna's actions follows:

"While the beach area was being subjected to intense enemy artillery, machine gun and mortar fire, he displayed complete disregard for his own personal safety, and ignoring the pain of his own wounds, made his way through the water to a burning amphibian tractor and removed a marine with a broken leg.

"He took his patient to a shelter area, applied a splint to the injured leg and evacuated this man in the first available transportation leaving the beach.

"He again exposed himself to the fierce enemy fire to enter another tractor which contained five wounded marines. After administering first aid to these casualties, he directed the tractor to a sheltered location where he supervised the transfer of the patients to another tractor for evacuation."

Corpsman Hanna graduated from the Adrian high school in 1941, entered the service in September, 1942, and left Dec. 12, 1943, for the South Pacific area.

Don was a little boy about St. Joe some years ago, when his father operated the Hanna Motor Sales, where the Holman Feed Service now operates. He will be remembered by many St. Joe people.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Reasoner were guests in the H. S. Bowman home at Fort Wayne on Thanksgiving Day and enjoyed participating of the family dinner.

Republican in Politics, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

Not having had much word of Hitler, is a case where any noose could be good noose.

To prevent Germans from selling pictures of Hitler for little or nothing, the minimum cost must be $11 and this item points again to what price rame!

If the Japs keep this up, there won't be room to bury them on those islands.

Even with a doctor's prescription, it is almost impossible to get cigarettes.

No wonder Hitler is sick. He should have been, a long time ago.

A St. Joe man says the only way to keep the youngsters from bolting their food to listen to favorite radio programs is to move the radio into the dining room.

A News reader said the way Hitler started out annexing territory it reminded him of a real estate dealer hearing about some fellow finding oil.

Why is it, a News reader asks, that the less a man knows about politics the harder, faster and louder he talks?

Clothes don't make the man, and they fail sometimes to cover up the woman.

It wont be so long before we will return to the old days when the ring of the doorbell meant a magazine salesman.

According to a St. Joe man, we aren't so important after all, when five years from now the headlines will all be new names.

Overheard a fellow say that we are living in a time when no man can mind his own business and be a patriot.

One thing about these question and answer radio programs, you are usually glad you don't have to answer 'em.

HOW BIG A TOWN?

What is the ideal size for a town?

A town ought to be big enough so that a farmer can find a place to park his car. Unless farmers and their wives can bring in the new wealth out of the soil, and take home the goods the new wealth earns, there can't be many towns.

A town ought to be big enough so that a green yard can be around every house. When there are no yards where children can play, where a man and woman can plant a rosebush and set their feet upon the natural earth, too little room is left for people to live as normal human beings should.

A town ought to be big enough so that a man can say good morning to those he meets when he walks to the postoffice, and big enough so that he can stop to talk with a friend, if he chooses, without being jostled on the sidewalk.

A town ought to be big enough so that everyone will rejoice when a new baby is born, or when good fortune or a victory comes to anyone who lives there, and big enough that when a funeral procession goes by there will be people to ask who has passed on.

There are, we believe, a great many big-enough towns in our America.

HOMES FOR DOGS

Another cause that deserves attention, is for securing good homes for the Dogs of War who are being demobilized from the Army, Navy and Coast Guard. Originally there were 125,000 such war dogs enlisted and trained for patrol work. The first of this year found 20,000 of them serving on all fronts. They have been cited for bravery, have died serving their country. Many of these dogs have their former homes where they will return, some kept as mascots by soldiers, some will still be retained by the government, but there will be many of the war dogs who will be for sale as government "surplus property." By law, they can't be given away. To destroy them because of no homes for their care, is unthinkable. We only hope they will find pleasant and appreciative masters, when they do come up for sale, that their faithfulness will be rewarded.

MORE NURSES

By and large, we become so confident of an early victory when we receive encouraging reports of progress along the warring fronts, that we forget to continue our "plugging" with the same zeal. To fail to supply nurses for the Army and Navy, is dangerous, for the sake of our soldiers and ourselves. We in St. Joe, must not ease up in any way. By July, 1945, the Army must have 10,000 more nurses, the Navy 4,000. Never before has there been such a necessary demand. Since casualties mount, this need is more apparent. With the advance of the armies overseas, so will more nurses be needed. Hospitals that the Army had not intended to use before next March have had to be organized in November. Nurse recruits have been the lowest since Pearl Harbor, blamed on the feeling that the war is about over! This is an appeal to all nurses.

TAKING FOR GRANTED

So dependent are we in St. Joe, upon electricity, we are practically lost when anything happens and we can't use it. Like the most important items in labor saving to housewives and the articles such as electric iron, sweeper, washer, and refrigerator will be there. When you can't get the radio to work, something is wrong with the toaster, the percolator or the electric pump, blow a fuse and have no lights, 'tis then the power of the watt strikes you with force! Today when electric gadgets are scarce, electric essentials are not for sale, it is most necessary that we treat those wo do have in working order, with consideration. Until we can replace them, use them wisely. Mr. Edison was a boon to mankind, but he has spoiled us for candles, kerosene and gas, in most cases.

CONCORD TWP. SCHOOLS

"Feathers in a Gale", a colorful comedy of the days when America was young, will be presented by the Junior Class of Concord Township High School on Saturday evening, December 9th at eight o'clock. The Music Department, under the direction of Mrs. Leever, will present a short musicale preceding the play and between acts.

This royalty play, produced last fall on Broadway, New York, has a universal appeal and will take you out of the present-day America and relive with you the America that was, nearly one hundred and fifty years ago. It is quaint and colorful, combining delightful comedy situations, mirthful wisecracks, and unusual comedy characterization.

You won't dare miss it. Place a red circle around December 9th, and let nothing interfere with your coming. Tickets go on sale this week, and may be purchased from any member of the Junior class. Prices are 15, 20 and 30 cents, with ten cents extra for reserved seats.

And only He looks down on those below.

If they be white, yellow, black or brown
From foreign lands, either up or down,
Of foreign tongue, of queer dialect,
Gathered together where men collect,
Talking of gods and strange beliefs,
Thinking strange thoughts, seeking relief
From the ills of a world in need of Him
To bring the Light to this earth so dim.
These men are God's, and by God bound
To live as neighbors wherever found.
And count no one a total loss;
For the ground is level at the foot of the Cross.

BON HOMME RICHARD IS AGAIN SAILING THE SEA

New York, Nov. 27.—The U. S. S. Bon Homme Richard, the Navy's latest Essex class aircraft, carrier, today was ready for action against the Japs or Germans—and the Navy doesn't care who knows it.

The namesake of John Paul Jones' famous frigate was commissioned at Brooklyn Navy Yard yesterday in the first public ceremony for the completion of a major ship since Pearl Harbor. Ten thousand invited guests inspected the 17,100-ton carrier, thirteenth of her class and designed to carry 80 planes and do better than 30 knots.

1945 AGRICULTURAL CENSUS TO BEGIN SOON

An Act of Congress provides that a census of agriculture be taken every five years for the purpose of obtaining basic information on farm acreage, land values, crops, livestock, and other general items relating to agriculture. The census of January 1, 1945 will consist of an enumeration of every farm in the United States.

DEKALB COUNTY RED CROSS WILL HELP RECRUIT NURSES

The DeKalb County Red Cross chapter is assisting in the recruitment program of the United States Army and Navy Nurses Corps for which 203 nurses must be enrolled in Indiana before the end of the year if Indiana is to meet its current quota.

As war casualties increase the demand for nursing services with the armed forces becomes more and more urgent. Nurse recruitments for last June, July and August reached the lowest point since Pearl Harbor. The Army requests a minimum of 1,500 nurses per month, but the largest number to sign up in any three-month priod was 800.

Maj. Gen. Norman T. Kirk, surgeon-general of the U. S. Army, has announced that 10,000 additional nurses must be recruited within the next few months. Out of the anticipated 4,000 nurses in September, only 500 applied for commissions.

There are 209,000 civilian nurses, excluding the 112,000 student nurses in the United States, and Gen. Kirk has suggested that to reduce the number by 10,000 would not "cripple" nursing services for the civilian population.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to our many friends who have shown their many kind acts and words of sympathy and condolence, expressed to our family in the death of our dear son and brother. — Mrs. Elnora Blue and Children.

The tomato, once judged poisonous to eat, is doing pretty well, what with the ration points needed just for its juice.

The LIONS CLUB

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hart entertained the Lions Club on Monday night of last week, and at roll call 22 members responded. Pot luck supper was enjoyed by the group. Lehr Wilder and Karl Hart were guests.

S/Sgt. George Hart, Jr., was home on a furlough, after serving his thirty missions over enemy territory. George, in a very capable manner gave the details of a soldier's life in training. He described the forming of the crews that manned the bomber planes in a masterly manner, just as an older head would do with years of training. His description was so complete that all the group was amazed with the thoroughness of this young flier.

After the conclusion of his description of a mission, the men proceeded to ask questions of most interest to them, and without hesitation George produced a very good answer. All the men expressed their appreciation for the talk.

The attendance report showed the standing of the two captains as follows: Lion Rectenwall, 76.6, and Lion Billow, 78.6.

87 times straight - I've been lucky!

87 times I've gone out—and come back.

When your score gets that high, they usually let you quit for a while.

But sometimes that isn't possible. You just have to keep on going—perhaps till your number is up.

Back home, it's the same way about buying War Bonds. You feel good when you count up and realize what a high score you've got. You feel you deserve a rest, too.

But the war isn't over yet. And until it is, I'll make a bargain with you: You keep on buying, and I'll keep on fighting till the last Jap drops!

The 6th War Loan is on. And it's every American's duty to invest in at least one extra $100 War Bond. If you haven't bought yours yet, do it today!

Overheard a man remark that the way he got his black eye was falling over his own bluff.

We seem to be living at a time when it is fashionable to appear poor, for one questions the man who looks too prosperous and wonders how many War Bonds he holds.

With all the talk of reconversion, we haven't heard anyone yet mention the reconversion of salesmanship methods.

Why is it that a fellow will get pleasure in rising with the dawn to go fishing, but when it comes to getting up for work, that is a different thing.

Do we increase income to meet the demands of our family or could we decrease the family demands to meet our present income?

A Spencerville man was heard to remark that he believes that Hitler has about concluded that the end of his "mission" is in sight.

The trouble with many of us is that we are for free speech until it begins to hurs us personally.

According to a St. Joe husband, with all the calls made on pocketbooks, they should have asbestos covers to prevent fire from friction.

WE ARE PROUD

One wonders sometimes if the hometown weekly means as much to its subscribers as we hope it does, and whether the dailies have the personal hold on the reader as the small town publication. Surveys, with this in mind, have interviewed readers of weeklies, with an interesting result. On the average, they have been subscribing to their pet weekly for 21½ years. Before discarding the paper it stays around the house for 4.7 days. An average of four people regularly read each copy and they spend on an average of 58.3 minutes doing it. These facts are convincing and they make your editor proud he has a hand in serving his own readers on about the same basis. May he not fail them.

ABOUT TOMORROW

The businessmen of some localities about the size of St. Joe and Spencerville are now planning on modernizing their business houses and putting on a "face-lifting" campaign for their town's good, after the war. In one small town the merchants have decided to purchase land for use as a parking area for shoppers. Bankers have formed clubs for special savings accounts toward buying specific postwar items. There are advisory boards where townsfolk can get advice on construction and equipment while the board itself contacts manufacturers, distributors and government agencies. Postwar plans are afoot in many centers for incinerator and refuse disposal plants, for public parks and municipal centers, new post offices and schools. The plans of any town can be formulated today, for the benefit of its community.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM

The University of Texas with its quarrel among students, professors and the trustees or board of regents as they are called, is one dealing with the principal of academic freedom. The controversy involves whether the trustees should act as private employers "bossing" private employees and voicing their own personal opinions in the teachings of the school, than to consider rather the interests of the public. The dismissing of professors for purely personal reasons, cost one-time Governor Talmadge, of Georgia, his office when he ran for re-election. The trouble at the University of Texas is going to go further for its outcome in this controversy will probably affect the decisions in other schools later.

HOLIDAY FOOD HINTS

If you are having turkey for Christmas and can get wild rice, steam the rice until almost done then tie it in a cheesecloth bag and put into roasting pan to finish with the turkey....By heating the nuts and fruits and dredging them with flour before they are put into the fruitcake batter, they won't go to the bottom.....Making Christmas candy, try adding two or three teaspoons of honey to your fudge, giving creaminess and flavor....Chopped, browned Brazil nuts or toasted walnuts or pecans added to the mince meat make it especially yummy.....Put jellied cranberry sauce in as filling for your holiday 'filled' cookies.

GIFT TIPS

Take any old vinegar, mustard, salt, pepper, cruet sets, polish and clean and then fill the holes where formerly rested the glasses, with the very small pots containing ivy and other green plants. Use a painted sugar bucket for a knitting or sock "basket." Paint a wooden lard bucket for a magazine and newspaper holder. Use an old salt box as a holder for vines and plants on your wall. If you can find gummed paper large enough, paint some "individual" book plates for your best friend.

OBVIOUSLY, the only servant who will do so much for so little these days is electricity.

We're glad that electricity is able to work around the clock in war plants and still stay on the job in your home. We're proud that you pay low pre-war wages for its services!

That's news in wartime. It's possible only because of sound business management—and because your friends and neighbors in this company know their business.

Farmer: "This is a dogwood tree."
Tourist: "How can you tell?"
Farmer: "From it's bark."

Bill: "Did you fill your big date last night?"
Alfred: "I hope so. She ate everything in sight at two restaurants and a drug store."

These days if you can find out which way the wind is blowing, and trace it down—you'll probably find a politician making a speech.

Father—For the same reason that grass doesn't grow on a busy street. You know why now, don't you?
Little Anna—Sure. It can't get up through the concrete.

PORTSMOUTH PORCH

Americans are proud of their architecture. The fine old Southern colonial, Dutch colonial and Cape Cod houses across the land reveal American ingenuity in producing individualistic evolutions of Old World conceptions. Portsmouth, N. H., noted for its three-story facades and tall chimneys, takes particular pride in the Langley-Boardman house, erected in 1805. Note the gracefully rounded Ionic portico and Palladian window. No less important are the homes of Spanish and French colonial influences in the West, Southwest and Southern seaboard gems of Americana. These are all part of the American tradition our men are fighting to preserve. To equip, train, transport, and supply these men—buy more War Bonds.

MANY EARN EXTRA CASH TRAPPING IN SPARE TIME

Farmers, Boys, Older Men, Women Run Traplines

The wild life of our woods, fields and streams is the source of one of this nation's great crops—raw furs. And all over America, thousands of folks who love the outdoors are getting sport and welcome extra-cash from traplines. It's proving a healthful and profitable way to make use of spare time in the winter months.

Success appears to come quickly with a little practice, for last season hundreds of very young boys were among the trappers who sent regular pelt shipments to the nation's raw fur marketing centers. Older men, women too, are finding trapping a real money-making hobby.

There's real sport, they say, matching your wits with the sly four-footed creatures, learning to recognize their tracks, homes and feeding places—and catching them! What's more, there's healthful fresh air and exercise—and delightful views of woods, fields and streams. There's the fun of learning to skin the animal and get the pelt ready for marketing. And, best of all, there's the check that comes back to provide money for some of the things you want.

By way of encouragement—experts predict a good fur crop this season!

The Junior Class of Concord Township High School, St. Joe, Indiana, will present the Broadway hit, "Feathers in a Gale" by Pauline Jamerson and Reginald Lawrence, on Saturday evening, December 9, at eight o'clock.

This play is a spicy tale of the colorful days when America was young, combining humor and human conflicts in a kaleidoscopic pattern which holds the audience's interest to the finale. Its background is found in a rugged New England coast town, wherein exist almost all of the superstitions and unintelligent social practices of the early 1800's, except witchery and stocks. It is a refreshing, scintillating play, with clever lines and humorous wit which challenge outdoing.

This royalty production was presented at the Music Box Theatre last fall, and has just recently been released to amateurs. Its appearance in St. Joe is the first in this part of the state.

The play will be preceded by fitting seasonal music, by the School's Music Department under the direction of Mrs. Leever. Mrs. Mason Buckner will direct the play. Adv.

Governor Presents Hog Raising Medal

MITCHELL, IND. — Governor Henry F. Schricker of Indiana, left, is shown after presenting the gold medal awarded by Breeder's Gazette to Warren Holsapple, right, southern Indiana hill farmer, for record-breaking pork production. Mr. Holsapple's son, John 12, center, seems pleased about it, too, at the banquet in honor of the champion farmer given by the Mitchell Rotary club.

The Holsapples, who live near Orleans, Ind., sprang into prominence at the Indiana Ton - Litter show in Indianapolis this fall when they swept this event with their entry of four ton-litters all sired by a registered Berkshire boar. Much credit is given these purebreds for the great feeding efficiency they demonstrated and their superior market performance in defeating all competition at the show. The Holsapple's four litters weighed a total of 8,712 pounds at only 5¼ months of age. Litters sired by Berkshires in recent years have dominated this show which is a very grueling test of production efficiency and highest market value.

FRANKK MEESE IN ST. JOSEPH HOSPITAL

Frank Meese is in the St. Joseph hospital in Fort Wayne as result of being knocked down late Saturday night while crossing the street in Ft. Wayne, where he went with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hart on a shopping trip. He has a broken leg, and shoulder injury. He was thrown to the pavement by a car, and a second car hit the rear of the first car pushing it over Frank, resulting in the injuries. Donald and his wife had just driven up to their meeting place when the accident occurred. Frank is getting along as well as can be expected.

HEAVY METAL CYLINDERS SCATTERED ALONG TRACK

A B. & O. east bound freight train Sunday morning was discovered losing its cargo as it passed through St. Joe. The section was called to patrol the tracks mid-way to Auburn and east to Mark Center. Four pieces of iron cargo weighing about 150 pounds each were found. Due to the weight, the floor of the car was broken and the iron began to slip out by the shaking of the car. As the train passed through St. Joe, one piece lodged in the bank at the rear of the Leslie Meek home on the north bank of the right of way.

Dr. B. O. Shook was killed on the Wabash Railroad south of Spencerville, Wednesday forenoon and his body was badly mangled. No details were available at time of going to press.

"LIKE TO SWAP NIGHT CLUBS, PAL?"

"Sorry, chum—no ringside seats. You sit in the mud, see?

"You got a floor show of lizards and mosquitoes crawling over your face.

"You got a nice little 4-piece orchestra of Jap mortars, Zeros, machine guns, and your best friend screaming in the next foxhole.

"Come any time, pal. The show goes on all night. For a long time. There's never a cover charge. Not even for the flag they put over you when they carry you out."

We're all human.

We all like to go dancing or see a show or buy an extra suit or dress occasionally. But this war still has a long way to go. There are still 75 million Japs who don't believe in surrendering.

So during this 6th War Loan, how about putting all that luxury money into something a little more permanent—an extra $100 War Bond at least—to help get this thing really over and bring those boys of ours home?

It'll hurt. But not as much as the Jap bayonet in your neighbor's stomach. You get something back—in ten years — $4 for every $3 invested. He doesn't.

ATTEND OFFICIALS MEET AT CAPITOL

Derwood Ridgway, trustee, spent three days last week attending a state meeting for trustees and County officer L. W. Yeiser represented the county. In all DeKalb had five representatives. Here the most vital problems were discussed in open forum, and it will prove a great benefit to the new officers, who are faced with many difficult problems arising from new legislation and change made in former laws.

HEAVY SNOW FALL

Snow fell Sunday night and all day Monday in good quantity, in fact, more snow can be shoveled about now than we had all last winter. It's O. K. because the farmers need it. The water must come in some form, and this snow fall is certainly full of water. Had it been light, we would be plowing through at least a foot or more of snow.

LADIES LITERARY CLUB

The Ladies Literary Club met at the home of Mrs. Clifton Draggoo and was called to order by the president, Mrs. Wilbur Yeiser. The Collect was read, America was sung, and the Pledge to the Flag was given.

Mrs. Carl Perkins had the lesson from the Reader's Digest, using the topics: "Beware the War Charity Chiselers," "Factories Can't Employ Everybody!" and "How Parents Change Children into Mental Misfits." She concluded the lesson by having the group read the article, "The Star That Gleams in the Blackness."

Mrs. Don Burley conducted several contests. Secretary's report was read and approved. Seventeen members answered to roll call. After a short business session, the meeting adjourned to meet in two weeks for the Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Yeiser, Dec. 20. The officers will entertain the members with a supper at 6:30.

The hostess served jello whip, cakes, smacks, and coffee.

CULTURE CLUB

The Culture Club met on December 6 at the home of Mrs. Edna Jenkins. A business meeting was held; the response to roll call was "First Aid Hints."

The special work, "Argentina," was presented by Mrs. Jenkins. Additional information concerning Argentina was given by Mrs. Earl Hodges. Mrs. Sam Armstrong conducted a quiz on parliamentary procedure. The leader, Mrs. Ray Reasoner, chose from The Woman magazine two articles "No Friend to Santa Claus," and "The Amazing Story of Lydia Pinkham," which the members read.

The hostess served lunch, and the meeting adjourned, to meet on December 20 for the Christmas party, with Mrs. Olen Waltz as hostess.

SCHOOL CHILDREN AID IN WAR EQUIPMENT

Milkweed pod collections in DeKalb County this fall will provide sufficient material to make more than 800 life preservers for the armed forces, according to the report made by Carl F. Stallman, of Auburn, the county leader of the project.

In his statement to War Hemp Industries Inc. at Lafayette, Mr. Stallman sets out that the number of bushel bags of pods bought was 1,687½. These are in storage in a Triple A bin in Auburn and will be shipped to Petoskey, Mich., for processing, the floss being used to make life preservers.

The pods were gathered by school boys and girls after school opened in September. Mr. Stallman was authorized to pay 20 cents a bag and his total expenditures were $337.50.

MUKTUAKY

GERALD D. KINSEY

Was born to Frank and Elnora Kinsey in St. Joe, Indiana, on February 24, 1901, and suddenly left this life November 28, 1944.

He attended the St. Joe public school and graduated from High School in 1919. He is the first of his class to be called by death.

Jimmy (as he was affectionately called in his home town) possessed an unusually intelligent mind, a sunny disposition and an abundance of energy. These qualities brought him distinctive success in his chosen work.

For two years he taught in R. R. school in Montpelier, O. After this he decided to become a mortician. He came home and received his apprenticeship (one and a half years) under Elza R. Kinsey.

In June, 1923 he was married to Marjorie Brown, of Montpelier, O. To this union one child, Judith B., was born.

Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey established their home in Evanston, Ill., where for four years he was employed by Mr. Hefilweicht, mortician, and then he became associated with Clarence Zimmerman, W. 68th St., Chicago, in the same line of work. Here he remained for 17 years and until the day of his death.

His surviving near relatives are his wife, Marjorie, daughter, Judith, his mother, Mrs. Elnora Blue, one sister, Mrs. Albert Wade, and two brothers, Donald and Glen, St. Joe.

"You may break you may shatter the vase if you will
But the scent of the roses will cling to it still."

So it is with us who enjoyed the friendship of Gerald and knew his oft spoken hopes of returning to the old home town and establishing himself in business. His life, his hopes, his loyalty to the home folks are a fragrant memory.

Let us not say he is dead, he is just away.

JOSHUA EBBERLY DIES AT AGE OF 90 YEARS

Joshua E. Eberly, an aged resident of Auburn, passed away Thursday evening at 7:30 at the home of Charles Haynes, 606 So. Indiana Ave., where he had been cared for the last year. He suffered a stroke of paralysis two years ago and had been in failing health since that time. He had only been bedfast the past week.

The deceased was born April 23, 1864, near Waterloo and had been a resident of DeKalb County all his life, living most of the time in Auburn. In 1900 he was married to Ida Ecker who survives. Mrs. Eberly has been making her home with her daughter, Mrs. H. H. Squires of near St. Joe, during Mr. Eberly's stay in the Haynes home. Surviving besides the widow are one daughter, Mrs. Warren Shumaker, of Ford City, Pa., one brother, Walter Eberly, of Hudson, Mich., and one sister, Mrs. Oscar Fulk, of Waterloo. A son, Howard, preceded him in death when he was sixteen years old. Mr. Eberly was a member of the Church of Christ in Auburn.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Joseph Ferguson officiating, and burial in Woodlawn cemetery.

Ed Wade, of Fort Wayne, was a guest of Frank Sechler from Saturday until Tuesday.

The Christmas program at the St. Joe Church of Christ will be given on Christmas Eve at 7:30 o'clock.

The LIONS CLUB

Turkey dinner was served to twenty-three Lions Monday night at Spencerville Methodist Church, and most of the Lions were unable to gobble after consuming a large turkey and all the good things that go to make up a fine dinner. Anyway that dressing was a favorite dish with most of the Lions. Just to give you an idea to what extent Lion Laub carried on, he remarked that in case he could not go to sleep by midnight, he was going to call by telephone all the Lions he could connect with. Others who had been absent for the past month made up for their absence when the turkey came around and around.

The committee announced a change for the Christmas meeting, and set December 18, when their ladies would be asked to attend and enjoy a feed at the Spencerville Methodist Church.

Lieutenant Dale Collins, who is home for the month, recuperating from injuries received in Italy, was introduced by Lion Schendel as the speaker of the evening, and while Dale had no set remarks he gave the boys plenty of time for questions, and the evening passed quickly, because of the keen interest displayed in the life and operations of our soldiers in camp and on the front line.

Lt. Collins saw front line service with Gen. Clark's fifth army in Italy, where he was wounded, and also with the seventh army in France.

An offensive hand grenade was displayed and examined by the men at the table, and a full explanation of its use was made by the speaker, with definite questions put by the men of interest to each one.

The club expressed their appreciation of the services of Lt. Collins and were delighted that he could meet with them and that he is able to be home with his family for over the Christmas season.

TRY AND STOP THEM

You can't beat American ingenuity! Early in war the flyer who spent long hours in the air, carried his sandwich in the pocket of his suit. With increased amount of flying, the crews prefer and need not meals. It takes 2 hours to boil potatoes at 10,000 feet. There is an answer and it is a galley that consists of a food tray which has a heating system and is plugged into the electric power of the plane. Six metal trays have a pre-cooked meal with soup, meat and vegetables. There are twelve cups for fruit juices and coffee, drawer for bread, fruit, silver, drinking straws. And then there is the land force in New Guinea who can't get theirs cold enough! They want ice cream, but now? They put their ice cream mix in a container on a plane taking off on a mission. When the plane returns home the ice cream is frozen since below-zero altitude does the trick.

A HEARTACHE

Ads, radio and neighbors remind us of the number of shopping days left until Christmas. Our thoughts stray to other countries where time is passing and approaching the holiday as surely as right here in St. Joe. Over there the tiny tots are as hopeful of Kris Kingle and Dunder and Blixen, as any local youngsters. The great joy this day brings is going to be lost to many a foreign child whose land has been invaded by the enemy, whose home has been broken, whose parents are lost. War's hardships are more pronounced at such a time as Christmas, the pity of the disillusioning of the world's children, is particularly distressing. Those here who have been buying toys and books and clothes for their own children, are fortunate folk. Our stores hold many of the gifts to gladden the childish heart and make this a normal Christmas for American youth. How fortunate, indeed!

KEEP ON BUYING

The cost of war, even daily, is almost beyond comprehension. The total needed to carry on a victorious end, to bring our local boys back home, is in many figures. Consider this: the cost of a Liberty ship is $1,000,000, a super-fortress bomber costs $600,000, a light tank $22,500, a 50-calibre machine gun $200. Remember these aren't built in lots of twos and threes. They run 200 million EACH DAY. 50 billion EACH YEAR this war is on. Taxation raises 40% and the rest is borrowed from banks AND US. We have our bond drives to spur sales, to bring more hands into more pockets. But the funds must come, not just in a four-week period, but as long as there is an enemy to conquer. We must keep on buying.

A LONE PATRIOT

After tying up production of engines for B-29 Superfortresses for three days, striking workers at the Wright Aeronautical Corporation voted grudgingly 1,000 to 500 in favor of returning to work. In another case, a couple dozen crane operators walked off the job, paralyzing work in one of the world's largest steel mills, regardless of the plea from General Eisennower that American workers turn out ammunition at top speed. He said the reduction of the city of Aachen was delayed by a shortage of ammunition. And then came the coldly deliberate acts of the telephone workers threatening the war effort. These are but recent examples, by certain segments of labor, showing callous lack of concern for the men on the fighting fronts that is wholly beyond understanding.

Upon contemplation one wonders what claim we on the home front have to being patriotic. The strikers alone are not to blame for what is happening. We are all to blame for permitting it to happen. The extent to which we have drifted away from true patriotism is brought home by the woman war worker of Pennsylvania who sent General Douglas MacArthur $525 saying that "it was simply partial payment from one American woman for letting boys on Bataan and Corregidor down." The money is being spent on candy and other gifts for orphaned and homeless Philippine children.

This lone patriot, forced to quit her job because of illness, then added: "And when I looked around me at work and saw all the loafing on the job I knew that in spite of the wonderful job we are doing, we are still letting our boys down."

Merry Christmas

TO THE MAN WHO CARRIES WATER FOR A FARM?

MAKE water do the "running" for you. Give yourself, your family and farm, a Merry Christmas. Now that the government has authorized increased production, more electric water systems will soon be available. Plan right now and install one as soon as possible.

Just as reminders—you know that a cow's milk production decreases more rapidly from lack of water than from lack of food—the average milking cow needs 200 to 300 pounds of water a day; to produce more eggs, a flock of 100 hens needs 80 pounds daily; a hog requires about 16 pounds a day to quench his thirst. It all adds up to a staggering burden unless the water does the running. And then, too, there are more vegetables and better fire protection with a running water system.

It's up to you, Mr. Farmer, to give yourself a permanent Merry Christmas for years to come.

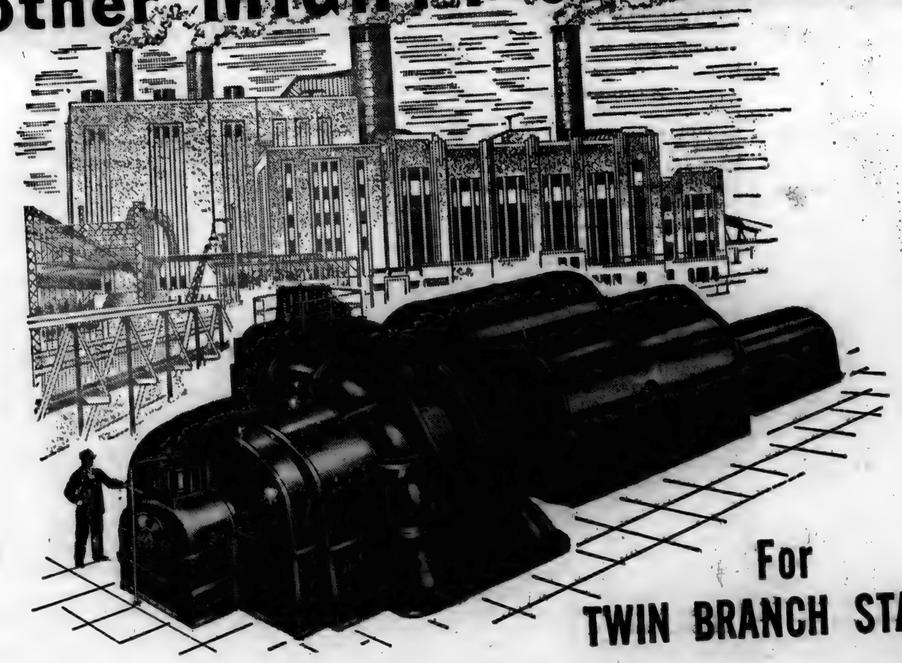
another MIGHTY GENERATOR



For TWIN BRANCH STATION

home of the world's most efficient steam electric generating unit

ELECTRICITY has not been too little or too late in America during this war because the electric-service companies for years past have steadily expanded and modernized their facilities to provide abundant power.

An outstanding example of this progressive, foresighted policy is provided by Indiana & Michigan Electric Company which, with its affiliate, the Indiana General Service Company, serves one of the most important war industry areas in the United States.

In 1937 another General Electric turbine-generator was ordered for the Twin Branch power station near South Bend. The engineers who planned this plant have always been forward-thinking, and thus conscious of the need of using our natural resources carefully. Therefore, the turbine-generator was designed for the highest steam pressure and temperature ever employed, so that the greatest possible amount of energy would be obtained from the fuel burned and give Twin Branch the world's most efficient steam electric generating unit.

No sooner was the new turbine-generator installed, in 1941, when gathering war clouds made it evident that still more generating capacity would be needed to serve growing war industries in the area. Consequently, a new and still bigger G-E turbine-generator was ordered. It has recently "gone on the line" in the Twin Branch plant.

This new turbine-generator, with its 120,000 horsepower, brings the Twin Branch capacity up to its present 335,000 horsepower, or three times what it was in 1940. But despite the problems of operating such enormous equipment at unprecedented pressure and temperature, this unusual power station supplies hundreds of industries and communities with a continuous flow of vitally needed electric power.

Your section of the country can feel proud that it has at its service an outstanding leader in one of the most important fields of American industry. In peace as in war, your local utility assures you of an adequate supply of electric power, produced as economically as the most advanced knowledge can provide.

General Electric salutes the achievement at Twin Branch. This station stands as an expression of faith in the future of your section — a promise that your homes and industries will continue to have all the advantages that electricity can bring.

"THE STORY OF THE TURBINE" is a 24-page illustrated booklet that gives a few of the most interesting facts about the steam turbine, its use in peace and war. You may obtain a copy by writing for GEB-129. Address General Electric Company, Sec. 254-26, Schenectady 5, New York.

Christmas

Christmas is coming,
It soon will be here.
And won't it be fun
With all its good cheer.

When is he coming,
Over the snow?
That's the answer,
All children know.

I hear the bells,
On Santa's sleigh.
It must be time
For Christmas Day.

Toys for girls,
Toys for boys.
And oh, how they love
To make lots of noise.

Grade VI Opal Trenary.

Christmas

We are all very happy on Christmas Day,
When old Santa Claus comes around our way;
He usually climbs down the chimney top,
And lands on the floor with a great big plop.
You couldn't guess what he brought me today,
It was somethinng very out of the way.
A little dog so round and fat,
And just as mischievous as a rat.
He's so little you couldn't find him in a sack,
His colors are beautiful, snow white and black.
At night when I lay down to rest;
I know my little dog is what I like the best.

Grade VI. —Jo Ann Bowser

Christmas

On Christmas you should be happy,
For it is a joyful day;
That is when you receive presents,
In a thankful sort of way.

You can have fun making snowmen,
And go sliding on your sled;
But the best thing to do when it gets dark,

TUBERCULOSIS STILL LEADS DEATHS FROM AGES 15 TO 45

A health education movement was launched in this country forty years ago that has helped save four million lives. It was aimed at tuberculosis, which at that time killed more persons annually than any other disease. It was not a movement that "just happened." It was planned and built on firm foundations—on scientific knowledge, on determination to increase that knowledge, on faith that the public would enlist in the health battle if the public were shown how it could protect itself.

Today, 2,500 state and local groups are affiliated in the campaign against tuberculosis. These groups, of which the DeKalb County Tuberculosis Association is one, do not build sanatoriums or rest homes for tuberculosis patients. Such necessary institutions are financed by the state and county or by private agencies at an annual peace time cost of more than $70,000,000, which is nearly six times greater than the largest sum ever realized in any year from the sale of Christmas seals.

The tuberculosis associations concentrate on educating communities in health habits that will prevent the tubercle germ from finding easy victims. A second phase of their program is to spread information on the most recent proved methods of treating the disease, so that tuberculosis sufferers may be brought back to health and lead normal, useful lives,

When we consider that tuberculosis today is seventh on the list of disease killers, instead of first as in 1904, we realize the effectiveness of the eductional program of the tuberculosis associations. But when we consider that even today more persons between the ages of 15 and 45, men and women in the prime of life, die from tuberculosis than from any other disease, we realize that this work is by no means ended.

We know now that tuberculosis can be prevented. We must finish the task, so well begun, of bringing it under complete control. It is a task that must be done for our own protection, for each time tuberculosis finds a victim within our midst the health of each of us is in danger.

Everyone can participate in the campaign against the white plague by using Christmas seals, the sale of which supports the work of the tuberculosis association. Each little seal we use is a brick in a mighty wall to guard us against an attack by the small germs which can be as destructive as an attack by an enemy army.

Christmas seals are not a charity. On the contrary, they are an investment which pays dividends in terms of better health in our community. They are a gift of health to ourselves and to our neighbors. What better gift at this season?

DR. B. O. SHOOK LOSES LIFE IN CROSSING ACCIDENT

Death came instantly to Dr Benjamin O. Shook, 75, of Spencerville, former coroner and a member of a prominent DeKalb County family, at 10:15 o'clock Wednesday morning of last week when his automobile was struck by south bound fast Wabash passenger train No. 1 at a crossing a mile and a half southwest of Spencerville on State Road No. 1.

The site of the tragedy is 700 feet south of the DeKalb-Allen County Line. The pavement was icy, but the view of the crossing is not obstructed and Dr. Shook has crossed it probably thousands of times. It is reported the flashlight signals were working. Dr. Shook owned a farm a mile from the crossing and he was on his way to the farm.

Dr. Shook was alone in his 1937 Pontiac sedan, excepting for his dog. Why he drove onto the crossing will never be known. The locomotive struck the right rear of the automobile, tossed it 24 feet, breaking off the south signal light, and then the car evidently slid on the snow 132 feet on the west side of the track. When it stopped it was on its left side, headed south and 15 feet from the rails. All the doors had been torn from the car and Dr. Shook's body was thrown out, being found 12 feet ahead of the automobile. The rear wheels and gasoline tank were thrown farther ahead. The dead dog was lying near the tracks.

Dr. Shook suffered numerous injuries, including fracture of the skull, fracture of the right leg below the knee and fractures of the right shoulder and arm. The train was stopped at once, but it was not damaged and soon prodceeded on its way. The body of Dr. Shook was taken to the Walter funeral home at Spencerville and then was removed to the Gerig funeral home in Auburn. It was taken to the family residence Thursday evening.

The funeral was held at the residence Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial in White City cemetery, Spencerville.

Officers investigating the accident included State Policeman Jack Nye and Wm. Hunter, of Auburn, the Allen County coroner, Dr. Bennnghoff, and Sheriff Walter Adams and a deputy, Wm. Oswald, of Allen County.

Was Doctor 42 Years

Born January 8, 1869, in Richland Township, a son of Jonathan and Rebecca Shook, Dr. Shook taught school and then was educated for the medical profession at Miami College, Cincinnati, Ohio. He had practiced ever since at Spencerville, a period of 42 years, and was well known in that vicinity. He and Winifred Murray were married December 21, 1893, and he was killed only a week before their fifty-first wedding anniversary.

Surviving are the widow, three sons, Dr. Hubert H. Shook, of Cincinnati, Henry M. Shook, of 112 North Cleveland Street, Auburn, and Richard L. Shook, of Pittsburgh, Pa., and five grandchildren. One son, Donald is dead. The widow is in ill health.

Dr. Shook was the last of a family of eight children. Two of his brothers were auditors of DeKalb County. One of them, Emery Shook, died several years ago in California and the other, Frank, died suddenly at his home in Auburn a few months ago. Other brothers were David Shook, a Richland Township farmer, and Dr. Nelson A. Shook, who practiced medicine at Corunna for many years. The sisters were Mrs. Alma Claxton, of Salem, Ohio, Mrs. Harriet Swarts, of Garrett, and Mrs. Matie Witt, of Richland Township.

Dr. Shook was a member of the Masonic lodge at Spencerville and had served as worshipful master. He served two terms as coroner, having been elected on the Democratic ticket.

Funeral services were held from the home on Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. Frank Stevenson, officiating. Burial in White City cemetery.

Jenkins was manager of the Junedale Meat Market in Fort Wayne. He attended the South Wayne United Brethren Church and was a member of the Moose Lodge.

Surviving besides his wife and mother, are a sister, Mrs. Fred Thoma, of Dearborn, Michigan, and a brother, Harold Jenkins, of Cleveland, O.

H. L. Moudy will spend the week-end with his son, George and wife in Fort Wayne.

Letter to SANTA CLAUS

Dear Santa Claus: There's folks who say
That you do not exist,
That you're the children's fantasy,
And too, these folks insist
That children are the only ones
Who still believe in you—
I'm writing this Dear Santa Claus
To tell you that's not true.

When people reach a certain age
With wisdom most naive,
They say, "There is no Santa Claus
That stuff I don't believe—
He's just a man in masquerade
Who plays a chosen part"—
Oh, foolish folks, they do not know
You live in every heart.

It's plain to see they're getting old
When they say your a bluff,
But Santa Claus I still believe,
So I'm not old enough.
I know you come on Christmas Eve
With bells and rein-deer team,
When I'm so old I scoff at you
I'll be too old to dream.

For let me tell you Santa Claus
A bit of solemn truth,
The folks who say you don't exist,
Have lost their grip on youth.
Their number's coming up—they're old,
If they'd stay young and smart,
They'd keep alive their faith in you
Who lives in every heart.

On Christmas Day we celebrate
The birthday of a King,
Who came to this old sorry earth
Great peace and joy to bring.
Then gifts were brought by wise men three,
A Star shone from above
To guide them to the manger babe,
To leave their gifts of love.

Two thousand years have gone since then
And ages passed away,
Still gifts we bring to those we love
On every Christmas day.
God loved the world, so gave His Son,
"Love suffers long—is kind,"
If they say there's no Santa Claus
Then they've left love behind.

They celebrate God's gift to man,
By giving gifts because
They love someone—they call it love
I call it Santa Claus,
And still they say you're just a man
Who plays a chosen part—
Oh, foolish folk, they do not know
You live in every heart.

—Mrs. Gertrude Borthwick.

Republican in Poulties, with fairness to all, for the best interest of the community and county as a whole.

One advantage a soldier has in sending home souvenirs to his wife, is that she can't send them back to be exchanged.

It begins to look as if smokers are going to have to learn to roll their own.

The German people couldn't be underfed, for they have been handed baloney for a long time.

Wonder if those countries which in the past said they fought the wars while America profited by them, have changed their opinion by this time?

Government reports show that home front supplies of cigarettes in October were 16 per cent below last year. There are a lot of people who might reduce their rate of consumption 100 per cent—they would live longer.

Senator Mead, of New York, observed in a Senate Committee study of Army Ordnance Relations with automobile manufacturers that "the American automobile industry is the best in the world, but they ought to take care of that bumper problem" and do something to get free from automobile bumpers that lock with other bumpers instead of bump. To which Senator Ferguson of the great automobile manufacturing State of Michigan replied by asking: "How do you expect them to sell fenders if they do that?" And everybody laughed—and maybe you will, too!

ONLY MATERIAL GAINS?

When you hear conversation of what comes after the war, the subject of television, plastics, electrically heated and cooled homes, fancy automobiles, family airplanes, wondrous fabrics, are mentioned as certainties. The list is long, the ideas often out of this world. So often successful standards are judged by the production of automobiles, that is the guage of the times as a general rule. Take after World War 1. From the yearly production of cars in 1915 of 900,000, we jumped to the 1929 total of five times that number. What else went so high in comparison? Well, youngsters in college for one! And the bottom hasn't fallen out of college education even though times can get tough for it, too. From 250,000 college students in 1915, the increase in 1929 was four times that number. So as we review our present day advertising of the material gains that are slated for our post-war world, concentrate on the probability of three times as many girls and boys in colleges as before this war. This should be as highly advertised as those plastics, autos, planes, electronics. After all, everything is not weighed and measured in metal and gasoline.

TEAMWORK

The statement is often made that this country can look to the future with confidence because of its abundant natural resources. That is only half of the story. Its resources are not abundant but have been discovered and developed in a history making manner.

The story of one of our most valued resources, coal, is typical. Coal has helped to provide our military forces—and large numbers of those of our allies—with the finest offensive and defensive weapons the world has ever seen. It is the base for 85 per cent of all war plastics, while the high explosives—TNT, picric acid and tetrol—are made from coal, in whole or in part. It requires a ton of coal to produce the steel for a 2,000-pound bomb, 25 tons for a 3-inch anti-aircraft gun, 50 tons for a medium tank, and 32,000 tons for a super dreadnaught. The uses for coal in peacetime will be even broader in the future than in the past. Coal derivatives have literally revolutionized human existence.

In this country, coal is nearly as ubiquitous in its occurrence as in its applications. Found in 37 states, it is mined commercially in 28 of them. The value of the coal produced annually in the United States is greater than that of all metals combined, and is 5½ times that of all gold, 22 times that of all silver, 7 times that of all copper and 7 times that of all iron.

Fortunately, coal exists in practically unlimited quantities—known reserves in this country are estimated at 3,000 to 4,000 years at present rates of consumption.

These figures give an inkling of what is meant when we speak of our natural resources, but it should not be forgotten that without the teamwork of vast scientific research, plus the ingenuity of American coal producers, the figures would still be buried in the ground along with the coal.

THE NATION'S HIGHWAYS

The best highways of the United States are not nearly as good as they were four or five years ago, despite all the restrictions on the use of several million automobiles. Heavy vehicles carrying great loads of supplies for the war, and for civilian purposes, have left their deep scars on surfaced roads everywhere.

Before the war there was good progress made in the direction of building excellent farm-to-market roads but that class of road work was also suspended.

At the present time there is a growing interest in Congress in a new Federal-Aid-Road works program.

Of course it took a Texas Congressman, instead of a Philadelphia lawyer, to remind Congress a few days ago that the United States, and the different states, have been in the habit of splitting the costs of highway construction. As a rule the States have made the charts and diagrams and plans and the Washington government has chipped in its share of funds to match those of the States. The State Highway departments direct the proceedings.

In looking around for practical objectives through which the Federal Government can do its share in furnishing employment to returning soldiers most of our Representatives on Capitol Hill are in favor of stimualting, in a very large way, a public works' program which will help cushion the shocks, occasioned by the transition of a war-time economy to a peace-time economy. Certainly money spent on American highways is for very necessary and worthy purposes.

COMPULSARY MILITARY TRAINING

Congress is giving preliminary consideration to the question of a year of military training for every American boy, at a point in the young man's life between high school and college. It would include all boys except those who are physically disabled.

This issue is right here before us, backed and supported by the President of the United States, and large blocs in the new Congress that will take office January 20. The proposal includes vocational and technical training and the fitness for service of about 1,250,000 18-year-olds every year.

According to the best information from Washington the plan will be pressed for action in Congress this winter, in an effort to pass laws for enforce-effort at a time in which the nation fully realizes and supports the necessities of war—or to state it differently, to get ahead of the apathy and objections to such legislation in the postwar period of peace.

Undoubtedly this will be a vital question within a few weeks, and we feel that the public should know what is in the wind, as this is the time for people to make up their minds to either support, or oppose this legislation, because it is now being assembled. With every community vitally interested in the subject it becomes a public, and a private duty of the individual to become well informed upon this vital and controversial subject.

A successful public sale is one that is advertised in The News. We can print your cards and do all the mailing.

OUT OF THE PAST

The Christmas and New Year Season brings to mind the gratitude that is in our hearts for all the blessings that have come our way. In the past the friends of this organization have made possible progress and a certain amount of prosperity. Through these friendships life has been an enjoyable experience, one in which we have the confidence and esteem of the people whom we serve. All we ask is the pleasure of a continuance of these fine relationships—so that we may look with a genuine enthusiasm toward the future.

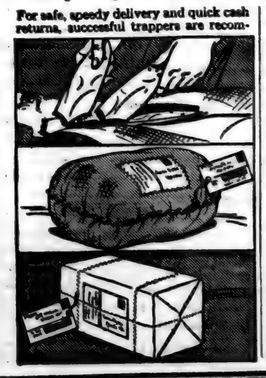
Speedy Delivery Means Quicker Returns

For safe, speedy delivery and quick cash returns, successful trappers are recommending these tried and tested methods of proper packing and shipping of raw furs:



Be sure all heavy grease and surplus fat is removed to prevent spoilage enroute, from warm weather or warm express or postal rooms.

Whenever possible, pack skins flat, one on top of another—never one inside another (lest it be overlooked). Avoid letting grease or skin-side of one pelt touch the fur side of another.

Wrap in burlap or cloth, or a box with a few ventilator holes punched in the sides to prevent spoilage. Never wrap green furs in paper or ship in air-tight containers!

For either express or parcel post shipping: Sew or glue to the outside of your bundle a sealed envelope carrying first class postage and containing any instructions regarding the shipment. Make sure your name and address appear on the shipment.

Ship by Express or Insured Parcel Post.

DeKalb County is "over the top" again in a war loan, this time the sixth. A total of $1,150,309 was reported in sales Tuesday as of the close of business on Saturday, December 16, in comparison with a quota of $1,055,900. Sales for all of December will count on the quota.

A plea to the American public to save every piece of Christmas wrapping for paper salvage has been made by J. A. Krug, chairman of the War Production Board. By placing on the salvage pile the festive wrappings that customarily go into the fireplace at Christmastime, Americans will be making an immense contribution to the war program. Paper is too precious this year to be burned for paper is a weapon with which we all can wage war for the American way of life. Paper is valuable—more valuable for many purposes than money—because money alone cannot purchase the paper that is needed for many military and life-saving tasks. Any and all types of waste paper are desperately needed. Heavy paper and paper board are especially important, and fancy and inner wrappings, tissue paper, Christmas cards, also represent valuable salvageable material.

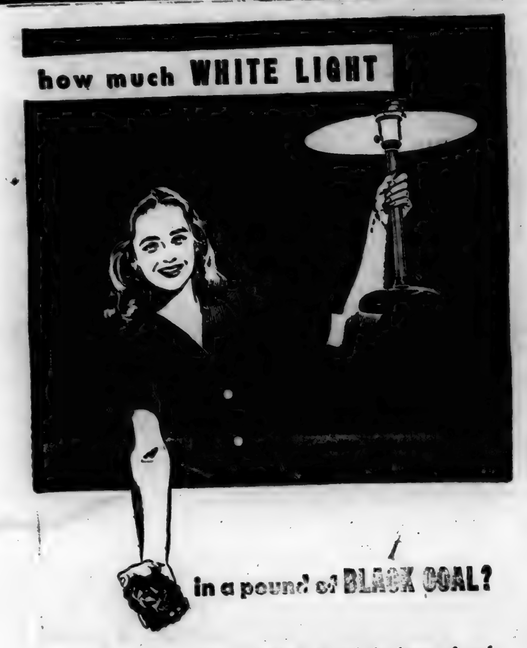
how much WHITE LIGHT



in a pound of BLACK COAL?

THE lamp has a 100-watt bulb in it and the lump of coal weighs one pound.

Pulverized and blown into the big boiler of a modern power-plant, a pound of coal* provides enough steam to generate one kilowatt-hour of electricity.

That much electricity, in turn, will light the lamp for ten hours — long enough to read this newspaper and a couple of novels. Or it will run a small radio for 25 hours, a food mixer for 13 hours, a washer for almost 7.

"So what?" you say. The point is this. 25 years ago, it took about three times as much coal to produce a kilowatt-hour of electricity as it does today!

The all-around efficiency which gets several times as much white light from black coal has benefited YOU in many ways.

It has made your electric service better and cheaper year by year. It has met tremendous wartime demands for electric power, without delay, shortages or rationing. It has held the price of electricity at an all-time low, while other costs went up.

These results come from the sound business management of the nation's light and power companies — and from the hard work of men and women who know their business — and who are preparing for even greater accomplishments tomorrow.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

The DeKalb County Home Economics Achievement program will be held on January 25 at the court house assembly room in Auburn, according to an announcement made by Mary Lenore Moore, home demonstration agent. The home economics Council made this decision at their regular meeting held in November. This is the first achievement program with an exhibit that has been held for three years and it is anticipated that a large number of homemakers will take part in bringing in exhibits for this achievement. This will be an all day meeting with registration in the forenoon starting at 10:00 and a tour of the new freezing locker in Auburn. The exhibits from each home economics club will also be put up in the forenoon. These exhibits will be made up of one or more lessons that have been given in the county by specialists, the home agent or local leaders. Club members are asked to bring card tables to place exhibits on.

The dinner will be served by the local organization or arrangements will be made with restaurants. In the afternoon the home economics chorus will give a special program and Miss Moore will give the picture of extension work in DeKalb County in 1944. Mrs. Floyd B. Kantzer will be the guest speaker and her topic will be Medical Missions. Mrs. Kantzer comes highly recommended to us as one who has had several years experience as a medical missionary nurse in India. Both Mr. and Mrs. Kantzer lived and worked there for a number of years.

The program in the afternoon will start at 1 o'clock. It is hoped that home economics members will place the date of January 25th as a very special one and plan to attend this meeting.

FRANK W. SILBERG DIES SUDDENLY

Monday evening at 11:30, the life of Frank W. Silberg suddenly came to an end at his home in Spencerville. He had complained of his back hurting him only a short time, and had worked his shift at the Wayne Pump and Tank Co., in Fort Wayne.

Frank was born on the Silberg farm near Spencerville and was 58 years old. Besides his wife and daughter he leaves a brother, Walter, of Ashley; three sisters, Lillie Shull of Auburn, and Kathryn Steward and Vera Silberg, of Garrett.

Rev. Frank Stevenson will conduct the funeral service from the Walter funeral home on Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, with burial in White City cemetery.

The LIONS CLUB

Twenty-three Lions and their wives were present at the Monday night session of the club at the Spencerville Methodist Church, where a delicious steak dinner was served.

The business was a minus quantity for this holiday gathering and Forrest Gerig, of Auburn, was introduced by Lion Duker, as the one to entertain for the evening.

Pictures were shown of a trip made to the Rieke Ranch in Montana, where 26,000 acres of mountain and range land are owned by the Auburn boys. The pictures were in the natural colors and were most gorgeous. As they were thrown on the screen Mr. Gerig gave a talk explaining the points of interest on this trip. The evening was a real treat to all.

LOCAL NEWS OF INTEREST

Russell Hallard, of Sherwood, has been assigned the B. & O. section and he took over the work Saturday. He will move to St. Joe next summer at the close of the school term.

The annual Free School Children's Christmas Party will be held at Auburn Court Theatre Friday afternoon the 22nd beginning at 2 P.M. and dismissal at 4:15. The program will be featured by a picture, "Christmas Carol" by Dickens, Carol singing and a free treat to all who attend. It is being sponsored this year by the American Legion Post No. 97, the Auxiliary, the Y. M. C. A. and the Theatre Management.

All the eating establishments in DeKalb Couty are filing under OPA regulations their complete menus together with prices. There were only five institutions in the county that were reprimanded by the District Office in Indianapolis for charging exorbitant prices on some items of food. There are 55 eating establishments in the county fully complying with the program, and the above five are planning to cooperate between now and Christmas.

Dear Friends:

Finally I have found time to drop you a few lines to let you know that nothing has happened to me as yet.

The other day Dallas Zimmerman and I had a grand reunion here on this rock. Due to military regulations I am not permitted to say where we are. Never the less that didn't stop us from having a grand time.

We talked mostly about our wives but occasionally we talked about old times spent in and around Spencerville and St. Joe. We both agreed that we would take home in preference to this.

We are planning on another day together. This place isn't very large but there is some very beautiful scenery that we both would like to see.

Write to us when ever you have the time. We may not have the time to answer all your letters but will be thinking of you just the same.

As Ever,

Ens. Harold J. Kagey.

SPENCERVILLE SUFFERS A HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE

Near the midnight hour Saturday, the St. Joe fire company was called upon to help fight a fire at Spencerville which threatened to destroy the general store owned by Doyle Fisher and nearby buildings. The fire started in an apartment over the store occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Fisher.

When the Auburn firemen arrived the blaze was making headway. The St. Joe and Grabill fire departments were on the scene early, but they were unable to bring the fire under control. St. Joe had a chemical truck and the supply of 32 charges was used on the fire. Grabill had a pumper and water was carried from cisterns to the Grabill truck, but the fire continued to spread. The Auburn firemen first pumped the cistern at the Spencerville school house dry and then laid 1,000 feet of hose to the St. Joe River. A hole was chopped in the ice and when this water was played on the blaze, considerable headway was made in controlling the fire. The Grabill department also hooked a small line onto the Auburn pumper.

The origin of the blaze is a mystery. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher had left at 10 o'clock Saturday night for Toledo, Ohio, to spend Christmas. They were reached by telephone and returned to Spencerville immediately. They lost all of their household furnishings in the apartment and some of the grocery stock which was on the second floor.

The building was a two-story brick and the firemen succeeded in saving the lower part of the structure. The interior of the second floor was badly damaged. Most of the stock of the store and showcases which were on the first floor were carried out by persons attracted to the scene. Other articles not removed were water soaked. Household goods from the Rally Markle residence nearby and the stock at a filling station on the south side of the burning building also were carried out as it was feared that these structures all would be consumed by the flames.

Mr. Fisher owned both the building and the store and he estimates his loss at from $6,000 to $7,000, fully covered by insurance. He had owned the store only since August 22 of this year, purchasing the business from Roy Bowser, who had operated the store from 1928 to 1944.

A canteen was set up at the Vendrely Station and hot coffee was served the firemen until late in the morning.

Adjusting of the insurance claim has not been made as yet, but the community is anxiously awaiting for Mr. Fisher to say that he will rebuild the business. To show just how much they are interested in the reopening of the store by Mr. Fisher, an amount exceeding $600 was raised Sunday and Monday by Raymond Foltz in Spencerville alone to be used in rehabilitating themselves. A rural committee composed of John Koch, Roy Chaney, M. H. Howey, and Mr. Newport, will solicit funds for the same purpose. This is a tradition of the Spencerville community, and this case is no exception.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this as one way to express our sincere and heartfelt thanks and appreciation to our many friends and neighors, also the fire departments who so kindly assisted us in saving our home on Saturday night, Dec. 23rd from the treacherous fire which destroyed the upper story and living quarters of Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Fisher, our next door neighbor's General Store. Without your untimely efforts in helping us we would have been unable to save our home. Again we thank you from the bottom of our hearts and assure you your kindness is very much appreciated and shall always be remembered by us.—Mrs. Rally Markle and Gaylon.

Just because a man makes his living by the pen doesn't mean he is a writer. He might raise hogs.

A Spencerville fellow wants to know what is as short-lived as that pen or pencil you bought that was guaranteed forever?

APPLES FOR FEED

A recent letter to the N. Y. Times, written in protest to the horrible waste of apples, suggested dehydrating plants and storage for waste apples. With peel and pits, the culls could make a pomace as bulk feed for cattle and serve as a blessing for farmers in a drought area. Apple pomace would save hay, can be stored from mice and rats and kept for years for palatable feed. It seems there will always be surplus apple crops but will it always be necessary to destroy a surplus supply that might serve a short feed area? When short in feed, short in milk production. When the farmer feeds his cattle, milk goes to town. This idea of apple pomace may have an appeal to some of our rural readers.

GETTING CARDS

What pleasure in getting a Christmas card from someone we hadn't heard from in years. Often you wondered whatever became of them, and here they are again, bearing a greeting and a personal note to remind you that no friends can take the place of old friends. You used to send them cards each Christmas but somehow in the shuffle, you all drifted apart. You welcome them back to your card list and resolve to write them a long letter right after Christmas. You probably won't, but at least you want to. Perhaps each of us in St. Joe should think of the extra pleasure from the cards we mail, if we write a few lines of affectionate regard with a personal touch.

EVER A FREE PRESS

Congress says one of the wartime aims is freedom of the press. This is vital, the establishment of presenting truthful news to the people. It is equally important that there is a universal free press and communication system. The U. S. has been a leader in the principle of service thru true and unbiased news. Great Britain has a free press but China and the Soviet Union have not.

There are many times we criticise news being withheld, have felt suppression of facts and infringement on the right of a free press. But we must realise certain circumstances make this necessary. Anything as powerful and imposing as the press, will be apt to make mistakes itself. But it will not accept unjust rebuffs and 'squeezes,' without exercising its protest to the public, in print. Might that all nations were so free.

INDISPENSABLE MEN

Bernard Baruch has not attracted much attention in Washington of late, but he'll be back in due time with a full assortment of good ideas to "make the world safe for Democracy"—or something else.

Harry Hopkins is again in the limelight—and is given credit in Washington for shuffling up the State Department and filling it with a crew of young men—called "young blood" in Washington.

Perhaps you remember Leon Henderson. Well, he's back in the New Deal and is slated to become some kind of economic dictator in conquered European territory, before or after Germany folds up.

Attorney General Biddle has been kept very busy explaining his personal friendship with Tommy Corcoran, and he told the Senate Committee on Immigration that he did not approve suggestions by Corcoran for the settlement of the famous Savannah Shipyards case—or anything else. Tommy Corcoran goes marching on, and, like Sidney Hillman, he continues to hold front place among indispensable men.

WILD STUFF

There is an official report from the Department of Interior that says there are "550 wild horses, most of which have never known captivity" in a part of Wyoming that is under the direction of Secretary Harold Ickes. Twenty-five to thirty head of these horses are captured daily by airplane round-ups. The official bulletin from the Department says flying cowboys are performing miracles that were beyond possibilities of wild horses and cowboys. Believe it or not—this is from an official report.

RURAL HOUSEWIVES CLUB

The Christmas all-day meeting of the Rural Housewives Club was held last week at the home of Mrs. Hazel Washler. At the dinner hour all were seated at the dining room table centered with an electric lighted snow white Christmas tree, resting on a large round mirror and poinsettias. The table was full of the carry-in dishes and the big platter of chicken and all the trimmings served by the hostess.

The meeting at 2 o'clock was called to order by the reading of the 2nd chapter of Luke and singing of "Silent Night." Mrs. Wilder conducted a responsive reading and song based on the Nativity of the Christ. Special numbers were given by Mrs. Winifred Hart and Mrs. Belle Woodcox. Roll call response, Christmas greetings. Distribution and giver of gifts was identified by an original verse which proved very entertaining.

Election of officers followed. President, Mrs. Minnie Gee; vice president, Mrs. Inez Hadsell; secretary, Mrs. Belle Woodcox; assistant, Mrs. Winifred Hart; treasurer, Mrs. Gladys Hart; press correspondent, Mrs. Pluma Hamilton.

Next meeting will be with Mrs. Hamilton, Dec. 27, 1944.

TAKE GOOD CARE OF YOUR Electric Range

"IT ISN'T what you earn, it's what you save" might be well paraphrased into: "It isn't what you have, it's what you hold," especially where an electric range is concerned. No longer does the war-trained housewife even think of a repairman — today, it's take care of your own, and Cleanliness heads this as well as so many other lists.

Follow the suggestions at right. It will pay big dividends. Your electric range will be assured of a longer and more effective life—food will taste better, labor time will be shortened in the long run, and you will have pride in achievement.

To Clean Top Units

If you have enclosed units and have spilled food on them, turn on the switch to char the food. Let unit cool, wipe with damp cloth or use stiff brush.

Next clean the unit pans. Raise unit carefully, remove pan from underneath. Keep these pans washed and shining so they will reflect the heat.

To Clean the Oven

First lift out heat distributor; rub it with baking soda and water or mild abrasive. Wipe with damp cloth. Dry.

Next remove all oven units, both upper and lower; make sure they are cool. Grasp frame, pull out straight—forcing may bend prongs. Then clean oven units, which may be open or closed just as you cleaned the open or closed top units. Wash inside with soapy water and mild abrasive—don't scratch. Replace distributor and units with care.

Methodists are Launching Crusade to Continue for Three Year Period

CRUSADE FOR CHRIST

1. A Crusade for a New World Order.

Our people must see that it is not eonugh to believe in brotherhood as a general proposition. It must be expressed in concrete measures. These measures must be supported by the people at the time the decision is taken by the representatives of the people. Therefore we not only talk about world peace, we are taking measures to educate our people that a just and lasting pease is the only Christian action to be taken at this critical time, in order to save ourselves from utter destruction.

2nd. phase of the Crusade for Christ is World Relief and Reconstruction.

The centers of much of the work Christian forces have been doing throughout the world have been destroyed by the ravages of war; churches; hospitals; schools; and colleges, institutions of all kinds have suffered widespread destruction. It must be emphatically stated that $25,000,000 is but a small portion of the amount actually needed by the Methodist Church for rehabilitation.

We live in a land of plenty and we have not experienced the destruction of our homes by bombs.....therefore let us share with those who lay in desolation. Women and children are the innocent sufferers of war. Clothing and food must go to these people. Let us begin to sacrifice some of the pleasantries and comforts of our homes and let these peoples see that we are sensitive to their needs. This attitude and spirit of unselfish giving will be the means of causing many to become Christian. The year of 1945 we plan this extensive program. The Concord Methodist has already given $160.

3rd. phase of the Crusade: Increased Church School Enrollment and Attendance.

Our primary job is to change the lives of boys and girls, men and women, so that they may become Christians in all their attitudes and relationships in life. This calls for a higher type of educational service than most of our churches provides for the people. While we quicken and extend our efforts to increase our Church School attendance, we cannot afford to slacken in our efforts to grip the minds of our people with Christian truth. O Lord, speak to us through our teachers in the Sundays to come. Amen.

4th. phase of the Crusade: Church Wide Evangelism.

For the year 1946 we must give ourselves to the special cause to bring men and women and boys and girls to Christ. Each phase of the Crusade must work as a major undertaking, and will be given the right of way in the church. We know beforehand what the objectives are and we are challenged to reach them. Boys and girls of the church will be expected to consecrate their lives to the Christian Imperative. Some will become pastors, some evangelists, some missionaries and many young ladies will go into the nursing field. One pastor in Ft. Wayne has already presented the need for Christian workers and two young men have nobly consecrated their lives to the Christian ministry. We must begin to say to ourselves, "What may we do to revive our local congregation so that the fallow ground may be prepared for our young folks to make similar decisions."

5th. phase of the Crusade: Church Wide Stewardship.

Over a period of three years, we are given an opportunity to give of our wealth. By January 31, 1946 we hope to raise the sum of $25,000,000 by cash. The General Conference has proposed to divide this special fund as follows. (Many of our friends and members have wanted this information....here it is.)

Foreign Fields	$14,667,500
Home Felds	8,802,500
American Bible Society	240,000
Other causes (including forseen contingencies and other items)	1,290,000
Total	$25,000,000

In the process of the spiritual life stewardship logically follows evangelism. We have an opportunity to brother the world such as never came to any people before. Crises for the Good Samaritan arise on every side. The need is colossal. This is a small amount when we consider what needs to be done. The Jews and some of the smaller Protestant groups, like the Mennonites, have put the rest of us to shame by the outpouring of their relief offerings.

WHAT HAVE WE DONE FOR CHRIST?

One of our Spencerville members pledged $100.00 for the three years. This means $33.00 a year. Our quota for the Charge is $1302.

Your Pastor,
Mason Buckner.

NEWS FROM COUNTY AGENT

The most popular and efficient methods of curing meat at home include the dry cure and the brine cure, states Mary Lenore Moore, county home demonstration agent. On the farm, however, the volume of meat is usually not sufficient to use both curing methods.

The dry cure is a little more rapid than the brine cure and has the further advantage of not requiring a water tight container. With this method the dry mixture of ingredients is simply rubbed on the meat. One very satisfactory mixture is the 8-3-3, meaning that for 100 pounds of meat there is mixed 8 pounds of salt, 3 pounds of sugar, and 3 ounces of salt peter. These ingredients should be thoroughly mixed and then about half of the mixture applied to the pieces of meat. Care should be exercised here to work the mixture into each piece of meat with a slow, kneading motion. Some should be forced in alongside the bone at the knee, hock, and aitch-bone joints and along the cut surfaces.

These pieces should then be packed in clean, dry containers of either wood, cement, or earthenware. At the end of 7 or 8 days they should be removed and the remainder of the mixture applied. Then they are repacked, reversing the order of the pieces from top to bottom. The pieces should be allowed to cure for three days per pound for hams and shoulders and two days per pound for the bacon, when cured, remove, rinse in warm water and hang to drain for ten to twelve hours before smoking.

For the brine or pickle cure, the 8-2-2 mixture is dissolved in 4½ gallons of boiling water. It is a good plan to boil the brine, skim it, and allow it to cool. This sterilizes it. One half of the dry mixture is applied to the meat in the same manner as with the dry boiling water. The pieces of meat should be packed in the container, skin side down on all except the top ones, and the cooled brine added to completely cover the meat. A weight should be put on top to keep all pieces immersed. During the curing period, the container of meat should be kept in a cool, dry room with a temperature not over 40° F.

Within a week the meat should be repacked and the order reversed to insure a more uniform cure. The same length of time should be observed as for the dry cure; and at the close of the curing period the meat should be rinsed in warm water and hung to drain for a few hours before being smoked.

DEKALB COUNTY TAX MONEY IS DISBURSED

Disbursement of $285,017.12, representing last fall's collections of taxes, is reported by County Auditor Burley Ensley, on Friday.

This made a total of $643,437.36 for the year 1944, which is $79,719 more than in 1943, an increase of more than 14 per cent, due to increased levies and higher valuations of property.

The editor and wife fared pretty well this Christmas in remembrances from friends by way of greetings by card and letters. Two of our correspondents supplied us with a dressed chicken, some nice fresh sausage and a lovely fruit cake. To say we appreciate these, would be putting it mildly, but really Christmas seems like a time when the family all comes home and these friends are really classed as ours.

A large crowd heard the Christmas Cantata, "Oh Little Town of Bethlehem," Sunday afternoon at the Spencerville Lutheran Church, given by the Spencerville Community Choir, and under the leadership of Rev. The audience was very complimentary in their remarks over the success of the program, and those participating were well paid for the time spent in preparing the music for the holiday season.

Issuance of emergency gasoline rations for trucks was discontinued December 20, for the remainder of December. An announced agreement by the Office of Price Administration, which issues the rations, and the Office of Defense Transportation, which approves them, was sent to all local war price and rationing boards. Heads of the two agencies pointed out that the truckers will obtain their renewals between December 20 and January 1, depending upon the speed with which boards can meet their clerical duties. No supply problem is involved in the agreement to discontinue the emergency rations, it was announced. The decision was made to permit the local boards to speed up their work on the renewals. ODT officials pointed out also that the brief period of time remaining was not sufficient to accommodate those applying. A week or more is necessary in the processing of applications. they stated.
